The "New Man" in Radical Right Ideology and Practice, 1919-45 Jorge Dagnino, Matthew Feldman, Paul Stocker, 2018-01-25 Bringing together an expert group of established and emerging scholars this book analyses the pervasive myth of the new man in various fascist movements and far right regimes between 1919 and 1945 Through a series of ground breaking case studies focusing on countries in Europe but with additional chapters on Argentina Brazil and Japan The New Man in Radical Right Ideology and Practice 1919 45 argues that what many national forms of far right politics understood at the time as a so called anthropological revolution is essential to understanding this ideology s bio political often revolutionary dynamics It explores how these movements promoted the creation of a new ideal human what this ideal looked like and what this things tell us about fascism s emergence in the 20th century The years after World War One saw the rise of regimes and movements professing totalitarian aims In the case of revolutionary radical right movements these totalising goals extended to changing the very nature of humanity through modern science propaganda and conquest At its most extreme one of the key aims of fascism the most extreme manifestation of radical right politics between the wars was to create a new man Naturally this manifested itself in different ways in varying national contexts and this volume explores these manifestations in order to better comprehend early 20th century fascism both within national boundaries and in a broader transnational context

The Kingdom of Man Rémi Brague, 2018-10-30 Was humanity created or do humans create themselves In this eagerly awaited English translation of Le Règne de l'homme the last volume of Rémi Brague's trilogy on the philosophical development of anthropology in the West Brague argues that with the dawn of the Enlightenment Western societies rejected the transcendence of the past and looked instead to the progress fostered by the early modern present and the future As scientific advances drained the cosmos of literal mystery humanity increasingly devalued the theophilosophical mystery of being in favor of omniscience over one's own existence Brague narrates the intellectual disappearance of the natural order replaced by a universal chaos upon which only humanity can impose order he cites the vivid histories of the nation state economic evolution into capitalism and technology as the tools of this new dominion taken up voluntarily by humans for their own ends rather than accepted from the deity for a divine purpose Brague's tour de force begins with the ancient and medieval confidence in humanity as the superior creation of Nature or of God epitomized in the biblical wish of the Creator for humans to exert stewardship over the earth He sees the Enlightenment as a transition period taking as a given that humankind should be masters of the world but rejecting the imposition of that duty by a deity Before the Enlightenment who the creator was and whom the creator dominated were clear With the advance of modernity and banishment of the Creator who was to be dominated Today Brague argues our humanism is an anti antihumanism rather than a direct affirmation of the goodness of the human He ends with a sobering question does humankind still have the will to survive in an era of intellectual self destruction

The Kingdom of Man will appeal to all readers interested in the history of ideas but will be especially important to political philosophers historical anthropologists and theologians

Atlantic Crossroads in Lisbon's New Golden Age, 1668-1750 Cacey Bowen Farnsworth, 2024-12-03
 Long dependent on the Asian spice trade Portugal suffered serious setbacks during the period of political union with Spain 1580-1640 as the Dutch and others seized key regions and destroyed commercial monopolies By 1668 the greatest hope for a renewed Portuguese empire lay to the west This book examines the Atlanticization of Lisbon during the early modern era investigating the social economic religious and political evolution that took place in Portugal's capital during a period of upheaval and transformation in Europe and in the Atlantic world In this book Cacey Bowen Farnsworth shows how between 1668 and 1750 Lisbon became a crossroads where colonial developments intermingled with metropolitan and global influences to produce something novel among European port capitals Drawing from extensive primary and secondary sources from Portugal Brazil England France and Spain Farnsworth lays out how Lisbon's transformations were generated in commercial exchanges especially the slave trade as well as in the often tense arrangements between the British and the Portuguese and he shows how social economic cultural and religious transformations made Lisbon a unique center of encounter Responding to valid criticisms of Atlantic history Farnsworth's history of early modern Lisbon demonstrates that historians do not always have to defer to a global lens of analysis It is sure to be of value to any researcher interested in early modern Iberia commerce and globalism
