Restructuring High Schools For Equity And Excellence What Works:

Restructuring High Schools for Equity and Excellence Valerie E. Lee, Julia Smith, 2001 This book demonstrates empirical links with achievement and investigates how restructuring relates to school size teachers attitudes toward students and how teachers press their students to work hard and succeed Comprehensive Reform for Urban High Schools Nettie E. Legters, 2002 This text offers the Talent Development Approach as an alternative to contemporary US educational reform efforts It details organizational curricular and instructional strategies to provide practitioners with a workable blueprint for whole school reform What Every Principal Needs to Know to Create Equitable and Excellent Schools George Theoharis, Jeffrey S. Brooks, 2015-04-25 School leaders who succeed at creating a high achieving learning community must also be committed to creating an equitable environment for all students In this new book key scholars across the content areas show how to put into practice a commitment to equity and excellence across the Pre K12 spectrum Readers learn directly from experts in each of the content domains literacy mathematics science social studies music early childhood special education English language learners world languages and physical education how a commitment to social justice and equity can be grounded in core subject areas why each has a place in the school and what they need to know and do in each subject area This book is a critical instructional leadership resource for new and veteran principals who want to see all students succeed Contributors Antonio J Castro Julie Causton Theoharis Virginia Collier Katherine Delaney Catherine Ennis Virginia Goatley Beth Graue Rochelle Gutierrez Kathleen A Hinchman Anne Karabon Christi Kasa Dave McAlpine Mitchell Robinson Victor Sampson Sherry A Southerland and Wayne Thomas Engaging Schools Institute of Medicine, National Research Council, Division of Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education, Board on Children, Youth, and Families, Committee on Increasing High School Students' Engagement and Motivation to Learn, 2003-12-21 When it comes to motivating people to learn disadvantaged urban adolescents are usually perceived as a hard sell Yet in a recent MetLife survey 89 percent of the low income students claimed I really want to learn applied to them What is it about the school environment pedagogy curriculum climate organization that encourages or discourages engagement in school activities How do peers family and community affect adolescents attitudes towards learning Engaging Schools reviews current research on what shapes adolescents school engagement and motivation to learn including new findings on students sense of belonging and looks at ways these can be used to reform urban high schools This book discusses what changes hold the greatest promise for increasing students motivation to learn in these schools It looks at various approaches to reform through different methods of instruction and assessment adjustments in school size vocational teaching and other key areas Examples of innovative schools classrooms and out of school programs that have proved successful in getting high school kids excited about learning are also included Handbook of Research on Schools, Schooling and Human Development Judith L. Meece, Jacquelynne S. Eccles, 2010-06-10 Children spend more time in school than in any social institution outside the home

And schools probably exert more influence on children's development and life chances than any environment beyond the home and neighbourhood. The purpose of this book is to document some important ways schools influence children's development and to describe various models and methods for studying schooling effects. Key features include Comprehensive Coverage: this is the first book to provide a comprehensive review of what is known about schools as a context for human development. Topical coverage ranges from theoretical foundations to investigative methodologies and from classroom level influences such as teacher-student relations to broader influences such as school organization and educational policies. Cross-Disciplinary: this volume brings together the divergent perspectives, methods and findings of scholars from a variety of disciplines among them educational psychology, developmental psychology, school psychology, social psychology, psychiatry, sociology and educational policy. Chapter Structure: to ensure continuity, chapter authors describe 1) how schooling influences are conceptualized, 2) identify their theoretical and methodological approaches, 3) discuss the strengths and weaknesses of existing research, and 4) highlight implications for future research practice and policy. Methodologies: chapters included in the text feature various methodologies including longitudinal studies, hierarchical linear models, experimental and quasi-experimental designs, and mixed methods.

Reforming Chicago's High Schools Valerie E. Lee, 2002. This book is the culmination of research presented at an invited conference, Research on high school reform efforts in Chicago, convened by the Consortium of Chicago School Research in March 2001 at the University of Chicago's Gleacher Center. title page verso Mathematics Education at Highly Effective Schools That Serve the Poor Richard S. Kitchen, Julie DePree, Sylvia Celedón-Pattichis, Jonathan Brinkerhoff, 2017-09-25. This book presents research findings about school level and district level practices and successful strategies employed in mathematics education by highly effective schools that serve high poverty communities. It includes both the theory and practice of creating highly effective schools in these communities. In 2002, nine schools were selected in a national competition to participate in the Hewlett-Packard High Achieving Grant Initiative. As part of this Initiative, these schools participated in the research study; this book reports the study. The study employed both qualitative and quantitative methodologies to examine school and classroom level factors that contributed to high achievement, particularly in mathematics. The goals of the study were twofold: 1) to investigate the salient characteristics of the highly effective schools in which the research was conducted, and 2) to explore participating teachers' conceptions and practices about mathematics curriculum, instruction, and assessment. The schools described have much to teach about creating powerful learning environments that empower all students to learn challenging mathematics. Given the pressures of the accountability measures of the No Child Left Behind legislation, this book is extremely timely for those seeking school models that serve high poverty communities and have demonstrated high performance on high stakes examinations and other assessments. Mathematics Education at Highly Effective Schools That Serve the Poor: Strategies for Change is particularly relevant for teacher educators, researchers, teachers, and graduate students in the fields of mathematics education and school policy and reform and for school administrators and district coordinators of mathematics education The Cambridge Handbook of Environment in Human Development Linda Mayes, Michael Lewis, 2012-08-27 Families communities and societies influence children's learning and development in many ways This is the first handbook devoted to the understanding of the nature of environments in child development Utilizing Urie Bronfenbrenner's idea of embedded environments this volume looks at environments from the immediate environment of the family including fathers siblings grandparents and day care personnel to the larger environment including schools neighborhoods geographic regions countries and cultures Understanding these embedded environments and the ways in which they interact is necessary to understand development

