Making the Most of the Missal John R. Ainslie, 1976      The Making of a Miracle T. W. S. Jones, 1907      The Making of Lay Religion in Southern France, c. 1000-1350 John H. Arnold, 2024-03-20

What was Christianity like for ordinary people between the turn of the millennium and the coming of the Black Death? What changed and what continued in their experiences, habits, feelings, hopes and fears? How did they know themselves to be Christians and indeed to be good Christians? This book answers those questions through a focus on one specific region, southern France, across a particularly fraught period of history, one beset by the changes wrought by the Gregorian reforms, the spectre of heresy, the violence of crusade, the coming of inquisition and the pastoral revolution associated with the Fourth Lateran Council 1215. Using an array of different historical documents, John H. Arnold explores the material contexts of Christian worship from the eleventh through to the fourteenth centuries: the shifting episcopal expectations of the ordinary laity, the changes wrought through wider socioeconomic developments and periods of sharp inflection brought by the Albigensian crusade and its aftermath. Throughout the book, it explores the complex spectrum of lay piety, finding enthusiasms and doubts, faith and scepticism, agency and negotiation. It explores not just developments in the content of faith for the laity but the very dynamics of belief as a lived experience. We are shown how, across these key centuries, Christianity developed in its external practices but also via inculcating a more interiorized and affective mode of belief, and thus it is argued it can be said to have become truly a religion, a structured, demanding and rewarding faith for the many and not just the few.

The Oxford Handbook of the Merovingian World Bonnie Effros, Isabel Moreira, 2020 The Merovingian world has become more visible in Anglophone historical studies in the past two decades as attention to the social and economic networks of empires and modes of communication has begun to change older frameworks that viewed these centuries in terms of decline and characterized them as the Dark Ages The Merovingian epoch witnessed something which we understand from the perspective of hindsight a tilt to the middle ages The forty six essays included in this volume thus highlight the vitality and importance of the Merovingian kingdoms in the fifth through eighth centuries Rather than suggest that this was a chaotic and obscure interlude between the Fall of the Roman Empire and the Rise of the Carolingians and named for a dynasty with a reputation for few accomplishments and even fewer memorable kings the essays demonstrate that the Merovingian era is an important field in its own right The Handbook's contributors highlight recent research that moves beyond the political developments that were until recently the bread and butter of most historians and include many contributions based on material culture that shed new light on subjects that previously were inaccessible They demonstrate that the Merovingian world was at the center of a wide ranging Merovingian empire of elites peasants economies and cultures and its story must be told through archaeology bio archaeology architecture hagiographic literature manuscripts liturgy visionary literature and eschatology patristics numismatics and material culture In addition to mainland France the essays encompass the geographic conduits of power culture and trade that connected the Merovingian world with Anglo Saxon England Ireland Frisia Spain Italy North Africa and the Byzantine Empire This network empire of intersecting and often conflicting identities political interests religions economies patronage and cultures were intrinsically connected to contemporary developments not just among the Burgundians and Visigoths but among the Byzantines Avars Anglo Saxons Frisians and the Irish fields that were once viewed like the Merovingians themselves in isolation These
