Making The Grade Reflections On Being Learning Disabled:

Making the Grade Dayle A. Upham, Virginia H. Trumbull, 1997 Like many people with a learning disability Dayle Upham experienced academic and professional failure Yet somehow she found the inner strength to persevere and ultimately obtain her Ph D What is the strength How did she find it And what strategies did she develop to help her cope These are the questions addressed in this poignant personal account Each chapter is a reflection on her experiences offering dramatic examples of the academic and social problems she endured Virginia Trumbull Dayle s mentor and a special education expert explains the implications of each situation in the context of today s research An essential strategy section describes the unique and successful coping strategies Dayle developed to help her overcome her disability Disability Studies and the Inclusive Classroom Susan Baglieri, Arthur Shapiro, 2012 This work s mission is to integrate the fields of disability studies and inclusive education It focuses on the broad foundational topics that comprise disability studies culture language history etc and moves into the more practical topics normally associated with inclusive education Women from Another Planet? Jean Kearns Miller, 2003-08-06 Mention the word autism and the room suddenly turns silent Its the dreaded A word Peoples attention turns to late night TV public service ads declaring that autistic children are imprisoned by autism and need curing at all cost Recent autobiographies have helped dispel this dire description by suggesting that autism is not a prison and that the door is unlocked and youre free to come in Women from Another Planet moves beyond these autistic life stories in important ways Its a collection of stories and conversations all of them by women on the autism spectrum who speak candidly insightfully and often engagingly about both their gender in terms of their autism and their autism in terms of their gender It is written not just for parents and professionals like the other works but also to those women still searching for ways to understand the unnamed difference they live with as well as the wider audience of discerning readers If you enter the unlocked door of these Women from Another Planet you may end up with a question mark or two about your planet Is normalcy really all its cracked up to be Reader's Block Matthew Rubery, 2022-10-04 What does the term reading mean Matthew Rubery s exploration of the influence neurodivergence has on the ways individuals read asks us to consider that there may be no one definition This alternative history of reading tells the stories of atypical readers and the impact had on their lives by neurological conditions affecting their ability to make sense of the printed word from dyslexia hyperlexia and alexia to synesthesia hallucinations and dementia Rubery s focus on neurodiversity aims to transform our understanding of the very concept of reading Drawing on personal testimonies gathered from literature film life writing social media medical case studies and other sources to express how cognitive differences have shaped people s experiences both on and off the page Rubery contends that there is no single activity known as reading Instead there are multiple ways of reading and for that matter not reading despite the ease with which we use the term Pushing us to rethink what it means to read Reader s Block moves toward an understanding of reading as a spectrum that is capacious enough to accommodate the full range of activities documented in this fascinating and highly original book Read it from cover to cover out of sequence or piecemeal Read it upside down sideways or in a mirror For just as there is no right way to read there is no right way to read this book What matters is that you are doing something with it something that Rubery proposes should be called reading Resources in Education ,2000-10 The Publishers Weekly ,1997 Literacy Lessons Margaret J. Finders,Susan Hynds,2003 For Language Arts English and Middle School methods courses graduate level literacy courses With its sights clearly set on middle school teachers and the middle school teaching experience this new text expands the definition of literacy to encompass today s popular electronic and audiovisual media Research driven coverage offers a thorough presentation of the theory of middle school teaching plus a wealth of real stories from real classrooms that demonstrate strategies in actual practice The authors address the current emphasis on standards discussing their advantages and disadvantages and integrating them throughout They also embrace the notion of inclusion by offering numerous suggestions for teaching special needs students in the regular classroom and explore the social and cultural complexities and the joys and challenges of teaching today s adolescents Differentiating Instruction in Inclusive Classrooms Diane Haager,Janette K. Klingner,2005 Almost 90% of special education teachers work with disabled students in a general education classroom In this guide Haager reading and learning disabilities California State U Los Angeles and Klingner bilingual education U

