Responses Of Northern U S Forests To Environmental Change:

Responses of Northern U.S. Forests to Environmental Change Robert A. Mickler, Richard A. Birdsey, John Hom, 2012-12-06 In the Global Change Research Act of 1990 global change is defined as changes in the global environment including alterations in climate land productivity oceans or other water resources atmospheric chemistry and ecological systems that may alter the capacity of the Earth to sustain life For the purposes of this book we interpret the definition of global change broadly to include physical and chemical environmental changes that are likely to affect the productivity and health of forest ecosystems over the long term Important environmental changes in the Northern United States include steadily increasing atmospheric carbon dioxide tropospheric ozone wet and dry deposition of nitrogen and sulfur compounds acidic precipitation and clouds and climate variability These environmental factors interact in complex ways to affect plant physiological functions and soil processes in the context of forest landscapes derived from centuries of intensive land use and natural disturbances Research in the North has begun to unravel some key questions about how environmental changes will impact the productivity and health of forest ecosystems species distributions and abundance and associations of people and forests Initial research sponsored by the USDA Forest Service under the United States Global Change Research Program USGCRP was focused on basic process level understanding of tree species and forest v VI Preface ecosystem responses to environmental stress Chemical pollution stresses received equal emphasis with climate change concerns

Responses of Northern U.S. Forests to Environmental Change Robert A. Mickler, Richard A. Birdsey, John Hom, 2000-05-19 Five years of research carried out by the U S Department of Agriculture Forest Services Northern Global Change Program contributing to our understanding of the effects of multiples stresses on forest ecosystems over multiple spatial and temporal scales At the physiological level reports explore changes in growth and biomass species composition and wildlife habitat at the landscape scale the abundance distribution and dynamics of species populations and communities are addressed Chapters include studies of nutrient depletion climate and atmospheric deposition carbon and nitrogen cycling insect and disease outbreaks biotic feedbacks with the atmosphere interacting effects of multiple stresses and modeling the regional effects of global change The book provides sound ecological information for policymakers and land use planners as well as for researchers in ecology forestry atmospheric science soil science and biogeochemistry

Air Pollution, Global Change and Forests in the New Millennium D.F. Karnosky, Kevin E Percy, A.H. Chappelka, C. Simpson, J. Pikkarainen, 2003-12-18 The chapters in this book present a snapshot of the state of knowledge of air pollution effects at the beginning of the 21st century From their different disciplines a distinguished collection of authors document their understanding of how leaves trees and forests respond to air pollutants and climate change Scenarios of global change and air pollution are described The authors describe responses of forests to climate variability tropospheric ozone rising atmospheric CO₂ the combination of CO₂ and ozone and deposition of acidic compounds and heavy metals The responses to ozone receive particular attention because of increasing concern about its damaging effects and increasing concentrations in rural areas Scaling issues are addressed from leaves to trees from juvenile trees to mature trees from short term responses to long term responses and from small scale experiments and observations to large scale forest ecosystems This book is one major product of a conference sponsored by the International Union of Forestry Research Organizations the USDA Forest Service Global Change Northern Stations Program the Arthur Ross Foundation NCASI the Canadian Forest Service and Michigan Technological University The conference held in May 2000 in Houghton Michigan USA was appropriately titled Air Pollution Global Change and Forests in the New Millennium The Editors David Karnosky Kevin Percy Art Chappelka Caroline Simpson and Janet Pikkarainen organized the conference and edited this book Climate Change and United States Forests Peterson David L., James M. Vose, Toral Patel-Weynand, 2013-12-19 This volume offers a scientific assessment of the effects of climatic variability and change on forest resources in the United States Derived from a report that provides technical input to the 2013 U S Global Change Research Program National Climate Assessment the book serves as a framework for managing U S forest resources in the context of climate change The authors focus on topics having the greatest potential to alter the structure and function of forest ecosystems and therefore ecosystem services by the end of the 21st century Part I provides an environmental context for assessing the effects of climate change on forest resources summarizing changes in environmental stressors followed by state of science projections for future climatic conditions relevant to forest ecosystems Part II offers a wide ranging assessment of vulnerability of forest ecosystems and ecosystem services to climate change The authors anticipate that altered disturbance regimes and stressors will have the biggest effects on forest ecosystems causing long term changes in forest conditions Part III outlines responses to climate change summarizing current status and trends in forest carbon effects of carbon management and carbon mitigation strategies Adaptation strategies and a proposed framework for risk assessment including case studies provide a structured approach for projecting and responding to future changes in resource conditions and ecosystem services Part IV describes how sustainable forest management which guides activities on most public and private lands in the United States can provide an overarching structure for mitigating and adapting to climate change

