European Commission,2003 Globalisation means that the flows of goods services capital technologies and people are spreading worldwide as countries everywhere open up to wider contact with each other Globalisation can create more wealth for everybody but it can also be disruptive and needs to be harnessed by international rules When business goes global the rules for fair play must also be set globally The European Union EU represents all its Member States on questions of trade policy and within the World Trade Organisation This booklet describes how the EU works for transparent and fair trade rules worldwide and tries to mitigate the negative sides of globalisation by making sure that the developing countries benefit from free trade The European Union involves citizens in trade policy and includes environmental and social rules in trade agreements Global Governance through Trade Jan Wouters,Axel Marx ,Dylan Geraets,Bregt Natens,2015-11-27 A new generation of EU trade policies aims to advance public goods such as promoting sustainable development protecting human rights and enhancing governance in third states The pursuit of these objectives raises important questions regarding coherence effectiveness legitimacy and extraterritoriality In Global Governance through Trade leading scholars from different disciplines address these topical questions The book contains a comprehensive analysis of the concept of governing through trade and investigates how the EU exports regulation through conditional market access regulation bilateral trade agreements and unilateral trade policy Several case studies complement the general analysis and provide an in depth assessment of the European Union s new trade policies This multidisciplinary book will be an enlightening read for a wide ranging audience encompassing academics policymakers policy analysts and students of amongst others trade law and policy global governance sustainable development human rights and labor standards Standardizing the World Francesco G. Duina,Crina Viju-Miljusevic,2023 In Standardizing the World Francesco Duina and Crina Viju Miljusevic have gathered a group of leading experts to present an unprecedented assessment of the EU s efforts to standardize a wide array of economic political and social aspects of life through its trade agreements across the globe Drawing on economic sociology and constructivist strands in international political economy ten leading scholars from across the world offer as many chapters on EU agreements with all major trading partners and cover efforts in social and labor rights the environment investments rule of law and anti corruption agriculture and food quality services public procurement sustainable development and more

Making EU Trade Agreements Work the Role of Rules of Origin Paul Brenton,Miriam Manchin,2002 Global Politics and EU Trade Policy Wolfgang Weiß,Cornelia Furculita,2020-02-24 This book explores how the European Union designs its trade policy to face the most recent challenges and to influence global policy issues It provides with an interdisciplinary perspective by combining legal political and economic approaches It studies a broad set of trade instruments that are used by the EU in its trade policy such as trade agreements multilateral initiatives unilateral trade policies as well as internal market tools Therefore the contributions to this volume present the EU s Trade Policy through different lenses providing a complex view of it Making Trade Policy in the European Community John Philip Hayes,1993-01-01 The Trade Policy of the European Union Sieglinde Gstöhl,Dirk De Bièvre,2017-12-19 This comprehensive and clearly written textbook offers a long awaited introduction to the trade policy of the European Union the world s largest trading entity Gst hl and De Bi vre provide a comprehensive assessment of the common commercial policy its relationship with other policies like development policy and of the EU s multi level policy making and international bargaining in this area As well as providing a broad overview of the nature and development of the EU s trade policy the authors analyse how relevant institutions and decision making processes are organized and how this set up fosters particular policy outcomes Gst hl and De Bi vre show how the thorough and critical study of EU trade policy can be conducted from an interdisciplinary viewpoint enabling the student to tackle the ever evolving political economic and legal questions that arise Given the accessible writing this book is recommended for both undergraduate and Master s students studying the EU and Europe in their Politics International Relations Economics or Law degrees as well as those focusing on international trade policy EU Trade Policy at Work ,2019 In the past five years this European Commission has negotiated and concluded more trade agreements than in any comparable period Notably the EU Japan Economic Partnership Agreement entered into force our biggest deal ever The EU now has 41 trade agreements with 72 countries the largest trade network in the world offering European businesses opportunities and a fair and predictable working environment on every continent Importantly these trade agreements also uphold and promote our values Every comprehensive EU trade agreement now has legally binding commitments on workers rights and the environment including a specific reference to the Paris Climate Agreement We have also not been afraid to hold our trade partners to account when they do not walk the walk Parochial Global Europe Alasdair R. Young,John Peterson,2014-04 Argues that trade policy is composed of multiple distinct policies each presenting distinct societal preferences pattern of political institutions and range of government preferences Analyzes EU trade policy as a tool of foreign policy including promoting development encouraging human rights and environmental protection and punishing security threats Multilateralism

Or Regionalism? Guido Glania,Jürgen Matthes,2005 This new book highlights the multifaceted effects of regional trade agreements and outlines the strategic options for EU trade policy It points out what is new about this most recent phase of regionalism and analyzes the effects on economic welfare and trade transaction costs The authors draw upon elements of game theory to explore a self reinforcing mechanism that is resulting in a potentially damaging race for markets They focus in particular on the multiple impacts of regionalism on the WTO and the multilateral trading order The book arrives at an opportune time as the Doha Round is reaching a critical phase EU Trade Policy Amid US-China Trade Confrontation

Asad Ullah, 2020 The current United States aggressive and unilateral trade policy as well as the rapid rise of the Chinese unique economic system now challenging the constant rules based trade s institution and global trading system In the current on going US China trade spat the European Union EU has a substantial interest even if it has been so far reasonably kept from the United States US aggressive trade policy and the reaction of China In such unpredictable circumstances I begin to argue that the EU should adopt a practically independent trade policy which can be made rendering to the contemporary setup and going beyond Finding that how the EU treated both the US and China I found that the EU was more adjacent to the US than China but as China became more open to the world and the EU demand upsurge the EU today shared an equal interest with both China and the US I then demonstrate that such situation makes it impossible for the EU to build an extensive trade policy The EU must make a steady trade policy for protecting its economy in such case I never mean that the EU has to make an extensive choice or either siding China or the US or one against the other EU to protect its economic market can decide and act henceforth The EU even more than China and the US abide and has a strategic interest in preserving global rules based organization such as the World Trade Organization WTO As the US repeatedly challenged the WTO Appellate Body I then recommend that the EU should take the leadership for making WTO reforms and negotiation together with other aligned states like China and Japan The EU must reinforce its domestic tools for addressing present and future challenges mostly in trade and security related areas In the time being I suggest that the EU should prepare itself for a more stringent time the EU should review and rethink some of its trade policy In such situations I believe that the EU parliaments can play a vital role to contest with the current challenges and come up with new trade policy which could overwhelm the current punitive status quo without hurting the contemporary global trading system Developments in EU Trade Policy Great Britain.
