Making Things Happen James Woodward, 2005-10-27 In Making Things Happen James Woodward develops a new and ambitious comprehensive theory of causation and explanation that draws on literature from a variety of disciplines and which applies to a wide variety of claims in science and everyday life His theory is a manipulationist account proposing that causal and explanatory relationships are relationships that are potentially exploitable for purposes of manipulation and control This account has its roots in the commonsense idea that causes are means for bringing about effects but it also draws on a long tradition of work in experimental design econometrics and statistics Woodward shows how these ideas may be generalized to other areas of science from the social scientific and biomedical contexts for which they were originally designed He also provides philosophical foundations for the manipulationist approach drawing out its implications comparing it with alternative approaches and defending it from common criticisms In doing so he shows how the manipulationist account both illuminates important features of successful causal explanation in the natural and social sciences and avoids the counterexamples and difficulties that infect alternative approaches from the deductive nomological model onwards Making Things Happen will interest philosophers working in the philosophy of science the philosophy of social science and metaphysics and as well as anyone interested in causation explanation and scientific methodology

Before he was forty Nigel Vinson inventor entrepreneur philanthropist and farmer had achieved what many struggle to achieve in a lifetime He had created and built up a successful company based on his own ideas floated it on the stock exchange and made more than enough money to never have to work again But instead of retiring Vinson forged a unique career in British public life as he sought to find answers to the daunting political and economic problems confronting Britain This was partly achieved through the wider application of ideas he had developed when running his own business but also by helping funding and cooperating with others he judged capable of making a contribution to the country's recovery We have it on the authority of Margaret Thatcher herself that Thatcherism would never have happened without the Centre for Policy Studies the think tank Vinson helped her establish This biography tells the story of a man whose influence both direct and indirect has been considerably greater than is widely realised He is a man who saw through the fashionable shibboleths of his day but was often ahead of the trend a man whose do as you would be done by moral philosophy enormously practical nature and infectious enthusiasm have been fundamental to his continued success Nigel Vinson is a man who has made things happen and he continues to do so to this day What Makes Things Happen Kim Treiger-Bar-Am, 2025-06-30

People consider luck chance fate and freedom to be forces that bring about events This book explores the customs associated with each of these concepts alongside practices rooted in Judaism Sometimes incidents seem to be the result of luck Often no apparent reason lies behind them Indeed people live with uncertainty It is also often supposed that chance causes things to occur In modern science the world is deemed to be governed by randomness Perhaps it is fate that makes things happen Yet the Jewish tradition does not abide by the idea from classical Greece which has continued until today that one's path in life and its endpoint are predetermined by fate Rather in Judaism repentance is an open avenue always People have free will and at any moment can change their behavior for the better In Jewish thought as well as in many modern day notions freedom is presumed to be the real cause of events With freedom someone can choose to act and can make things happen The instances of climate change democracy and the current war that Israel faces illuminate the necessity of holding onto the belief in our freedom People can make a difference

How to Make Things Happen Beatriz Muñoz-Seca, 2017-08-21 This book offers models and frameworks to analyze your service delivery systems as a whole It presents the framework to solve customer problems by delivering the right knowledge at the right time to the right place and take advantage of the efficiency that technology and algorithms offer Why do so many brilliant plans fail to deliver in practice Why can t your employees just do what you want them to do In most cases because the operations eco system in which those plans must be deployed fails to fully understand the problem that needs to be solved The fourth industrial revolution is seeing advances in Artificial Intelligence industrialize the service sector But despite the cost cutting that these advances offer firms are still struggling to stay competitive That is because they think that cost cutting delivers increased efficiency whereas it is the other way around increased efficiency cuts costs And the heart of efficiency in delivering services is people and their knowledge As industrialization drives ever more standardized offerings and ever little human contact it is in those rare moments of human interaction where the greatest opportunity to add or destroy value lies It is human brains and the knowledge they contain that are best suited to problem solving and individualizing client solutions The real competitive edge will become the ability to foresee and individualize problem solving To do this firms must start thinking of knowledge as inventory who knows what who needs to know what and where and when do they need to know it

Poetry, Poets, Readers Peter Robinson,2002 Poetry Poets Readers is a defence of poetry against the protective moves which claim that poets never lie because they never affirm or that their poems exist in a separate world These much re iterated manoeuvres for safe guarding poetry by banishing it from an active role in life can paradoxically go hand in hand with a poet's yearning for the authority of a legislator Through detailed considerations of poetry by Shakespeare Keats Yeats Auden Elizabeth Bishop and Paul Muldoon along with sustained meditations on question forms in poems the role of fact in fictions the nature of literary value speech acts and performative utterances issued by poets the book sets out a fresh model for relationships between poetry poets and readers one which allows the historical fact of poems having made things happen to be itself happening Peter Robinson himself an award winning poet explores what we do by imagining when we read or write poems In describing how poetry poets and readers make things happen the poet offers us an invitation and implies a promise Taking up the one we find out how to keep the other
