Autonomy and Self-Respect Thomas E. Hill, 1991-07-26 This stimulating collection of essays in ethics eschews the simple exposition and refinement of abstract theories Rather the author focuses on everyday moral issues often neglected by philosophers and explores the deeper theoretical questions which they raise Such issues are Is it wrong to tell a lie to protect someone from a painful truth Should one commit a lesser evil to prevent another from doing something worse Can one be both autonomous and compassionate Other topics discussed are servility weakness of will suicide obligations to oneself snobbery and environmental concerns A feature of the collection is the contrast of Kantian and utilitarian answers to these problems The essays are crisply and lucidly written and will appeal to both teachers and students of philosophy

Arguments and Fists Mika LaVaque Manty, 2002-03-22 Many theorists have addressed a central concern of current political theory by contending that the dithering intellectualism of left politics prevents genuine political action Arguments and Fists confronts this concern by refuting these arguments and reconciling philosophical debates with the realities of current activism By looking at theorists such as Montesquieu Kant Rousseau the book contradicts current academic debates and also goes against contemporary theory's image of the liberal political agent as a narrowly rational abstraction Mika LaVaque Manty also argues that progressive political philosophy and political action go hand in hand He then ventures past Kant and Rousseau to talk about specific environmental activism finding middle ground between the two while asserting that the liberal urge for political reform stems from sound philosophical considerations about the nature of politics and isn't the cowardly afterthoughts some theorists have called it Arguments and Fists then puts these theoretical insights to use examining environmental justice movements and varieties of environmental radicalism showing how liberal theory illuminates concrete contemporary political practices