Language Arts and Literacy in the Middle Grades Margaret J. Finders,Susan Hynds,2007 From two prominent scholars in the field of literacy comes a middle school teacher preparation text that offers important innovations not usually found in traditional secondary methods texts The book is rife with concrete examples of teaching literacy and language arts in middle school contexts but is relevant to preservice and practicing teachers at middle and high school levels This edition includes a stronger focus on culturally relevant pedagogy and the needs of English Language Learners as well as a Standards in Practice feature which helps teachers incorporate state and national standards in teaching and planning The book is based on a teacher as inquirer model A fieldwork component provides tools for classroom inquiry and reflection in each chapter The book is timely and relevant with classroom cases written by experienced and new middle school language arts teachers

Learning Disability
Grant, Gordon, Ramcharan, Paul, Flynn, Margaret, 2010-05-01. Learning Disability uses a life cycle approach to show how those with learning disabilities can be helped most at different stages in their lives.

Taking on a Learning Disability
Erin McCloskey, 2012-08-01. In the United States, approximately 2.5 million students are diagnosed as having a learning disability, and the majority of those children are placed in special education because of an inability to read as expected. As a result of this diagnosis, these children may be placed in special education classrooms, classrooms that are separate from the mainstream population. For children with learning disabilities, there is likely no place other than in school where a student's inability to read as expected leads to this separation from his/her peers. Once school is over, these children play alongside the kids in their neighborhoods, participate in sports teams, and attend community activities. This book looks at the impact of being labeled as learning disabled and separated from peers in school through the eyes of Samson, a middle school student described both as learning disabled and a non-reader. This qualitative case study explores how Samson, his family, his teachers, and this researcher make sense of special education and the complexities of learning to read as an adolescent. Throughout this book, there is a contrasting of the laws and procedures designed to guide special education with the actual experiences of those impacted by these laws and procedures. Through the three years that Samson was in middle school, this book investigates his perspective on his classes, his interpretation of what it means to be a student in special education, and the process by which he learns to read How disability gets created contested and discussed is highlighted through the many contexts that allow disability to be recognized and to fade into the background

Success for College Students with Learning Disabilities Susan A. Vogel, Pamela B. Adelman, 2012-12-06 JANET W LERNER This timely volume explores issues pertinent to the emerging subject of college education for adults with learning disabilities The inspiration for the book was a conference held at Barat College in Lake Forest Illinois on April 7 1990 entitled College Students with Learning Disabilities Reviewing the 80s and Planning for the 90s The occasion was the celebration of the tenth anniversary of Barat College's program for college students with learning disabilities Papers presented at this conference plus several additional invited chapters and those of the co editors are included in this much needed publication Only a few years ago college was out of the question for most adults with learning disabilities It is heartening to note that this situation has changed substantially over the last 15 or so years with great strides in opportunities for adults with learning disabilities to acquire a college level education From a slow beginning with programs such as the one at Barat College there are today programs and support services in a variety of settings at a growing number of colleges and universities Many individuals with learning disabilities can look forward to experiencing college and better preparing themselves for the future The collection of papers in this book offers a comprehensive review of this exciting and challenging field

Expectations of what was to be seen reflecting off of the smooth surface of the water trough was not to be Clear blue green water filled to the brim clearly showed an aged face of a man mystified by a personal image Hints of specific features were reminiscent of Father's the family's inherited nose dad's black eyes in furrowed brows and even Mother's hidden silent humour Where had the years gone Bits of recalled memories drift in and out of the mind's eye though not in chronicle order Dates and years as mixed up as the faces of people at various stages of life Faces were familiar though names were difficult to recall Dates years and ages were non-existent The stories were most prevalent most vivid with minute details and background facts connected to others and their stories Farm animals their personalities and stories also intermingled in time frames of Ed's life maybe more affectionate than family and close friends Animals are funny serious and emotional
