Selfcompleting Tree Selected Poems:

The Self-Completing Tree Dorothy Livesay, 1999-12-16 The Self Completing Tree is the author's own collection of the best of her last 50 years of writing In this new edition the celebrated Grand Dame of English Canadian letters and award winning poet uses the metaphor implied by the title a tree half verdant half in flames to symbolize the androgynous self This is the theme of much of Livesay's work and a central metaphor for the most definitive collection of her poetry The result is a spiritual autobiography charting the fascinating domains of her own life and the universal struggles we all share Selected Poems Hélène Aji, Jennifer Kilgore-Caradec, 2013-01-16 Complete poems are bulky and too heavy to carry around Collected poems pretend to be complete but usually are not Selected poems are altogether unpretentious and reader friendly But they can be problematic Who decides what poems are important for inclusion in a volume of selected poems When the selection occurs during the author's lifetime may one assume that the author was involved What motivates the choice of one poem over another How do readers' preferences influence this choice How do new readers and familiar readers of a poet negotiate the poems that are left out of the selection The essays in this volume address these questions in a variety of ways and also provide an overview of poetic writing from modernist poets to the present day using selections from the 1940s until now They offer new insight into the uses both pedagogical and critical of selection Because Selected Poems usually address a large general public these essays have also been written for all those who wish to know more about how these slimmer more attractive volumes are produced The Daughter's Way Tanis MacDonald, 2012-09-01 The Daughter's Way investigates negotiations of female subjectivity in twentieth century Canadian women's elegies with a special emphasis on the father's death as a literary and political watershed The book examines the work of Dorothy Livesay P K Page Jay Macpherson Margaret Atwood Kristjana Gunnars Lola Lemire Tostevin Anne Carson and Erin Mour as elegiac daughteronomies literary artifacts of mourning that grow from the poet's investigation into the function and limitations of elegiac convention Some poets treat the father as a metaphor for socio-political power while others explore more personal iterations of loss but all the poets in The Daughter's Way seek to redefine daughterly duty in a contemporary context by challenging elegiac tradition through questions of genre and gender Beginning with psychoanalytical theories of filiation inheritance and mourning as they are complicated by feminist challenges to theories of kinship and citizenship The Daughter's Way debates the efficacy of the literary work of mourning in twentieth century Canadian poetry By investigating the way a daughter's filial piety performs and sometimes reconfigures such work and situating melancholia as a creative force in women's elegies the book considers how elegies inquire into the rhetoric of mourning as it is complicated by father-daughter kinship We Are What We Mourn Priscilla Uppal, 2009 The first book on the Canadian poetic elegy challenges all previous ideas about the purpose of mourning

Mainstays Cathy Converse, 1998 We all know that there have been women in British Columbia since the early days and they were not just ironing shirts and baking bread They organized unions won elections started schools and hospitals and became judges scientists artists and doctors BC has benefited from a long tradition of energetic women who have had an impact on the province as we know it The twenty women profiled in this book didn't all succeed in everything they attempted but they were flexible saw what needed to be done and just did it

Wider Boundaries of Daring Di Brandt, Barbara Godard, 2011-09-08 Wider Boundaries of Daring The Modernist Impulse in Canadian Women's Poetry announces a bold revision of the genealogy of Canadian literary modernism by foregrounding the originary and exemplary contribution of women poets critics cultural activists and experimental prose writers Dorothy Livesay P K Page Miriam Waddington Phyllis Webb Elizabeth Brewster Jay Macpherson Anne Wilkinson Anne Marriott and Elizabeth Smart In the introduction editor Di Brandt champions particularly the achievements of Livesay Page and Webb in setting the visionary parameters of Canadian and international literary modernism The writers profiled in Wider Boundaries of Daring are the real founders of Canadian modernism the contributors of this volume argue both for their innovative aesthetic and literary experiments and for their extensive cultural activism They founded literary magazines and writers groups wrote newspaper columns and created a new forum for intellectual debate on public radio At the same time they led busy lives as wives and mothers social workers and teachers editors and critics and competed successfully with their male contemporaries in the public arena in an era when women were not generally encouraged to hold professional positions or pursue public careers The acknowledgement of these writers formidable contribution to the development of modernism in Canada and along with it wider boundaries of daring for women and other people previously disadvantaged by racial ethnic or religious identifications has profound implications for the way we read and understand Canadian literary and cultural history and for the shape of both national and international modernisms

Comrades and Critics Candida Rifkind, 2009-01-17 While Canadian historians have studied socialism in the 1930s and although there have been many studies of American and British literary leftists from this period Comrades and Critics is the first full length study of Canada's 1930s literary left Challenging dominant perceptions that this decade was a lull between the more celebrated modernist enterprises of the 1920s and 1940s Candida Rifkind argues that the events of the 1930s from mass unemployment to the dustbowl to the Spanish Civil War galvanized a generation of writers leading them to unite artistic practice and political action in provocative and influential ways Analyzing and recovering much neglected poems plays manifestoes and documentaries Rifkind demonstrates how leftist cultural production came to dominate English Canadian literature by the end of the decade She pays particular attention to the significant role that women writers played in this period and examines a diverse group of writers that included Dorothy Livesay Anne Marriott Irene Baird and Toby Gordon Ryan These writers negotiated the struggle to revolutionize both literature and politics while being subject to the gender hierarchies of socialism and literary modernism that continued long after the thirties came to an end A groundbreaking study in Canadian history and literature Comrades and Critics is a much needed examination of an important and still influential literary period
