Austen,2004-03-11 Pray pray be composed cried Elinor and do not betray what you feel to every body present Perhaps he has not observed you yet For Elinor Dashwood sensible and sensitive and her romantic impetuous younger sister Marianne the prospect of marrying the men they love appears remote In a world ruled by money and self interest the Dashwood sisters have neither fortune nor connections Concerned for others and for social proprieties Elinor is ill equipped to compete with self centred fortune hunters like Lucy Steele whilst Marianne s unswerving belief in the truth of her own feelings makes her more dangerously susceptible to the designs of unscrupulous men Through her heroines parallel experiences of love loss and hope Jane Austen offers a powerful analysis of the ways in which women s lives were shaped by the claustrophobic society in which they had to survive ABOUT THE SERIES For over 100 years Oxford World s Classics has made available the widest range of literature from around the globe Each affordable volume reflects Oxford s commitment to scholarship providing the most accurate text plus a wealth of other valuable features including expert introductions by leading authorities helpful notes to clarify the text up to date bibliographies for further study and much more John Harris , Thom's Almanac and Official Directory of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland for the Year Alexander Thom,1859 Athenaeum ,1892 The Magazine of Art Marion Harry Spielmann,1889 The Billboard ,1926
