Making Sense Of Literature

Roger D. Sell

Making Sense Of Literature:

Making Sense Ralf Hertel, 2021-07-26 Fiction is fascinating All it provides us with is black letters on white pages yet while we read we do not have the impression that we are merely perceiving abstract characters Instead we see the protagonists before our inner eye and hear their voices Descriptions of sumptuous meals make our mouths water we feel physically repelled by depictions of violence or are aroused by the erotic details of sexual conquests We submerge ourselves in the fictional world that no longer stays on the paper but comes to life in our imagination Reading turns into an out of the body experience or rather an in another body experience for we perceive the portrayed world not only through the protagonist's eyes but also through his ears nose tongue and skin In other words we move through the literary text as if through a virtual reality How does literature achieve this trick How does it turn mere letters into vividly experienced worlds This study argues that techniques of sensuous writing contribute decisively to bringing the text to life in the reader's imagination In detailed interpretations of British novels of the 1980s and 1990s by writers such as John Berger John Banville Salman Rushdie Jeanette Winterson or J M Coetzee it uncovers literary strategies for turning the sensuous experience into words and for conveying it to the reader demonstrating how we make sense in and of literature Both readers interested in the contemporary novel and in the sensuousness of the reading experience will profit from this innovative study that not only analyses the interest of contemporary authors in the senses but also pin points literary entry points for the sensuous force of reading

Making Sense in Life and Literature Hans Ulrich Gumbrecht, 1992 What Happens in Literature

Edward W. Rosenheim, 1961 How can we become good readers In this classic handbook Edward W Rosenheim lays out the basics that can help us all become sharper more proficient readers Looking at specific poems novels and plays this excellent critical guide raises questions and offers suggestions designed to make us think more and enjoy more fully what we are reading Designed for students of literature as well as those who simply like to read What Happens in Literature helps readers appreciate literary works as unique creations born in a particular time and place but powerful enough to speak across centuries

Literary Pragmatics (Routledge Revivals) Roger D. Sell, 2014-10-14 Up until the mid 1980s most pragmatic analysis had been done on spoken language use considerably less on written use and very little at all on literary activity This has now radically changed Pragmatics could be informally defined as the study of relationships between language and its users This volume first published in 1991 seeks to reposition literary activity at the centre of that study The internationally renowned contributors draw together two main streams On the one hand there are concerns which are close to the syntax and semantics of mainstream linguistics and on the other there are concerns ranging towards anthropological linguistics socio and psycholinguistics Literary Pragmatics represents an antidote to the fragmenting specialization so characteristic of the humanities in the twentieth century This book will be of lasting value to students of linguistics literature and society Roger D Sell discusses the reissue of Literary Pragmatics here http://www.routledge.com/articles/roger_d

Addressing Frank Kermode Margaret Tudeau-Clayton, Martin Warner, 1991 Theories of Reading Karin Littau, 2006-12-04 Bringing insights from book history to bear on literary history and theory this book points to a split between literary study that regards reading as a reducibly mental activity and a tradition reaching back to antiquity which assumed that reading was not only about sense making but also about sensation

How Literary Worlds Are Shaped Bo Pettersson, 2016-09-12 Literary studies still lack an extensive comparative analysis of different kinds of literature including ancient and non Western How Literary Worlds Are Shaped A Comparative Poetics of Literary Imagination aims to provide such a study Literature it claims is based on individual and shared human imagination which creates literary worlds that blend the real and the fantastic mimesis and genre often modulated by different kinds of unreliability The main building blocks of literary worlds are their oral visual and written modes and three themes challenge perception and relation They are blended and inflected in different ways by combinations of narratives and figures indirection thwarted aspirations meta usages hypothetical action as well as hierarchies and blends of genres and text types Moreover literary worlds are not only constructed by humans but also shape their lives and reinforce their sense of wonder Finally ten reasons are given in order to show how this comparative view can be of use in literary studies In sum How Literary Worlds Are Shaped is the first study to present a wide ranging and detailed comparative account of the makings of literary worlds The Trouble with

Literature Victoria Ann Kahn, 2020 This book argues that the literature of the English Reformation marks a turning point in Western thinking about literature and literariness Victoria Kahn contrasts modern and early modern understandings of the terms and focuses on the works of Thomas Hobbes John Milton Immanuel Kant Søren Kierkegaard and J M Coetzee
