Full Writings - Metropolitan Antony (Khrapovitsky) - Vol. 2 - 3 Metr. Antony (Khrapovitsky), Wealth without work Pleasure without conscience Science without humanity Knowledge without character Politics without principle Commerce without morality Worship without sacrifice <https://vidjambov.blogspot.com/2023/01/book-inventory-vladimir-djambov-talmach.html> In our Russian public life it was just such a fall as in the life of Peter One writer who fought against the enemies of Christ by the power of philosophical and then apologetic research was apparently upset that the truth itself conquers the enemies so slowly and so imperceptibly It was probably bitter for him to see Christ's faith neglected by high society and trampled down with impunity by the nihilists depraving youths and now instead of working through spiritual grace and science to achieve such spiritual gifts through the grace of God before which the wiles of the enemies of Christ would fall this thinker began to think about the organization of such public church state orders in which no one could enslave or insult the church in which the power of the church would act unhindered and triumphantly defeated its enemies If he had learned and taught us for this purpose to become Chrysostom or Gregory to acquire the love of John the Theologian or the power of the Apostle Paul oh then who would not thank him But he began to look for other means state dispensations he drew a sword like Peter and perishes noting lies and ruins his followers He fell into that terrible pit of delusions where any zealot of the church would naturally fall out of reason he gradually and consistently began to lean toward the doctrine that elevated violence into law into that terrible ditch of papism which having begun to be jealous of Christ outwardly expelled Him from his society and put the sinful man in place of Christ Now we have to state the very rebirth of man according to Dostoevsky from the side of the influence of one will on another Our writer has a very conscious view of this subject he is not limited to an artistically correct but impartial description of two or three cases of conversion like Leo Tolstoy in his last two novels where the heroes like Levin Bezukhov and Volynsky under very vague influences come to uncertain results having established themselves firmly only in condemnation of former selfishness and determination to follow a compassionate feeling True there is a considerable artistic and philosophical merit in this so Tolstoy himself looks at such types as the most important in his work but they are in his thick novels like two or three odorous violets in a huge bouquet of beautiful but devoid of zapaxa flowers Dostoevsky's as said all primary and secondary heroes revolve around their conscience and call for repentance and renewal as many planets circle in different orbits around one sun Let us add now that the striking richness of the content of his many stories is not created by the heterogeneity of types and the differences between the described areas of their inner life no his planets are not numerous and the orbits of the revolutions remain the same but the artist painting in different stories and in different faces the same types it changes their position in the orbit of life that is when they turn to the moral sun either on one or the other side One and the same character but in different positions and ages at different levels of his conversion or on the contrary bitterness goes through a dozen stories with him so Raskolnikov is the same Ivan Karamazov the Old Prince of the Humiliated is the same Fedor Pavlovich Karamazov and Versilov the mother of Raskolnikov and the mother of the Teenager the father of the latter and Stavrogin Demons the husband of Krotkoy and the husband Akulkin in Dead House etc etc are all variants of several few types Dostoevsky also has few plots with the plot and denouement whether there are a dozen or so plots and types hardly And if for all that the reader not only does not notice the repetitions and does not feel bored when reading his stories but on the contrary becomes even more interested in them the more he has already read them then it is clear that the variety of material that has manifested itself in such a variety of materials all stages of spiritual development this kind of table of multiplication of a polynomial by a polynomial executed by the author sinfully in other words he was able with complete life truth to depict the whole ladder of spiritual struggle with each direction of his own type and this is only given to someone who combines an artist with a connoisseur of the laws of the phenomena described that is a psychologist and even a theologian For the reader who wants to check the author the completeness of his essays is especially convenient because it completely eliminates the suspicion of an accidental individual character of one or other changes in the inner life of literary heroes but gives the author's foundations just mathematical convincingness if all characters are of different ages genders and provisions thus referring to the well known call of life came to complete inner harmony and began to bring happiness and love everywhere referring the opposite about instantly became on the road to suicide and from the middle path they were opposed by will against their own system of their own nature it is clear and mathematically incontrovertible that the first path is the right path the only one saving etc The same certainty of views is established by Dostoevsky on the question of the reviving influence of one will on another and it will not be difficult to verify that based on such certainty the author has some theological and metaphysical ideas although as said does not subordinate them to reality but deduces the first from the last one or even himself does not output and unconsciously guided by them in their creative work to authorize the following conclusions readers themselves

Jesus' Death in New Testament Thought Volume 2: Texts David A. Brondos, 2018-04-25 Jesus Death in New Testament Thought is unlike anything written on the subject to date It represents a radical break with the traditional models or theories of atonement based on ideas such as penal substitution participation in Christ and the Christus Victor motif claiming that all of these ideas as commonly understood are foreign to New Testament thought On the basis of his analysis of second temple Jewish thought Brondos demonstrates that for Jews in antiquity what atoned for sins and led people to be declared righteous in God s sight was not sacrifice suffering or death in themselves but the renewed commitment to living in accordance with God s will which they manifested by means of their sacrificial offerings and at times their willingness to endure suffering and death out of faithfulness to that will According to the thought of Jesus first followers in accordance with a divine plan conceived of before the ages in Jesus God had sent his Son in order to establish around him a community of people fully committed to practicing the love justice solidarity and righteousness associated with God's will for all Jesus dedication to this task led to confrontation and conflict with the powers and authorities of his day who sought to silence him by having him put to death Because he stood firm and remained faithful to that task rather than backing down from it he was crucified on a Roman cross Paradoxically however in this way he laid the basis for the existence of the community God had desired from the start stamping it forever as one to which no one could truly belong without assuming the same firm commitment to Jesus and everything for which he had lived and died Those who form part of this community living out of faith under Jesus as their risen Lord come to practice God's will as redefined through Jesus and on that basis are forgiven and accepted as righteous by God Thus by giving up his life out of love for others in faithfulness to the task his Father had given him Jesus has attained the redemption reconciliation cleansing and justification of those who now live under his lordship as members of the worldwide community of believers from all nations that God has established through him and his death in fulfillment of the promises that God had made of old to his people Israel In Volume 1 Brondos looks to the relevant texts from antiquity to trace the background and development of these ideas His argument will leave the reader with no doubt that Jesus first followers understood the salvific significance of his death or blood in the manner just outlined and therefore that the traditional interpretations of his death that have prevailed from patristic times to the present do not reflect faithfully their thought as we find it in the New Testament In Volume 2 Brondos examines the formulaic allusions to Jesus death that we find scattered throughout the New Testament and other early Christian writings so as to demonstrate that these are precisely the ideas that lie behind those allusions At the same time through his analysis of the writings of Melito of Sardis and Irenaeus of Lyons he provides clear evidence that by the late second century ideas that are foreign to those texts began to be read back into them with the result that the original understandings of Jesus death that had developed among his first followers came to be replaced by other understandings that run contrary to their thought In his Conclusion Brondos argues that only by rejecting the traditional models of atonement and returning to the New Testament teaching on this central doctrine can the Christian church respond effectively to the crisis it faces today and bring about the restoration of the type of communities envisioned by Jesus and his first followers
