Making Use Of History In New South Africa:

Making Use of History in New South African Fiction Sten Pultz Moslund, 2003 A study of the use of history as political ammunition and literature as historical counter discourse in Mongane Serote's Gods of Our Time Mike Nicol's The Ibis Tapestry and Zakes Mda's Ways of Dying Moslund shows how literary engagement with the past seeks to rupture the continuity of a strongly dichotomised epistemology and through that dissolve the inherited polarisation of society Falsification of history is exposed as constructed discourse and past simplifications of reality as sharply demarcated into homogenous self justifying categorisations of Us against Them are challenged with paradox doubt and introspection The Past Coming to Roost in the Present Adrian Knapp, 2006-10-07 Since the final demise of apartheid in 1994 South Africa has undergone dramatic changes in the political social and economic sphere It is not surprising that these changes have also resulted in contentious reassessments of recent history Many contemporary South African writers have taken up the challenge and created works offering new ways of critically re imagining the country's violent past While Andr P Brink's Imaginings of Sand and Zakes Mda's Ways of Dying constitute renegotiations of the past during the period of transition J M Coetzee's Disgrace and Phaswane Mpe's Welcome to our Hillbrow represent deliberations of a past that has been hampered in its change by a flawed transition Just as history can never be taken at face value and never constitutes a finite all inclusive narration of the past the historical accounts provided in these texts often present a one sided picture of history when considered only on their representational level On the metafictional level however these texts often put such misreadings into perspective and in doing so open up an otherwise monochrome reflection of South Africa's rainbow Doing History Linda S. Levstik, Keith C. Barton, 2022-09-06 Now in its sixth edition Doing History offers a unique perspective on teaching and learning history in the elementary and middle grades Through case studies of teachers and students in diverse classrooms and from diverse backgrounds it shows children engaging in authentic historical investigations often in the context of an integrated social studies curriculum The book is grounded in the view that children can engage in valid forms of historical inquiry asking questions collecting and analyzing evidence examining the varied perspectives and experiences of people in the past and creating evidence based historical accounts and interpretations Grounded in contemporary sociocultural theory and research the text features vignettes in each chapter showing communities of teachers and students doing history in environments rich in literature art writing and discussion The authors explain how these classrooms reflect contemporary principles of teaching and learning and thus the descriptions not only provide specific examples of successful activities but also place them in a context that allows teachers to adapt and apply them in a wide range of settings Doing History emphasizes diversity in two ways Readers encounter students from a variety of backgrounds and see how their diverse experiences can form the foundation for learning and they also see examples of how teachers can engage students with diverse experiences and perspectives in the past including those that led to conflict and oppression The book also discusses principles for working with English learners and newcomers and it provides guidance in using multiple forms of assessment to evaluate the specifically historical aspects of children's learning. Updates to this edition include updated historical and instructional examples to ensure currency, new suggestions for children's literature to support good teaching, expanded attention to teaching about oppressed groups in history, and greater attention to when historical perspective taking is and is not appropriate.

Literature and the Arts since the 1960s Jorge Almeida e Pinho, Márcia Lemos, 2020-08-13 This collection of essays focuses on addressing the imaginative wake of the rebellious late 1960s with a particular but not exclusive focus on word and image relations. The volume showcases and discusses the impact of such processes on literature and the arts of that mythologized historical period. It explores the impact of its defining causes, hopes and regrets on the creative imagination. The awakening moment for that extraordinary momentous period in the global socio-political memory was May 1968, which came to be seen as the culmination and epitome of a series of processes involving protest and the affirmation of previously silent or subaltern causes. Such processes and causes were predicated on challenges to established powers and mindsets and hence on demands for change which have had rich consequences in literature and the arts.

