Making Subjects:

Foucault and the Making of Subjects Laura Cremonesi, Orazio Irrera, Daniele Lorenzini, Martina Tazzioli, 2016-10-10
Michel Foucault's account of the subject has a double meaning it relates to both being a subject of and being subject to political forces This book interrogates the philosophical and political consequences of such a dual definition of the subject by exploring the processes of subjectivation and objectivation through which subjects are produced Drawing together well known scholars of Foucaultian thought and critical theory alongside a newly translated interview with Foucault himself the book will engage in a serious reconsideration of the notion of autonomy beyond the liberal tradition connecting it to processes of subjectivation In the face of the ongoing proliferation of analyses using the notion of subjectivation this book will retrace Foucault's reflections on it and interrogate the current theoretical and political implications of a series of approaches that mobilize the Foucaultian understanding of the subject in relation to truth and power

Making Subjects of Formula (Elementary Math Algebra) Lee Jun Cai, Chapter 4 Making Subjects of Formulae In Chapter 4 we explore the important skill of manipulating formulae to make a specific variable the subject of the equation This chapter is key for solving problems in algebra science and engineering where understanding and rearranging formulae is essential You will learn how to isolate any variable in a formula and rewrite it in terms of other variables What You'll Learn Understanding Formulae Begin by understanding what a formula is and how it relates different variables Learn how formulae are used in real world applications from physics to finance Rearranging Simple Formulae Start with simple algebraic formulae and practice moving terms around to make one variable the subject You'll master the process of isolating variables through addition subtraction multiplication and division Rearranging Complex Formulae Build on your skills to tackle more complex formulae with multiple variables You'll learn how to apply the same principles to equations that involve more terms and operations including powers and roots Making One Variable the Subject Focus on how to isolate a specific variable within a formula whether it's a linear quadratic or fractional equation You'll gain confidence in working with a wide variety of expressions Formulae Involving Fractions Learn techniques for handling formulae that contain fractions including how to multiply both sides of an equation by the denominator to eliminate fractions and isolate the required variable By the end of this chapter you'll have the skills to rearrange and manipulate formulae to solve for any variable You'll be able to approach a wide range of algebraic problems and apply these techniques in everyday problem solving Let me know if you'd like to make any adjustments or add further details

Masking Selves, Making Subjects Taise Yamamoto, 1999-01-06 This sophisticated and comprehensive study is the first to situate Japanese American women's writing within theoretical contexts that provide a means of articulating the complex relationships between language and the body gender and agency nationalism and identity Through an examination of post World War II autobiographical writings fiction and poetry Taise Yamamoto argues that these writers have employed the trope of masking textually and psychologically as a strategy to create an alternative discursive practice and to protect the self as subject Yamamoto's range is broad and her interdisciplinary approach yields richly textured in depth readings of a number of genres including film and travel narrative Looking at how the West has sexualized infantilized and feminized Japanese culture for over a century she examines contemporary Japanese American women's struggle with this orientalist fantasy Analyzing the various constraints and possibilities that these writers negotiate in order to articulate their differences she shows how masking serves as a self affirming discourse that dynamically interacts with mainstream culture's racial and sexual projections

Making Things Better A. David Napier, 2013-12-09 In Making Things Better A David Napier demonstrates how anthropological description of non Western exchange practices and beliefs can be a tonic for contemporary economic systems in which our impersonal relationship to things transforms the animate elements of social life into inanimate sets of commodities Such a fundamental transformation Napier suggests makes us automatons in globally integrated social circuits that generate a cast of winners and losers engaged in hostile competition for wealth and power Our impersonal relations to things and to people as well are so ingrained in our being we take them for granted as we sleepwalk through routine life Like the surrealist artists of the 1920s who through their art poetry films and photography fought a valiant battle against mind numbing conformity Napier provides exercises and practices designed to shock the reader from their wakeful sleep These demonstrate powerfully the positively integrative social effects of more socially entangled non Western orientations to things and to people His arguments also have implications for the rights and legal status of indigenous peoples which are drawn out in the course of the book

Stanton, 2008-03-25 In economic experiments decisions often differ from game theoretic predictions Why are people generous in one shot ultimatum games with strangers Is there a benefit to generosity toward strangers Research on the neural substrates of decisions suggests that some choices are hormone dependent By artificially stimulating subjects with neuroactive hormones we can identify which hormones and brain regions participate in decision making to what degree and in what direction Can a hormone make a person generous while another stingy In this paper two laboratory experiments are described using the hormones oxytocin OT and arginine vasopressin AVP Concentrations of these hormones in the brain continuously change in response to external stimuli OT enhances trust Michael Kosfeld et al 2005b reduce fear from strangers C Sue Carter 1998 and has anti anxiety effects Kerstin Uvnäs-Moberg Maria Peterson 2005 AVP enhances attachment and bonding with kin in monogamous male mammals Jennifer N Ferguson et al 2002 and increases reactive aggression C Sue Carter 2007 Dysfunctions of OT and/or AVP reception have been associated with autism Miranda M Lim et al 2005 The Psychology of Economic Decisions Isabelle Brocas, Juan D. Carrillo, 2003 Psychologists have a long tradition of studying human behavior strengths and weaknesses biases and limitations Economists have constructed normative frameworks that capture the most important elements of human decision making and developed powerful tools to determine individual and strategic choices in a variety of situations Only recently have their strengths been combined and economic models enriched with key ingredients found in psychological studies This volume covers four of the most important themes in this interdisciplinary field feelings inconsistencies limitations and biases Each chapter contributes to a more comprehensive and accurate modelling and description of human behavior Its four parts cover the origins formation and evolution of beliefs consistency commitment and intertemporal separability of dynamic choices attention preference formation and risk evaluation in limited cognition and affective behaviour specifically the role of emotions in decision making

