Man Natural Resources An Agricultural:

Man and Natural Resources Cedric Stanton Hicks, 2023-07-26 Originally published in 1975 yet prophetic in its wisdom this book deals with major aspects of man's ecological destruction in an industrial framework As well as discussing the destruction of forests by early civilizations the book examines the rate and extension of environmental deterioration in more recent times and the importance of the integrated feed back controls which maintain stability in the ecosphere of which humankind forms a part Examining the role of entropy energy quanta and indeterminacy in overthrowing both science and economic theory the book provides examples from the 20th Century of the uncontrolled demands for energy and material resources as well as of increasing toxic hazard in the biosphere

Natural Resources: Quality and Quantity Siegfried V. Ciriacy-Wantrup, James Jerome Parsons, Productive Men, Reproductive Women Marion W. Gray, 2000 The debate on the origins of modern gender norms continues unabated across the academic disciplines This book adds an important and hitherto neglected dimension Focusing on rural life and its values the author argues that the modern ideal of separate spheres originated in the era of the Enlightenment Prior to the eighteenth century cultural norms prescribed active interdependent economic roles for both women and men Enlightenment economists transformed these gender paradigms as they postulated a market exchange system directed exclusively by men By the early nineteenth century the emerging bourgeois value system affirmed the new civil society and the market place as exclusively male realms These standards defined women's options largely as marriage and motherhood Natural Resources in Tropical Countries Jin-Bee Ooi, 1983 Men of Capital Sherene Seikaly, 2023-05-25 An eye opening book on the history of an elite Palestinian Arab group an important contribution and a highly recommended read Middle East Journal

Men of Capital examines British ruled Palestine in the 1930s and 1940s through a focus on economy In a departure from the expected histories of Palestine this book illuminates dynamic class constructions that aimed to shape a pan Arab utopia in terms of free trade profit accumulation and private property And in so doing it positions Palestine and Palestinians in the larger world of Arab thought and social life moving attention away from the limiting debates of Zionist Palestinian conflict

Reading Palestinian business periodicals records and correspondence Sherene Seikaly reveals how capital accumulation was central to the conception of the ideal social man Here we meet a diverse set of characters the man of capital the frugal wife the law abiding Bedouin the unemployed youth and the abundant farmer in new spaces like the black market cafes and cinemas and the idyllic Arab home Seikaly also traces how British colonial institutions and policies regulated wartime austerity regimes mapping the shortages of basic goods such as the vegetable crisis of 1940 to the broader material disparities among Palestinians and European Jews Ultimately she shows that the economic is as central to social management as the political and that an exclusive focus on national claims and conflicts hides the more complex changes of social life in Palestine
