Making The City Boundaries:

Cities Made of Boundaries Benjamin N. Vis, 2018-09-17 Cities Made of Boundaries presents the theoretical foundation and concepts for a new social scientific urban morphological mapping method Boundary Line Type BLT Mapping Its vantage is a plea to establish a frame of reference for radically comparative urban studies positioned between geography and archaeology Based in multidisciplinary social and spatial theory a critical realist understanding of the boundaries that compose built space is operationalised by a mapping practice utilising Geographical Information Systems GIS Benjamin N Vis gives a precise account of how BLT Mapping can be applied to detailed historical reconstructed contemporary and archaeological urban plans exemplified by sixteenth to twenty first century Winchester UK and Classic Maya Chunchucmil Mexico This account demonstrates how the functional and experiential difference between compact western and tropical dispersed cities can be explored The methodological development of Cities Made of Boundaries will appeal to readers interested in the comparative social analysis of built environments and those seeking to expand the evidence base of design options to structure urban life and development

Boundaries of the City Alan Waterhouse, 1994-12-15 In this study Alan Waterhouse draws on anthropological social and cultural history literature and philosophy to reach an understanding of the roots of Western architecture and city building He explores the illusion that cities are constructed to impose rational order an order articulated through urban boundaries These boundaries he finds are shaped around our instinctive fears and insecurities about crime insurrection and the violent disruption of everyday life At the same time contrary instincts aspire to create a unified domain to proclaim the interdependence of things through constructed work Cities are shaped less by rational design than by a recurring dialectic of boundary formation These impulses underlie the formal vocabulary of architecture and urbanism Waterhouse follows them through the theories ideologies and styles that seem to govern city buildings he finds their presence in the creation of territorial divisions and also wherever the cityscape has been shaped by a poetic imagination Tracing his narrative of urban boundaries from antiquity to the birth of modernism Waterhouse discovers some stubborn legacies that bind contemporary urban design to the past Part One explores the boundary dialectic in our regard for deities for nature and for one another and then as a powerful influence on architectural invention and our ways of life Part Two traces these themes through city building history to show how architecture and human relatedness are subordinated by boundary formation in the cycles of urbanization Electronic Format Disclaimer Image 6 5 removed at the request of the rights holder

City Making Gerald E. Frug, 2001-02-20 American metropolitan areas today are divided into neighborhoods of privilege and poverty often along lines of ethnicity and race City residents traveling through these neighborhoods move from feeling at home to feeling like tourists to feeling so out of place they fear for their security As Gerald Frug shows this divided and inhospitable urban landscape is not simply the result of individual choices about where to live or start a business It is the product of government policies and in particular the policies embedded in legal rules A

Harvard law professor and leading expert on urban affairs Frug presents the first ever analysis of how legal rules shape modern cities and outlines a set of alternatives to bring down the walls that now keep city dwellers apart Frug begins by describing how American law treats cities as subdivisions of states and shows how this arrangement has encouraged the separation of metropolitan residents into different sometimes hostile groups He explains in clear accessible language the divisive impact of rules about zoning redevelopment land use and the organization of such city services as education and policing He pays special attention to the underlying role of anxiety about strangers the widespread desire for good schools and the pervasive fear of crime Ultimately Frug calls for replacing the current legal definition of cities with an alternative based on what he calls community building an alternative that gives cities within the same metropolitan region incentives to forge closer links with each other An incisive study of the legal roots of today's urban problems City Making is also an optimistic and compelling blueprint for enabling American cities once again to embrace their historic role of helping people reach an accommodation with those who live in the same geographic area no matter how dissimilar they are Wyoming Compiled Statutes, Annotated, 1910 Wyoming, 1910

Borderscaping: Imaginations and Practices of Border Making Dr Chiara Brambilla, Dr Jussi Laine, Professor Gianluca Bocchi, Professor James W. Scott, 2015-12-28 Using the borderscapes concept this book offers an approach to border studies that expresses the multilevel complexity of borders from the geopolitical to social practice and cultural production at and across the border Accordingly it encourages a productive understanding of the processual de territorialized and dispersed nature of borders and their ensuring regimes in the era of globalization and transnational flows as well as showcasing border research as an interdisciplinary field with its own academic standing Contemporary bordering processes and practices are examined through the borderscapes lens to uncover important connections between borders as a challenge to national and EU policies and borders as potential elements of political innovation through conceptual re framings of social political economic and cultural spaces The authors offer a nuanced and critical re reading and understanding of the border not as an entity to be taken for granted but as a place of investigation and as a resource in terms of the construction of novel geo political imaginations social and spatial imaginaries and cultural images In so doing they suggest that rethinking borders means deconstructing the interweaving between political practices of inclusion exclusion and the images created to support and communicate them on the cultural level by Western territorialist modernity The result is a book that proposes a wandering through a constellation of bordering policies discourses practices and images to open new possibilities for thinking mapping acting and living borders under contemporary globalization

Making the Unequal Metropolis Ansley T. Erickson, 2016-04-01 In a radically unequal United States schools are often key sites in which injustice grows Ansley T Erickson's Making the Unequal Metropolis presents a broad detailed and damning argument about the inextricable interrelatedness of school policies and the persistence of metropolitan scale inequality While many accounts of education in urban and metropolitan contexts describe schools as the victims of forces beyond their control Erickson shows the many ways that schools have been intertwined with these forces and have in fact via land use decisions curricula and other tools helped sustain inequality Taking Nashville as her focus Erickson uncovers the hidden policy choices that have until now been missing from popular and legal narratives of inequality In her account inequality emerges not only from individual racism and white communities resistance to desegregation but as the result of long standing linkages between schooling property markets labor markets and the pursuit of economic growth By making visible the full scope of the forces invested in and reinforcing inequality Erickson reveals the complex history of and broad culpability for ongoing struggles in our schools

Making Healthy Places, Second Edition Nisha Botchwey, 2022-07-12 Making Healthy Places surveys the many intersections between health and the built environment from the scale of buildings to the scale of metro areas and across a range of outcomes from cardiovascular health and infectious disease to social connectedness and happiness This new edition is significantly updated with a special emphasis on equity and sustainability and takes a global perspective It provides current evidence not only on how poorly designed places may threaten well being but also on solutions that have been found to be effective Making Healthy Places is a must read for students academics and professionals in health architecture urban planning civil engineering parks and recreation and related fields