Recovering the Human Subject James Laidlaw, Barbara Bodenhorn, Martin Holbraad, 2018-02-15 This volume responds to the often proclaimed death of the subject in post structuralist theorizing and to calls from across the social sciences for post humanist alternatives to liberal humanism in a distinctively anthropological manner It asks can we use the intellectual resources developed in those approaches and debates to reconstruct a new account of how individual human subjects are contingently put together in diverse historical and ethnographic contexts Anthropologists know that the people they work with think in terms of particular distinctive individual human personalities and that in times of change and crisis these individuals matter crucially to how things turn out The volume features a classic essay by Caroline Humphrey Reassembling individual subjects that provides a focus for the debate and it brings together a distinguished collection of essays which exhibit a range of theoretical approaches and rich and varied ethnography

Habeas Corpus Paul D. Halliday, 2025-09-01 We call habeas corpus the Great Writ of Liberty But it was actually a writ of power In a work based on an unprecedented study of thousands of cases across more than five hundred years Paul Halliday provides a sweeping revisionist account of the world s most revered legal device In the decades around 1600 English judges used ideas about royal power to empower themselves to protect the king s subjects The key was not the prisoner s right to liberty these are modern idioms but the possible wrongs committed by a jailer or anyone who ordered a prisoner detained This focus on wrongs gave the writ the force necessary to protect ideas about rights as they developed outside of law This judicial power carried the writ across the world from Quebec to Bengal Paradoxically the representative impulse most often expressed through legislative action did more to undermine the writ than anything else And the need to control imperial subjects would increasingly constrain judges The imperial experience is thus crucial for making sense of the broader sweep of the writ s history and of English law Halliday s work informed the 2008 U S Supreme Court ruling in Boumediene v Bush on prisoners in the Guant namo detention camps His eagerly anticipated book is certain to be acclaimed the definitive history of habeas corpus

Let My Children Go, Ye Leviathans (Governments) Kwei-Armah , This book looks at the traditional answer to the question of man s freedom on earth the answer that holds that for man to be free he needs to be made to become a perpetual subject And dismisses it This work submits that man is not born to be a subject but a free man Because it contends that contrary to Rousseau s thoughts man is born in chains and that it is these chains that he must learn to break to be free It subsequently submits that for man to be able to break his chains he needs to be made to become his true self and shows how to make man become his true self      Aging in Place Ellen D Taira,Jodi Carlson,2014-02-24 Provide a comfortable living environment for the aging Aging in Place Designing Adapting and Enhancing the Home Environment gives you a complete examination of current trends in adaptive home designs for older adults As a therapist designer architect builder home planner social worker community organizer or gerontologist Aging in Place will show you innovative home designs and studies for creating environments that offer optimal living for aging adults Complete with diagrams floor plans and tables Aging in Place helps you to improve the quality of life for the elderly by offering them state of the art designs that encourage independence and dignity This unique and exciting book covers topics such as universal design which strives to create everyday environments and products like door handles and light switches that are usable by all people to the greatest extent possible regardless of age or ability Aging in Place will also show you how to use follow up visits by occupational therapists to ensure successful use of home modifications create environments that are helpful for vision rehabilitation by using controlled lighting and color schemes evaluate the quality of life for elderly people living in personal dwellings specialized housing and nursing homes explore architectural barriers and the uses of helping devices for elderly people examine research critiques of adaptive toilet equipment investigate modifications that have been made in homes for the elderly in India analyze ways in which elderly people have changed their homes to make the telephone more accessible Aging in Place is a complete guide to understanding the needs and latest trends in optimizing the living space of elderly persons The book gives you access to several studies on elderly people s environmental needs and preferences in regard to modifications in personal and public dwellings This information will assist you with better serving the elderly by helping them live more independently      The Handbook of Forensic Psychology Irving B. International Economic Organizations in the International Legal Process Sergei A. Voitovich,2023-08-28

Voitovich presents a clear and lucid discussion of the manner and form in which international economic organizations IEOs participate in two main stages of the international legal process law making and law implementation The book is based on normative instruments and fragments of practice of about fifty IEOs In order to ensure a proper and timely realization of their normative acts IEOs exercise a number of law implementing functions which are subject to a thorough comparative examination The author concludes that existing IEOs not being ideal institutional models possess a sufficient arsenal of law implementing instruments to make a considerable impact on the international legal regulations in the economic field The book will be of interest to academics and economic political scientists      Vocational Education.
