Restructuring Military Education and Training John D. Winkler, Paul Steinberg, Rand Corporation, 1997 This report aims to identify promising directions for restructuring programs of military education and training to make them more effective affordable and efficient

Restructuring Military Education and Training; Lessons from Rand Research, 1997 This report aims to identify promising directions for restructuring programs of military education and training to make them more effective affordable and efficient The document is motivated in part by the Department of Defense s Quadrennial Defense Review which is examining ways to modernize and improve all DoD programs in light of the sweeping changes that have occurred in the past several years The report summarizes results and insights from a number of RAND studies that assessed alternative concepts for restructuring military training programs within and across the military services Most of the research discussed within comes from work conducted in RAND s Arroyo Center the Army s federally funded research and development center FFRDC for studies and analysis However where appropriate the report draws upon research conducted in RAND s two other military FFRDCs the National Defense Research Institute NDRI which serves the Office of the Secretary of Defense OSD the Joint Chiefs of Staff and the defense agencies and Project AIR FORCE which serves the Air Force

Military Education Cynthia A. Watson, 2007-02-28 Professional Military Education PME is broader and more rigorous than is widely understood in the United States Improving educational programs within the military service branches is at the very center of ongoing force transformation efforts and advanced educational opportunities occur at various set levels of military experience Military education increasingly conforms to standards imposed by outside civilian accrediting bodies and is mandated and monitored to an extent by Congress Military Education explores this often overlooked area of education within the context of the modern military force structure In this unique work Watson chronicles the evolution of professional military education during the last sixty years Careful to draw distinctions between training and education she briefly traces the history of PME and examines some of the major personalities involved in shaping it as well as the evolution of the curriculum stressed in PME programs Her narrative combined with key documents a glossary and a timeline of important events dispels popular notions of an uneducated military force

Committee on Foreign Relations. Subcommittee on International Economic Policy, Export and Trade Promotion, 1998 Transforming for stabilization and reconstruction operations , The Military Academy of Malaysia Compared with West Point Jowati Juhary, 2013-10 This dissertation compares the learning environment of elite military academies in the U S and Malaysia namely the United States Military Academy New York West Point and the Military Academy of Malaysia Kuala Lumpur MAM The dissertation began as an investigation of the place of e learning and simulation technologies in educating future military officers It was assumed that as modern technologies for war and defence have changed so too must the military academies accommodate to that especially in producing the right kind of officers who will lead the defence of the nation Research in West Point and the MAM however revealed much more significant and deeper differences between the two learning environments These are also analysed in this dissertation on the basis of in depth interviews with staff at both academies and responses to some 241 questionnaires returned by the cadets One of the most important findings in this study is that the learning environment at West Point is informed by the Thayer System which in turn is based on principles strongly reminiscent of the constructivist school of pedagogical inquiry The impact of the Thayer System on the learning environment is analysed as are the essential features of constructivism In Malaysia by contrast the learning environment in the academy is driven by teacher oriented practices that are not sensitive to the needs of students Moreover the broader authoritarian tendencies in Malaysia have encouraged the entrenchment of didactic modes of teacher student exchanges in the classroom These were found not to be conducive to creative student centred learning processes capable of producing the kind of officers who can lead the Malaysian military at a time of growing regional insecurity in the Asia Pacific

Tao of Soldiering Nihar Kuanr, 2020-03-30 Soldiering is all about the growth and development of human potential in the military organization The approach to soldiering in China is apparently distinct as compared to Indian or Western military and the shaping of soldiery in China has taken a very unique and somewhat enigmatic course In the context of PLA in the ongoing reform era a clear shift in the approach to HRM is apparent One of the most important objectives of the ongoing reforms and restructuring of PLA is to appreciably augment its potential and efficiency for the effective prosecution of Integrated Joint operations IJO for winning Local Wars under Informationised Condition LWUIC This book attempt has been made to take a holistic look at soldiering and development of human potential in PLA thus progressing understanding in the broadly interpreted field of HRM in the context of the Chinese military The author argues that PLA has been adopting a very systematic methodical and focussed approach towards identifying the key issues and addressing them in a time bound manner to enhance the quality of its personnel to include the enlisted personnel NCOs officers and higher leadership However success or failure of HR policies depends as much on several tangible factors educational qualification technological prowess economic and social background as on various intangible aspects influence of culture belief system traditional practices political and ideological factors impinging on the morale motivation and value system The book would enable interested readers to comprehend and grasp the nuances of the development of human potential in the military in general and PLA in specific Various HRD themes like organizational culture leadership efficient decision making etc analyzed in the book can find application in general context as well
