Youngbull, 2015-08-25 A true American hero who earned a Purple Heart a Bronze Star and a Congressional Gold Medal

Brummett Echohawk was also a Pawnee on the European battlefields of World War II. He used the Pawnee language and counted coup as his grandfather had done during the Indian wars of the previous century. This first book length biography depicts Echohawk as a soldier painter writer humorist and actor profoundly shaped by his Pawnee heritage and a man who refused to be pigeonholed as an Indian artist. Through his formative war service in the 45th Infantry Division known as the Thunderbirds Echohawk strove to prove himself both a patriot and a true Pawnee warrior. Pawnee history culture and spiritual belief inspired his courageous conduct and bolstered his confidence that he would return home. Echohawk's career as an artist began with combat sketches published under such titles as Death Shares a Ditch at Bloody Anzio. His portraits of Allied and enemy soldiers some of which appeared in the Detroit Free Press in 1944 included drawings of men from all over the world among them British infantrymen Gurkhas and a Japanese American soldier. After the war without relying on the GI Bill Echohawk studied at the Art Institute of Chicago for three years. His persistence paid off leading to work as a staff artist for several Chicago newspapers. Echohawk was also a humorist whose prodigious output includes published cartoons and several parodies of famous paintings such as a Mona Lisa wearing a headband turquoise ring and beaded necklace. Featuring eight of Echohawk's paintings in full color this thoroughly researched biography shows how one unusual man succeeded in American Indian and mainstream cultures. World War II aficionados will marvel at Echohawk's military feats and American art enthusiasts will appreciate a body of work characterized by deep historical research an eye for beauty and a unique ability to capture tribal humor.

Cognitive Technology J.L. Mey, B. Gorayska, 1995-12-01 In this book the editors have gathered a number of contributions by persons who have been working on problems of Cognitive Technology CT. The present collection initiates explorations of the human mind via the technologies the mind produces. These explorations take as their point of departure the question What happens when humans produce new technologies. Two interdependent perspectives from which such a production can be approached are adopted. How and why constructs that have their origins in human mental life are embodied in physical environments when people fabricate their habitat even to the point of those constructs becoming that very habitat. How and why these fabricated habitats affect and feed back into human mental life. The aim of the CT research programme is to determine in general which technologies and in particular which interactive computer based technologies are humane with respect to the cognitive development and evolutionary adaptation of their end users. But what does it really mean to be humane in a technological world. To shed light on this central issue other pertinent questions are raised e.g. Why are human minds externalised i.e. what purpose does the process of externalisation serve. What can we learn about the human mind by studying how it externalises itself. How does the use of externalised mental constructs the objects we call tools change people fundamentally. To what extent does human interaction with technology serve as an amplification of human cognition and to what extent does it lead to a atrophy of the human mind The book calls for a reflection on what a tool is Strong parallels between CT and environmentalism are drawn both are seen as trends having originated in our need to understand how we manipulate by means of the tools we have created our natural habitat consisting of on the one hand the cognitive environment which generates thought and determines action and on the other hand the physical environment in which thought and action are realised Both trends endeavour to protect the human habitat from the unwanted or uncontrolled impact of technology and are ultimately concerned with the ethics and aesthetics of tool design and tool use Among the topics selected by the contributors to the book the following themes emerge the list is not exhaustive using technology to empower the cognitively impaired the ethics versus aesthetics of technology the externalisation of emotive and affective life and its special dialectic mirror effects creativity enhancement cognitive space problem tractability externalisation of sensory life and mental imagery the engineering and modelling aspects of externalised life externalised communication channels and inner dialogue externalised learning protocols relevance analysis as a theoretical framework for cognitive technology