Learning and Understanding National Research Council, Division of Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education, Center for Education, Committee on Programs for Advanced Study of Mathematics and Science in American High Schools, 2002-09-06 This book takes a fresh look at programs for advanced studies for high school students in the United States with a particular focus on the Advanced Placement and the International Baccalaureate programs and asks how advanced studies can be significantly improved in general It also examines two of the core issues surrounding these programs they can have a profound impact on other components of the education system and participation in the programs has become key to admission at selective institutions of higher education By looking at what could enhance the quality of high school advanced study programs as well as what precedes and comes after these programs this report provides teachers parents curriculum developers administrators college science and mathematics faculty and the educational research community with a detailed assessment that can be used to guide change within advanced study programs

Manufacturing Hope and Despair Ricardo D. Stanton-Salazar, 2001 Relying on a wealth of ethnographic and statistical data this groundbreaking volume documents the many constraints and social forces that prevent Mexican origin adolescents from constructing the kinds of networks that provide access to important forms of social support Special attention is paid to those forms of support privileged youth normally receive and working class youth do not such as expert guidance regarding college opportunities The author also reveals how some working class ethnic minority youth become the exception weaving social webs that promote success in school as well as empowering forms of resiliency In both cases the role of social networks in shaping young people s chances is illuminated In this badly needed alternative to the individualism that pervades most debates about American education Stanton Salazar explores how Latino teenagers lives are embedded within social networks from home community and school This grand work shows how school programs can confound or can draw from the strengths of such networks to build better lives for all Bruce J Biddle Professor Emeritus of Psychology and Sociology University of Missouri Columbia A beautifully written and inspiring book that announces a new generation of Mexican Latino scholars This is a book which tells the tale about Mexican Latino adolescents but in reality it is a book about how working class adolescent life is socially constructed defined and elaborated in the United States An eloquent rendering indeed Carlos G V lez Ib ez Presidential Chair in Anthropology University of California Riverside Using creative theorizing and rigorous methodology Manufacturing Hope and Despair illuminates brilliantly the supposed mystery of persistent race class inequities in American society Walter R Allen Professor University of California Los Angeles

Saving America's High Schools Becky Smerdon, Kathryn M. Borman, 2009-11-13 Our educational system is in a continuous state of reform yet outcomes are nowhere near what we can accept Though the search for answers is perpetual many efforts over the past decade have homed in on one feature of high schools their size If we simply reduce school size the argument goes students will gain a safer environment that can address their individual needs It seems like common sense but such changes alone have not proven a magic bullet Saving America s High Schools offers quantitative research drawn from large scale reform studies along with recommendations for federal state and district reform

The State of the System Paul W. Bennett, 2020-09-23 Over the last fifty years Canada s public schools have been absorbed into a modern education system that functions much like Max Weber s infamous iron cage Crying out for democratic school level reform the system is now a centralized bureaucratic fortress that every year becomes softer on standards for students less accessible to parents further out of touch with communities and surprisingly unresponsive to classroom teachers Exploring the nature of the Canadian education order in all its dimensions The State of the System explains how public schools came to be so bureaucratic confronts the critical issues facing kindergarten to grade 12 public schools in all ten provinces and addresses the need for systemic reform Going beyond a diagnosis of the stresses strains and ills present in the system Paul Bennett proposes a bold plan to re engineer schools on a more human scale as the first step in truly reforming public education In place of school consolidation and managerialism one size fits all uniformity limited school choice and the success for all curriculum Bennett advocates for a new set of priorities decentralize school governance deprogram education ministries and school districts listen to parents and teachers and revitalize local education democracy Tackling the thorny issues besetting contemporary school systems in Canada The State of the System issues a clarion call for more responsive engaged and accountable public schools
