Lukang Commerce And Community In A Chinese City:

Lukang Donald R. DeGlopper, 1995-10-12 Based on anthropological fieldwork in Lukang an old seaport in Taiwan this book examines the city's history economic structure and social organization It addresses such matters as an annual rock fight between the city's major clans the way votes are bought in local elections and why the inhabitants of a fairly large industrial and commercial city describe it as a cozy community where everyone knows everyone else The book uses the framework of a community study to address such large questions as the adequacy of Confucianism as model for Chinese society the nature of Chinese social organization beyond the realm of the family and kinship and the structure of Chinese cities rather than villages The argument of the book is propelled by a set of intellectual puzzles concerning the disjunctions if not contradictions between the structure of Chinese society or the city of Lukang and the ways the members of that society talk about their society and their own places in it

Lukang Donald Robert DeGlopper, 1995-01-01 An anthropological study of the social organization and local history in Lukang a city in Taiwan

Globalization and the Making of Religious Modernity in China Thomas Jansen, Thoralf Klein, Christian Meyer, 2014-03-20 Globalization and the Making of Religious Modernity in China co edited by Thomas Jansen Thoralf Klein and Christian Meyer investigates the transformation of China's religious landscape under the impact of global influences since 1800 The interdisciplinary case studies analyze the ways in which processes of globalization are interlinked with localizing tendencies thereby forging transnational relationships between individuals the state and religious as well as non religious groups at the same time that the global concept religion embeds itself in the emerging Chinese religious field and within the new academic disciplines of Religious Studies and Theology The contributions unravel the intellectual social political and economic forces that shaped and were themselves shaped by the emergence of what has remained a highly contested category The contributors are Hildegard Diemberger Vincent Goossaert Esther Maria Guggenmos Thomas Jansen Thoralf Klein Dirk Kuhlmann LAI Pan chiu Joseph Tse Hei Lee Christian Meyer Lauren Pfister Chlo Starr Xiaobing Wang Riese and Robert P Weller

Trading Networks in Early Modern East Asia Angela Schottenhammer, 2010 The present volume composed of six contributions by different scholars seeks to show the intensity of exchange relations and trading networks in the early modern to late imperial East Asian Mediterranean arguing that these exchange relations and trading networks already had their roots and origins in the tenth to thirteenth centuries at the latest In this context the first two contributions discuss local society and socio economic changes within local Chinese society during the Song to Ming periods while the other four contributions concentrate on aspects of commercial exchange and administration during the Qing period Two contributions in particular analyze the indirect and direct importance respectively of religion for social life and commercial activities as a basic precondition for success in non religious affairs One chapter investigates Sino Ryukyuan trade relations during the Kangxi reign 1662 1722 another one Sino Taiwanese trade relations in late imperial China while one chapter is in particular dedicated to an analysis of the characteristics and developments within the maritime trade administration of the Manchu Qing 1644 1911 government with emphasis on hitherto rather neglected aspects for example institutional administrative details including questions such as if Manchus or Han Chinese were responsible for the administration of trade Up in

Flames Ellen Johnston Laing, Helen Hui-Ling Liu, 2004 This comprehensive study of the traditional Chinese craft of paper sculpture documents the ancient craft as it exists today in Taiwan Commodifying Communism David L. Wank, 1999

Commodifying Communism is an ethnographically grounded account of the institutional organization and political consequences of China's historically unprecedented market growth Drawing upon almost two years of ethnographic fieldwork this book challenges conventional views of post communist emerging markets being tied to the retreat of the state David Wank shows how entrepreneurs running private trading companies in Xiamen City Fujian Province one of China's five special economic zones maximize profit and security through patron client networks with local state agents The book examines how processes of opportunity exchange expectations and advantage are constrained by both statist and popular institutions in market clientelism It also considers the implications of market clientelism for the dynamism of China's emerging market economy relative to Eastern European post communist economies and its political consequences for state society and center local relations The Baba of Melaka Tan Chee-Beng, 2022-12-07 The fullest and most comprehensive

Sutton, 2020-03-23 Despite

Taiwan's rise as an economic force in the world modernity has not led to a Weberian process of disenchantment or curbed religiosity To the contrary other factors social economic political have stimulated religion How and why this has happened

are central issues in this book One part of Taiwan's flourishing religious culture is the elaborate and colorful procession of local gods accompanied by troupes of musicians and dancers Among them are performers with outlandishly painted faces portraying underworld generals who serve the gods and punish the living Through their performances these troupes claim to exorcise harmful forces from the community In conducting fieldwork among these troupes Donald Sutton confronted their claims to a long history when all evidence indicated that the troupes had been insignificant until the 1970s and their assertions of devotion to tradition given the diversity of performances Concentrating on the stylistic variations in performances the author describes the troupes as organizations shaped by the market forces of supply and demand in the culture of religious festivals By focusing on performances as the nexus of market and art he shows how bodily performance is the site where religious statements are made and the power of the gods made visible

