Making Sense Bill Cope, Mary Kalantzis, 2020-01-30 Explains the multimodal connections of text image space body sound and speech in both old and new computer mediated communication systems Making Sense Of The Senses Tobias Wibbe, 2022-06-09 Making Sense of the Senses provides an easily understandable and engaging overview of the senses The book allows readers insights into how humans and other animals perceive the world reflecting a level of knowledge similar to that acquired by studying neuroscience at an undergraduate level In order to offer an accessible introduction to the science it uses relatable examples to uncover the history evolution and biological principles of the way we see smell hear taste touch and more Rather than only focusing on the five primary senses you can see on the cover Making Sense of the Senses dives deep into the various methods through which life across the planet surveys the world and guides the reader through the lesser known methods through which we humans interpret our surroundings In this way we come across some amazing abilities that we often forget we possess Humans are nevertheless rather average creatures compared to many sensory specialists So when we compare our relatively modest capabilities to those of other species across the animal kingdom we are forced to yield our anthropocentric sense of supremacy This book will introduce how biological life developed the capacity to detect magnetic fields radioactivity and many more phenomena that until recently were inaccessible to humans By contextualising and comparing how the senses operate this book covers the sensory systems in a way no popular science book has previously done If you are starting your career in neuroscience or simply want to learn more about the ways our biology guides us through life Making Sense of the Senses will change the way you think about our perception of the world

Making Sense of Our Senses Gr. K-1 , Making Sense of 'Food' Animals Paula Arcari, 2019-09-04 This book addresses the persistence of meat consumption and the use of animals as food in spite of significant challenges to their environmental and ethical legitimacy Drawing on Foucault's regime of power knowledge pleasure and theorizations of the gaze it identifies what contributes to the persistent edibility of food animals even and particularly as this edibility is increasingly critiqued Beginning with the question of how animals and their bodies are variously mapped by humans according to their use value it gradually unpacks the roots of our domination of food animals a domination distinguished by the literal embodiment of the other The logics of this embodied domination are approached in three inter related parts that explore respectively how knowledge sensory and emotional associations and visibility work together to render animal's bodies as edible flesh The book concludes by exploring how to more effectively challenge the entitled gaze that maintains food animals as persistently edible Making Sense of Intellectual Capital Daniel Andriessen, 2004-02-18 Peter Drucker has introduced us all to the knowledge era where knowledge is the primary resource and intangibles intellectual capital resources and assets are now largely recognized as the most important sources of organizations competitive advantage With the recognition of the importance of Intangibles comes the problem of how to properly identify them and assign them a value within the corporation This is an area of concern in 5 fields 1 accounting and financial reporting 2 performance measurement and management 3 valuation in the finance field 4 the Human Resources field in terms of management strategy and planning and 5 Intellectual Capital Over the past eight years over 25 methods have been proposed for the valuation of intangibles coming out of these 5 fields In this book Andriessen evaluates 25 existing methods of intangible valuation according to highly developed criteria In performing his evaluations Andriessen synthesizes the state of the art research from these fields based on extensive research He then presents his own method for valuing intangibles which he began developing and testing as a Senior Manager at KPMG Knowledge Advisory Services in The Netherlands He relates six case studies in which this method was tested in actual companies carefully reviews the results of his tests and then concludes by offering a new and improved method for valuing intangibles in his Weightless Wealth Toolkit a complete step by step process for identifying valuing and managing Intangibles to help managers operate successfully in the Intangible Economy

Making Sense of Child and Family Assessment Duncan Helm, 2010 Analysing children s needs is a crucial part of assessment in child protection yet support for practitioners carrying it out is lacking Making Sense of Child and Family Assessment provides best practice guidance on how to analyse the information gathered during the assessment of the needs of children and young people and their families The application of assessment frameworks hinges on human qualities and skills which are naturally prone to bias and inconsistency This book provides practical accessible guidance on how to apply assessment frameworks successfully how to increase accuracy and empathy and how to analyse and represent children s needs faithfully in order to improve outcomes The author provides an overview of key elements of theory research and practice and covers issues such as how information is gathered and analysed by different professionals in different sectors and how this information is shared how to form accurate hypotheses about cases how to develop professional intuition and how to improve analytical skills Professionals working in child welfare and protection roles such as social workers health visitors midwives and teachers will find this practical guide to analysis invaluable in interpreting needs and outcomes The titles in the Best Practice in Working with Children series are written for the multi agency professionals working to promote children s welfare and protect them from harm Each book in the series draws on current research into what works best for children providing practical realistic suggestions as to how practitioners in social work health and education can work together to promote the resilience and safety of the children in their care Brigid Daniel is Professor of Social Work in the Department of Applied Social Science at the University of Stirling She is co author of several textbooks and practice resources on child care and protection She was a member of the multi disciplinary team that carried out a national ministerial review of child protection practice in Scotland

