Venture Capitalists' Exit Strategies under Information Asymmetry Matthias Eckermann, 2007-10-17 This book has been submitted as dissertation at the Faculty of Business Management and Economics at Dresden University of Technology, Germany, on January 19, 2005. Throughout the completion of this thesis, I received much encouragement and advice from mentors, colleagues, and friends. I would like to take this opportunity to thank all of them. First of all, I would like to express my gratitude to my supervisor Prof. Dr. Michael Schefczyk for providing a fruitful research atmosphere at the SAP Chair for Entrepreneurship and Innovation at Dresden University of Technology. His comments and support helped me develop and complete this thesis. Moreover, I thank Prof. Schefczyk for supporting my ambitions to conduct research in the United States. Second, I am especially grateful to Prof. Andrew L. Zacharakis, Ph.D., for hosting me as a visiting scholar at Babson College and for supervising my project during this time. This thesis benefited tremendously from his knowledge and from his outstanding support. His encouragement and support also helped me survive less productive times. A great debt is to Prof. Dr. Herman Locarek-Junge, who accepted the burden of being my second examiner at Dresden University of Technology. The final paper benefited tremendously from conversations with several experienced researchers and practitioners in the United States. I want to thank Elaine I. The Patent Guide Carl W. Battle, Andrea D. Small, 2018-04-10 Recommended Library Journal Coming up with a million-dollar idea is only the first step in what might seem like a long and difficult process. Venture Capital Stefano Caselli, Stefano Gatti, 2012-11-02 Josh Lerner Jacob H Schiff Professor of Investment Banking Harvard Business School and National Bureau of Economic Research During much of the 1970s and 1980s venture capital and private equity remained largely a United States phenomena Over the past decade however private equity has spread around the globe taking particularly firm root in Western Europe indeed growing 4 700% since 1984 through 2001 Today Europe is the dominant private equity market outside the United States Despite this tremendous growth and the current recessionary climate there is ample room for attractive expansion in European private equity both for venture capital and private equity There have been several reasons for this growth The first has been the internationalization of capital sources The key sources of capital for European private equity funds have traditionally been segmented by national boundaries historically the pattern in Europe has been for private equity groups to raise funds from banks insurance companies and government bodies in their own country with little involvement from foreign investors These barriers are now breaking down for two principal reasons First institutional investors particularly in the United States have become increasingly interested in European funds Second many international private equity firms have become more active in Europe A second driver of growth has been the entry of new talent into the industry Traditionally many European private equity investors had come from financial or consulting backgrounds rather than from operating roles