Discourses That Matter Maria José Canelo, 2013-10-03 How can English and American Studies be instrumental to conceptualizing the deep instability we are presently facing? How can they address the coordinates of this instability such as war, terrorism, the current economic and financial crisis, and the consequent myriad forms of deprivation and fear? How can they tackle the strategies of dehumanization, invisibility, and the naturalization of inequality and injustice entailed in contemporary discourses? This anthology grew out of an awareness of the need to debate the role of English and American Studies both in the present context and in relation to the so-called demise of the Humanities. Drawing on Judith Butler's rethinking of materiality as the effect of power in her study Bodies That Matter (1993), we locate this collection of essays at the crossroads of discourse and power while we expect the work collected here to highlight the ability of discourses to materialize in or as truth and as such to support or decry particular constituencies. Discourses therefore matter to us as products and vehicles of power relations that can be subject to the analytical and interpretative tools of English and American Studies. Our idea was to challenge especially young scholars to position their research concerning the ability of their fields to be discourses that matter in the case in point to be critical practices that make an active intervention in current debates. By focusing on matters such as language as witness to the world, representations of gender, race, and ethnicity, performative discourses, exceptionalism, and power and interculturality, these essays pursue the chance to deepen, enlarge, and question both literary and cultural phenomena, their established critical readings, and the strategies deployed in representations. Finally, English and American Studies in the present collection demonstrate their affiliation to the Humanities by exploring the numerous possibilities offered by their discourses, their ability to foster critical thought, allowing us to think for and outside ourselves, their capacity to test, argue, and question, and their profound imaginative potential.

of South African History and Geography George McCall Theal,1876 African pasts Tim Woods,2018-09-30 African pasts examines African literatures in English since the end of colonialism investigating how they represents African history through the twin matrices of memory and trauma Inextricably tied up with the historical conditions of Africa s colonisation charting the emergence of its independence and scrutinising Africa s contemporary neo colonial and postcolonial states as a legacy of the colonial past African literatures are continually preoccupied with exploring modes of representation to work through their different traumatic colonial pasts Among other issues this book deals with literature in the era of apartheid the post apartheid aftermath metafictional experiments in African fiction gender representation in reaction to the trauma of colonialism and imprisonment narratives African pasts covers a wide range of African literatures and a cross section of genres fiction poetry prison narratives postcolonial theory and embraces such well known writers as Soyinka Coetzee Ngugi and Achebe and more recent writers such as Nuruddin Farah Tsitsi Dangarembga Achmat Dangor Etienne van Heerden Zakes Mda Gillian Slovo and Calixthe Beyala History of Soybeans and Soyfoods in Africa (1857-2019) William Shurtleff; Akiko Aoyagi,2019-04-08 The world s most comprehensive well documented and well illustrated book on this subject With extensive subject and geographical index 113 photographs and illustrations mostly color Free of charge in digital PDF format on Google Books Modern World History for Edexcel Specification A. Malcolm Chandler,2001 This student book is a foundation edition of the syllabus specific text for GCSE Modern World History for Edexcel This text provides a simplified version of the core textbook and is targeting students expecting to gain C to G grades My Revision Notes: Edexcel AS/A-level History South Africa, 1948-94: from apartheid state to 'rainbow nation' Peter Clements,2018-04-09 Target success in Edexcel AS A level History with this proven formula for effective structured revision key content coverage is combined with exam preparation activities and exam style questions to create a revision guide that students can rely on to review strengthen and test their knowledge Enables students to plan and manage a successful revision programme using the topic by topic planner Consolidates knowledge with clear and focused content coverage organised into easy to revise chunks Encourages active revision by closely combining historical content with related activities Helps students build practise and enhance their exam skills as they progress through activities set at three different levels Improves exam technique through exam style questions with sample answers and commentary from expert authors and teachers Boosts historical knowledge with a useful glossary and timeline History, Memory, and State-Sponsored Violence Berber Bevernage,2012-11-27 Modern historiography embraces the notion that time is irreversible implying that the past should be imagined as something absent or distant Victims of historical injustice however in contrast often claim that the past got stuck in the present and that it retains a haunting presence History Memory and State Sponsored Violence is centered around the provocative thesis that the way one deals with historical injustice and the ethics of history is strongly dependent on the way one conceives of historical time that the concept of time traditionally used by historians is structurally more compatible with the perpetrators than the victims point of view Demonstrating that the claim of victims about the continuing presence of the past should be taken seriously instead of being treated as merely metaphorical Berber Bevernage argues that a genuine understanding of the irrevocable past demands a radical break with modern historical discourse and the concept of time By embedding a profound philosophical reflection on the themes of historical time and historical discourse in a concrete series of case studies this project transcends the traditional divide between empirical historiography on the one hand and the so called theoretical approaches to history on the other It also breaks with the conventional analytical philosophy of history that has been dominant during the last decades raising a series of long neglected big questions about the historical condition questions about historical time the unity of history and the ontological status of present and past programmatically pleading for a new historical ethics