North American Temperate Deciduous Forest Responses to Changing Precipitation Regimes Paul Hanson, Stan D. Wullschlegel, 2012-12-06 Large scale experimentation allows scientists to test the specific responses of ecosystems to changing environmental conditions Researchers at Oak Ridge National Laboratory together with other Federal and University scientists conducted a large scale climatic change experiment at the Walker Branch Watershed in Tennessee a model upland hardwood forest in North America This volume synthesizes mechanisms of forest ecosystem response to changing hydrologic budgets associated with climatic change drivers The authors explain the implications of changes at both the plant and stand levels and they extrapolate the data to ecosystem level responses such as changes in nutrient cycling biodiversity and carbon sequestration In analyzing data they also discuss similarities and differences with other temperate deciduous forests Source data for the experiment has been archived by the authors in the U S Department of Energy s Carbon Dioxide Information and Analysis Center CDIAC for future analysis and modeling by independent investigators

Soil Health and Climate Change Bhupinder Pal Singh,Annette L. Cowie,K. Yin Chan,2011-07-24 Soil Health and Climate Change presents a comprehensive overview of the concept of soil health including the significance of key soil attributes and management of soil health in conventional and emerging land use systems in the context of climate change Starting with a review of the physical chemical and biological indicators of soil health and their significance for monitoring the impacts of climate change this book then focuses on describing the role of soil structure pH organic matter nitrogen respiration and biota in sustaining the basic functions of soil ecosystems and their anticipated responses to climate change Further topics include the management of cropping pastoral and forestry systems and rehabilitated mine sites with a focus on mitigation of and adaptation to climate change impacts Finally the opportunities and potential risks of organic farming biochar and bioenergy systems and their ability to sustain and even enhance soil health are discussed Climate Change and America's Forests L. A. Joyce,Michael A. Fosberg,Joan M. Comanor,1990 Climate Change and Managed Ecosystems Jagtar Bhatti,Rattan Lal,Michael J. Apps,Mick A. Price,2005-12-20 Featuring contributions from leading experts in the field Climate Change and Managed Ecosystems examines the effects of global climate change on intensively constructed or reconstructed ecosystems focusing on land use changes in relation to forestry agriculture and wetlands including peatlands The book begins by discussing the fragility of eco The Impact of Climate Change on America's Forests ,2000 Abstract This report documents trends and impacts of climate change on America s forests as required by the Renewable Resources Planning Act of 1974 Recent research on the impact of climate and elevated atmospheric carbon dioxide on plant productivity is synthesized Modeling analyses explore the potential impact of climate changes on forests wood products and carbon in the United States Global Change and Forestry ,1995 General Technical Report SE ,1994 General Technical Report RMRS ,2000 Earth System Responses to Global Change Harold A. Mooney,Eduardo R. Fuentes,Barbara I. Kronberg,1993-10-06 This book examines the differences and similarities in the earth system components the ocean atmosphere and the land between western portions of the northern and southern Western Hemispheres past present and projected The book carefully examines the physical and biological patterns and responses of given biomes or ecological communities in the two regions Special emphasis is placed on the relationship of physical and biotic systems to biogeochemistry and the evolving biota patterns of land margins and surfaces The text concludes with an assessment of the direct impact on humans on these biomes giving full consideration to the land use drivers of global change Integrated view of earth system processes on the west coasts of North and South America Achieving sustainable management of boreal and temperate forests Dr John A. Stanturf,2019-11-26 Focuses on advances in understanding forest ecophysiology which underpin good management including mechanisms of root and canopy development Explores the key challenges in ensuring forest management is consistent with forest ecosystem services particularly managing the transition from monocultures to complex stands Highlights ways of diversifying forest products including novel uses of timber biomass non timber products and recreational services

Effects of Drought on Forests and Rangelands in the United States James M. Vose,James Samuel Clark,Charles Henry Luce,Toral Patel-Weynand,2016 This assessment provides input to the reauthorized National Integrated Drought Information System NIDIS and the National Climate Assessment NCA and it establishes the scientific foundation needed to manage for drought resilience and adaptation Focal areas include drought characterization drought impacts on forest processes and disturbances such as insect outbreaks and wildfire and consequences for forest and rangeland values Drought can be a severe natural disaster with substantial social and economic consequences Drought becomes most obvious when large scale changes are observed however even moderate drought can have long lasting impacts on the structure and function of forests and rangelands without these obvious large scale changes Large stand level impacts of drought are already underway in the West but all U S forests are vulnerable to drought Drought associated forest disturbances are expected to increase with climatic change Management actions can either mitigate or exacerbate the effects of drought A first principal for increasing resilience and adaptation is to avoid management actions that exacerbate the effects of current or future drought Options to mitigate drought include altering structural or functional components of vegetation minimizing drought mediated disturbance such as wildfire or insect outbreaks and managing for reliable flow of water