Anthropology in the City Italo Pardo, Giuliana B. Prato, 2016-05-23 With half of humanity already living in towns and cities and that proportion expected to increase in the coming decades society both Western and non Western is fast becoming urban and even mega urban As such research in urban settings is evidently timely and of great importance Anthropology in the City brings together a leading team of anthropologists to address the complex methodological and theoretical challenges posed by field research in urban settings clearly identifying the significance of the anthropological paradigm in urban research and its centrality both to mainstream academic debates and to society more broadly With essays from experts on wide ranging ethnographic research from fields as diverse as China Europe India Latin and North America and South East Asia this book demonstrates the contribution that empirically based anthropological analysis can make to our understanding of our increasingly urban world

Looking Through Taiwan Keelung Hong, Stephen O. Murray, 2005-01-01 This analysis of a troubling chapter in American anthropology reveals what happens when anthropologists fail to make fundamental ethnic and political distinctions in their work The authors examine how Taiwanese realities have been represented and misrepresented in American social science literature

Taiwanese Pilgrimage to China D. Hatfield, 2009-12-21 This book examines the pilgrimages to China from Taiwan in the late 1980s and early 1990s and offers a wide ranging account of urban planning statements arguments about ritual propriety and the material culture of pilgrimage Taiwanese Pilgrimage to China argues that as Taiwanese pilgrims and their Chinese hosts translated values produced in ritual contexts into the terms of economic and political reform they became complicit in a shared project of composing historical truth With its attention to pilgrimages at a possible center of geopolitical conflict Taiwanese Pilgrimage to China provides an account of how shared frameworks for action grow and advances anthropological understandings of conflict resolution

The Indigenous Dynamic in Taiwan's Postwar Development: Religious and Historical Roots of Entrepreneurship Ian Skoggard, 2016-09-16 Using Taiwan's third largest export industry shoe manufacturing as a case study this work contends that economic development can be tied to Taiwan's own cultural history as well as to the influx of foreign capital or the initiatives of the state government

A Companion to

Explores a variety of long range questions and themes which serves to bridge the conventional divide between China's traditional and modern eras. Addresses China's connections with other nations and regions and enables non specialists to make comparisons with their own fields. Features discussion of traditional topics and chronological approaches as well as newer themes such as Chinese history in relation to sexuality, national identity and the environment.

Urban China Reframed Wing-Shing Tang, Kam Wing Chan, 2021-06-21 Given China's rapid economic growth and massive urbanization no one in the world can ignore what is happening in urban China. This book is a critical review of existing urban China research which is found wanting due to the decontextualized use of theories and concepts developed in the West. Urban China Reframed: A Critical Appreciation consists of epistemological, theoretical and methodological contributions to remedy these limitations by focusing on a number of relevant topics. First, models are widely employed in any study and China nowadays has invoked models like city system zones and global city in socio-economic development. How to interpret them in terms of knowledge production in a strong party state. Second, given the global prevalence of neoliberalism it is an important debate whether neoliberalism is applicable to China. Third, what is urban ideology in China? How to contextualize it? Are debates about the differentiation between the city and urbanization relevant to China. Fourth, massive rural-urban migration in China has taken place within its mega-rural-urban dual system, an institution that has persisted since the 1950s. How does it manifest nowadays? Fifth, has the town-country divide in China like in the West disappeared? If not, how can one interpret China's town-country relations within the politics and administration of the Chinese state. Sixth, how to decipher the territorial development in the Pearl River Delta, the world's factory under the auspices of the state. The collection of essays in this volume contributes to the theoretical understanding of urban China. The chapters in this book were originally published in the Eurasian Geography and Economics.

Muslim Chinese Dru C. Gladney, 2020-03-17 This second edition of Dru Gladney's critically acclaimed study of the Muslim population in China includes a new preface by the author as well as a valuable addendum to the bibliography already hailed as one of the most extensive listings of modern sources on the Sino-Muslims. China's ten million Hui are one of the Muslim national minorities recognized by the Chinese government. Dru Gladney's fieldwork among these people has enabled him to identify diverse patterns of interaction between their rising nationalism and state policy.
