Modernizing Educational Practice Katarzyna Papaja, Artur Swiateka, 2016-02-08 Content and Language Integrated Learning CLIL is an innovative approach referring to educational settings where a language different from the learners mother tongue is used as a medium of instruction This other language is found to be used from kindergarten to the tertiary level and the extent of its use may range from occasional foreign language texts in individual subjects to covering the whole curriculum The changes in the technological economic and social realities of the modern world have led and still lead to more frequent contact between people of different linguistic and cultural backgrounds Globalisation has made the world interconnected the world is rapidly becoming a mixed global village where the role of languages is extremely important In such an integrated world integrated learning is viewed as a modern form of educational delivery CLIL represents an increasingly popular approach to language teaching and learning not only in Europe but also in other countries such as Japan Malaysia China and the United Arab Emirates Even though CLIL is not of a uniform nature and varies across the world one of the main arguments for its introduction is that it creates conditions for naturalistic language learning This book represents selected presentations given at the Ustro CLIL 2013 conference which brought together academicians researchers teachers and educational authorities from all over the world and provided them with the opportunity to exchange an interdisciplinary dialogue on CLIL methodologies as well as the purely practical consequences of implementing such pedagogies in institutional educational practices at the primary secondary or tertiary level As such collection embraces original contributions across a range of areas of CLIL Decolonising the Literature Curriculum Charlotte Beyer, 2022-03-11 This book explores pedagogical approaches to decolonising the literature curriculum through a range of practical and theoretically informed case studies Although decolonising the curriculum has been widely discussed in the academe and the media sustained examinations of pedagogies involved in decolonising the literature at university level are still lacking in English and related subjects This book makes a crucial contribution to these evolving discussions presenting current and critically engaged pedagogical scholarship on decolonising the literature curriculum Offering a broad spectrum of accessible chapters authored by experienced national and international academics the book is structured into two parts Texts and Contexts presenting case studies on decolonising the literature curriculum which range from the undergraduate classroom university writing centres through to the literary doctorate Linguistic perspectives from the classroom, 2004

Critical Discourse Analysis, Critical Discourse Studies and Beyond Theresa Catalano, Linda R. Waugh, 2020-09-28 This book explores the problem oriented interdisciplinary research movement comprised of Critical Discourse Analysis CDA and Critical Discourse Studies CDS for scholars teachers and students from many backgrounds Beginning with a Preface by renowned CDA CDS scholar Ruth Wodak it introduces CDA CDS through examples of what its research looks like delineates various precursors to CDA CDS and important foundational concepts and theories and traces its development from its early years until it became established After the relationship between CDA and CDS is discussed seven commonly cited approaches to CDA CDS are outlined including their connections and differences their origins and development major and associated scholars research focus es and central concepts and distinguishing features After a summary of critiques of CDA CDS and responses by CDA CDS scholars the book provides an overview of its salient connections to other interdisciplinary areas of scholarship such as critical applied linguistics education anthropology ethnography sociolinguistics gender studies queer linguistics pragmatics and ecolinguistics The final chapter describes how scholars use their knowledge of CDA CDS to make a difference in the world Handbook of Research on New Literacies Julie Coiro, Michele Knobel, Colin

Lankshear, Donald J. Leu, 2014-04-04 Situated at the intersection of two of the most important areas in educational research today literacy and technology this handbook draws on the potential of each while carving out important new territory It provides leadership for this newly emerging field directing scholars to the major issues theoretical perspectives and interdisciplinary research pertaining to new literacies Reviews of research are organized into six sections Methodologies Knowledge and Inquiry Communication Popular Culture Community and Citizenship Everyday Literacies Instructional Practices and Assessment Multiple Perspectives on New Literacies Research FEATURES Brings together a diverse international team of editors and chapter authors Provides an extensive collection of research reviews in a critical area of educational research Makes visible the multiple perspectives and theoretical frames that currently drive work in new literacies Establishes important space for the emerging field of new literacies research Includes a unique Commentary section The final section of the Handbook reprints five central research studies Each is reviewed by two prominent researchers from their individual and different theoretical position This provides the field with a sense of how diverse lenses can be brought to bear on research as well as the benefits that accrue from doing so It also provides models of critical review for new scholars and demonstrates how one might bring multiple perspectives to the study of an area as complex as new literacies research The Handbook of Research on New Literacies is intended for the literacy research community broadly conceived including scholars and students from the traditional reading and writing research communities in education and educational psychology as well as those from information science cognitive science psychology sociolinguistics computer mediated communication and other related areas that find literacy to be an important area of investigation Hybrid

Voices and Collaborative Change Tom Bartlett, 2012-08-21 In this study Bartlett presents a theoretical and descriptive development in the discipline of Critical Discourse Analysis CDA extending the recent trend away from critiques of hegemonic practices and towards the description of alternative and minority practices that has been labelled Positive Discourse Analysis PDA Through an in depth case study of intercultural development discourse the book goes beyond the top down model of power in CDA and the oppositional approach of PDA to develop a model of power in language as multifaceted and potentially collaborative This model is used to analyse the particular circumstances of the case study but is primarily presented as a framework for practical applied linguistic contributions within a wide range of sociocultural contexts Drawing on social and linguistic theory and methods from a range of functional and applied approaches to language the book explores the connections between language form and social function the contextual constraints on discursive action and the potential for the renegotiation of existing discourses and social practices Syntactic Analysis and Description David

Lockwood, 2005-05-01 This book is designed to teach undergraduate and beginning graduate students how to understand analyse and describe syntactic phenomena in different languages The book covers every aspect of syntax from the basics to more specialised topics such as clitics which have grammatical importance but cannot be used in isolation and negation in which a construction contradicts the meaning of a sentence The approach taken combines concepts from different theoretical schools which view syntax differently These include M A K Halliday s systemic functional linguistics the stratificational school advocated by Sydney Lamb and Kenneth L Pike s tagmemic model The emphasis of the book is on syntactic structures rather than linguistic meaning and the book stresses the difference between a well formed sentence and a meaningful one The final chapter brings these two aspects together to show the connections between syntax and semology Each chapter concludes with exercises from a diverse range of languages and a list of major technical terms The book also includes a glossary as an essential resource for students approaching this difficult subject for the first time Relations and Functions within and around Language David Lockwood, Michael Cummings, Peter Fries, William Spruiell, 2005-05-01 Currently there is a movement in linguistics towards careful use of corpora in linguistic and text analysis which has involved both written and spoken corpora and those which combine spoken and written text Most text analyses address written texts often literary works but detailed discussion of the language of a single oral text from multiple perspectives has rarely been published This book is among the first to integrate the analysis of the language of spoken and written texts It describes language as a network of functional relations involving a context which is also a network of functional relations The essays in Part One present several perspectives on the theory of language as functional relations those in Part Two discuss a single oral text using a variety of functional perspectives All of the essays are by linguists interested in oral and written texts who have achieved international recognition in their fields Illustrated in this book are cognitive social construction social praxis and anthropological approaches to the description of text
