Self-reliance in Small Communities Ramesh Manandhar,1992 Study with reference to Nepal Community Energy Self-reliance ,1980 Gerontological Social Work in Small Towns and Rural Communities Lenard W Kaye,Sandra Butler,2012-10-12 Learn the skills you need to work with geriatric populations in rural areas Gerontological Social Work in Rural Towns and Communities provides a range of intervention and community skills aimed precisely at the needs of rural elders This book fills a gap in the literature by focusing on the specific practice concerns for social workers assisting older adults in rural areas including the aging experience social worker skills professional functions working with special populations and health and long term care concerns This valuable resource will benefit social workers gerontologists allied health professionals in rural areas health and human services administrators and managers Gerontological Social Work in Rural Towns and Communities explores the challenges social workers need to overcome when working with the elder community in rural areas This book s significance to social workers will only increase as more adults choose to live and grow old away from the cities Experts in the field suggest strategies to overcome barriers in planning and providing services such as a longer distance for the elderly to travel to use social service centers a narrower range of available services in the local area increased poverty levels for the elderly a stronger dependency by elderly on family rather than public assistance This book is divided into five sections Rurality and Aging introduces the concept of rurality and examines the demographics of aging from a rural perspective Practice Dimensions of Social Work with Rural Elders includes clinical practice models intervention and advocacy techniques program planning and marketing approaches Special Populations gives attention to four special population groups indigenous elders African American older adults elderly Latinos and disabled elders Special Issues Pertaining to Rural Elders covers five essential issues for rural gerontological social workers health promotion older workers and retirement preparation aging in place specialized housing and ethical practice Training and Policy Recommendations future training and education recommendations for social workers are explored as well as service capacity building the aging network and the future of long term care While a variety of theoretical perspectives are explored in Gerontological Social Work in Rural Towns and Communities the book s empowerment orientation and strengths based approach will enhance your abilities to improve quality of life for elderly individuals in rural communities Each chapter contains a comprehensive review of the literature on the subject it addresses and several chapters include tables and graphs to further establish their revealing empirical findings An appendix provides additional sources to turn to for more information

Small Town Rules Barry J. Moltz,Becky McCray,2012 Teaches large businesses to use word of mouth and reputation building to gain a loyal customer base in the way small businesses do Parochial Self-government in Rural Districts Henry C. Stephens,1893 Working with Rural Communities Participatory Action Research in Kenya Chitere, Orieko P.,Mutiso, Roberta,2015-03-16 This book addresses itself to mobilisation and involvement of rural people in development projects It describes an imperfect but nonetheless exciting and thought provoking exercise that drew social science researchers and students from four public universities in Kenya into an experiment in participatory research community education and development in two locations The experiment was grounded on the assumptions that the people of Kenya are a primary resource and that given proper roles and contribution of planners researchers and programme implementers self sustainable development can become a reality The contributors of this book have focused on the potential of the university to facilitate participation of the people in development They have given specific suggestions on how this might be accomplished

Experiments in self-determination Nicolas Peterson, Fred Myers, 2016-01-21 Outstations which dramatically increased in numbers in the 1970s are small decentralised and relatively permanent communities of kin established by Aboriginal people on land that has social cultural or economic significance to them In 2015 they yet again came under attack this time as an expensive lifestyle choice that can no longer be supported by state governments Yet outstations are the original and most striking manifestation of remote area Aboriginal people s aspirations for self determination and of the life projects by which they seek and have sought autonomy in deciding the meaning of their life independently of projects promoted by the state and market They are not simply projects of isolation from outside influences as they have sometimes been characterised but attempts by people to take control of the course of their lives In the sometimes acrimonious debates about outstations the lived experiences motivations and histories of existing communities are missing For this reason we invited a number of anthropological witnesses to the early period in which outstations gained a purchase in remote Australia to provide accounts of what these communities were like and what their residents aspirations and experiences were Our hope is that these closer to the ground accounts provide insight into and understanding of what Indigenous aspirations were in the establishment and organisation of these communities This volume will be a great addition not only to the origins and history of outstations but in light of the closing of over 100 Aboriginal communities in Western Australia it should be a required bedtime reading for all politicians across Australia The contributors do not simply concentrate on the so called outstations movement of the 1970s but rather help the reader understand why in the 1930s 40 50s and 60s Aboriginal people moved away from cattle stations missions and settlements to reconstruct their moral compass in settings which made more contemporaneous sense not only to them but often to the whites who were there as well Professor Francoise Dussart University of Connecticut Economic and Social Impacts of Food Self-Reliance in the Caribbean Ekaterina Dorodnykh, 2017-01-19 This book provides a multilayered analysis of food import dependency and its impact on food security in the Caribbean region The study analyses the main impact of trade liberalization in the Caribbean within the WTO framework and main policy mechanisms to support domestic food production in order to reduce food import dependency Moreover the author evaluates economic and social benefits of food self sufficiency as a strategy aimed to improve domestic food production by increased availability of locally produced food products Handbook of Green Building Design and Construction Sam Kubba, 2012-10-11 Packed with conceptual sketches and photos real world case studies and green construction details Handbook of Green Building Design and Construction provides a wealth of practical guidelines and essential insights that will facilitate the design of green buildings Written in an easy to understand style the Handbook draws on over 35 years of personal experience across the world offering vital information and penetrating insights into two major building rating systems such as LEED and BREEAM both used extensively in the United States Europe Asia and the Middle East Develop a project schedule that allows for systems testing and commissioning Create contract plans and specifications to ensure building performance A step by step approach for integrating technologies into the different stages of design and execution

Policing the Rural Crisis Russell Hogg, Kerry Carrington, 2006 There is a growing sense of crisis in rural ways of life which manifests itself in economic decline depopulation depleted environments and a crisis of rural identities Crime is one potent marker of crisis the more so as it spoils the image of healthy cohesive community The social reaction it elicits the policing of this other rural is also a guide to the dimensions of crisis The social sciences have witnessed a renewed international interest in the study of other rurals the neglected invisible or excluded aspects of country life This book brings a fresh approach to the study of crime that challenges the urban centric assumptions of much western criminology and sociology It explores rural crime and social reactions to it in relation to processes and patterns of community formation and change in rural Australia including the social economic cultural and political forces shaping the history structure and everyday life of rural communities Policing the Rural Crisis is based on five years of extensive original empirical research in rural and regional Australia It draws on ideas and debates in contemporary social theory across several disciplines making the analysis relevant to the study of crime and social change elsewhere

Working with Rural Communities Participatory Action Research in Kenya P. Chitere, Roberta Mutiso, 1991-12-29 This book addresses itself to mobilisation and involvement of rural people in development projects It describes an imperfect but nonetheless exciting and thought provoking exercise that drew social science researchers and students from four public universities in Kenya into an experiment in participatory research community education and development in two locations The experiment was grounded on the assumptions that the people of Kenya are a primary resource and that given proper roles and contribution of planners researchers and programme implementers self sustainable development can become a reality The contributors of this book have focused on the potential of the university to facilitate participation of the people in development They have given specific suggestions on how this might be accomplished