Making Sense of Neuroscience in the Early Years Sally Featherstone, 2017-11-16 Translating research about child neuroscience into practice in education is a daunting prospect for most practitioners In fact many see it as fraught with difficulties and risky However the importance of this research has never been more important The context of the early years in the UK has seen considerable changes within recent years with a raft of government regulation and guidance and a national move to free childcare entitlement at increasingly earlier ages Combined with a mounting pressure for accountability in Closing the Gap between disadvantaged children and those more fortunate these pressures make it fundamental that those working with young children understand what neuroscience is telling us and more important what it is not Practitioners teachers managers and governors in settings and schools will not only be called to account for the attainment of their children as measured in tests but in the way children are prepared for lifelong learning which will support them for the rest of their school lives and beyond This book is a comprehensive position statement for practitioners that highlights where we are now what we know what we don't know what research developments mean for practitioners and setting and how this fits in with the government expectations within the EYFS framework Sally Featherstone covers the current thinking in educational research and neuroscience how some of this has been misinterpreted by early adopters or over enthusiastic promoters and how new information can help practitioners to be more effective in their work with young children Making Sense of People and Place in Linguistic Landscapes Amiana Peck, Christopher Stroud, Quentin Williams, 2018-10-18 This volume offers comprehensive analyses of how we live continuously in a multiplicity and simultaneity of places It explores what it means to be in place the variety of ways in which meanings of place are made and how relationships to others are mediated through the linguistic and material semiotics of place Drawing on examples of linguistic landscapes LL over the world such as gentrified landscapes in Johannesburg and Brunswick Mozambican memorializations volatile train graffiti in Stockholm Brazilian protest marches Guadeloupian Creole signs microscapes of souvenirs in Guinea Bissau and old landscapes of apartheid in South Africa in contemporary time this book explores how we are what we are through how we are emplaced Across these examples world leading contributors explore how LLs contribute to the re imagining of different selves in the living past living the past in the present alternative presents and imagined futures It focuses particularly on how the LL in all of these mediations is read through emotionality and affect creating senses of belonging precarity and hope across a simultaneous multiplicity of worlds The volume offers a reframing of linguistics landscape research in a geohumanities framework emphasizing negotiations of self in place in LL studies building upon a rich body of LL research With over 40 illustrations it covers various methodological and epistemological issues such as the need for extended temporal engagement with landscapes a mobile approach to landscapes and how bodies engage with texts Making Sense of Science Kirsten R. materials that can be reproduced for use with teachers Making Sense of Heidegger Thomas Sheehan, 2014-11-06 Making Sense of Heidegger presents a radically new reading of Heidegger's notoriously difficult oeuvre. Clearly written and rigorously grounded in the whole of Heidegger's writings, Thomas Sheehan's latest book argues for the strict unity of Heidegger's thought on the basis of three theses: that his work was phenomenological from beginning to the end; that being refers to the meaningful presence of things in the world of human concerns; and that what makes such intelligibility possible is the existential structure of human being as the thrown-open or appropriated clearing. Sheehan offers a compelling alternative to the classical paradigm that has dominated Heidegger research over the last half century, as well as a valuable retranslation of the key terms in Heidegger's lexicon. This important book opens a new path in Heidegger research that will stimulate dialogue not only within Heidegger studies but also with philosophers outside the phenomenological tradition and scholars in theology, literary criticism, and existential psychiatry. Making Sense of Drama Jonathan Neelands, 1984 This book will give teachers from all subject areas the confidence to explore the possibilities of drama in the classroom.

Making Senses Out of Scripture Mark Shea, Reading the Bible in a way that is as old as Scripture itself. Award-winning author Mark P. Shea takes us on a fly-over of the biblical story from Genesis to Revelation. He shows you how to explore the literal, allegorical, moral, and analogical sense of Scripture. Whether you have been studying Scripture for years or are encountering it for the very first time, Making Senses Out of Scripture is an invaluable tool that it will help you see biblical revelation afresh as Christians have done for 2000 years. Making Sense out of Meaning Walter Hirtle, 2013-11-01 In his exploration of word meaning, Walter Hirtle examines an important and controversial topic in lexical semantics: polysemy, the capacity of words to manifest a range of different meanings when employed in different contexts. Building on the work of French linguist Gustave Guillaume, Making Sense out of Meaning is a speaker-oriented study that describes how speakers form word meaning and not, as in other theories, how listeners interpret the meaning of what they hear. Hirtle develops a general model of the ways in which words and word meaning may be realized in discourse contexts and addresses such issues as the demarcation of polysemy and monosemy, metaphorical meaning, parts of speech, and the concept of conversion or zero derivation. Bringing together both lexical and grammatical components, Hirtle shows that distinct lexical senses can be observed and their relations can be understood by focusing on speakers' use of verbs and nouns. A methodical and thoughtful work, Making Sense out of Meaning situates its central question by recalling traditional views of language's relation to thought and argues for meaning as a valid object of scientific inquiry. Making Sense of God Timothy Keller, 2016-09-20 We live in an age of skepticism. Our society places such faith in empirical reason, historical progress, and heartfelt emotion that it's easy to wonder: Why should anyone believe in Christianity? What role can faith and religion play in our modern lives? In this thoughtful and inspiring new book, pastor and New York Times bestselling author Timothy Keller invites skeptics to consider that Christianity is more relevant now than ever. As human beings, we cannot live without meaning satisfaction freedom identity justice and hope Christianity provides us with unsurpassed resources to meet these needs Written for both the ardent believer and the skeptic Making Sense of God shines a light on the profound value and importance of Christianity in our lives Making Sense of the Intercultural Adrian Holliday, Sara Amadasi, 2019-11-19 In this book we wish to find a new way of talking about connecting and operationalising the third space narratives positioning and interculturality Our purpose is to shake established views in what we consider to be an urgent quest for dealing with prejudice We therefore seek to draw attention to the following How Centre structures and large culture boundaries are sources of prejudice How deCentred intercultural threads address prejudice by dissolving these boundaries How in everyday small culture formation on the go the cultural and the intercultural are observable and become indistinguishable How agency personal and grand narratives discourses and positioning become visible in unexpected ways How we researchers also bring competing narratives in making sense of the intercultural How third spaces are discordant and uncomfortable places in which all of us must struggle to achieve interculturality This book is therefore a journey of discovery with each chapter building on the previous ones While throughout there are particular empirical events interviews reconstructed ethnographic accounts and research diary entries with their own detailed analyses and insights they connect back to discussion in previous chapters Make Sense who May Robin J.
