Restoration And Rehabilitation Of The Desert Environment:

Restoration and Rehabilitation of the Desert Environment N. Al-Awadhi, M.T. Balba, C. Kamizawa, 2012-12-02 These proceedings contain technical papers presented at the Kuwait Japan Symposium on Restoration and Rehabilitation of the Desert Environment which was held in Kuwait on 3-4 March 1996. Kuwait was selected as the site for this fourth symposium because of its enormous need for restoring and rehabilitating its desert environment and because of the progress which Kuwait and Japan have been making collectively in these efforts at both pilot and field scale levels. Kuwait's desert land has recently suffered from one of the worst man-made disasters of all time having been polluted with vast amounts of oil from the nearly 7000 oil wells that were destroyed during the Gulf War. The three themes for the symposium were remediation of the polluted soil, enhancement of the visual impact of greenery, and recycling of wastewater for rehabilitation purposes. The first theme was highlighted with presentations on the KISR PEC Oil Lake Beds Remediation Project. The second theme was launched with a broad-based discussion on new strategies and alternatives for greening the desert and a summary of the Kuwait National Greenery Plan which is now being prepared. The third theme featured presentations on water resource management in Japan and in KISR's Reverse Osmosis Project to make municipal wastewater recyclable for greenery use in densely populated areas. The closing session culminated in perspectives and recommendations from both Kuwait and Japan and with a historical summary of the long-standing Kuwait Japan Collaborative Program.

Geomorphology of Desert Environments Vinayak Joshipura, 2025-02-20 Geomorphology of Desert Environments delves into the intricate processes and landforms that shape arid landscapes worldwide. Authored by leading experts, this comprehensive book explores the dynamic interactions between geological forces, climate patterns, and ecological systems in desert regions. We begin with an overview of geomorphology principles including erosion, deposition, and weathering processes specific to deserts. The role of aeolian processes such as wind erosion and sand dune formation is examined, showcasing iconic desert landforms like sand seas and yardangs. Through detailed case studies and field observations, we highlight the diversity of desert landscapes and the unique geomorphic features of different desert regions. From the sandstone buttes of the American Southwest to the salt flats of the Sahara Desert, each chapter explores the geological history, environmental dynamics, and ecological significance of desert landforms. We also delve into human-environment interactions shaping desert landscapes, including the impacts of human activities on erosion rates, soil degradation, and desertification. Sustainable land management practices, water resource management, and conservation efforts in arid regions are examined. Richly illustrated with maps, diagrams, and photographs, this book is an indispensable resource for understanding the complex interplay of geological, climatic, and ecological factors in desert environments.

Walker,1999-12-17 As the human population inexorably grows its cumulative impact on the Earth s resources is hard to ignore The ability of the Earth to support more humans is dependent on the ability of humans to manage natural resources wisely Because disturbance alters resource levels effective management requires understanding of the ecology of disturbance This book is the first to take a global approach to the description of both natural and anthropogenic disturbance regimes that physically impact the ground Natural disturbances such as erosion volcanoes wind herbivory flooding and drought plus anthropogenic disturbances such as forestry grazing mining urbanization and military actions are considered Both disturbance impacts and the biotic recovery are addressed as well as the interactions of different types of disturbance Other chapters cover processes that are important to the understanding of disturbance of all types including soil processes nutrient cycles primary productivity succession animal behaviour and competition Humans react to disturbances by avoiding exacerbating or restoring them or by passing environmental legislation All of these issues are covered in this book Managers need better predictive models and robust data collections that help determine both site specific and generalized responses to disturbance Multiple disturbances have a complex effect on both physical and biotic processes as they interact This book provides a wealth of detail about the process of disturbance and recovery as well as a synthesis of the current state of knowledge about disturbance theory with extensive documentation California Desert Conservation Area Plan Amendments for the Northern and Eastern Mojave Planning Area ,2002
