The Archaeology of Lapita Dispersal in Oceania

Geoffrey Richard Clark, Atholl Anderson, Tarisi Vunidilo, 2001 Papers from the Fourth Lapita Conference held in Canberra

Lapita archaeology is of fundamental importance to understanding the Pacific since it unearths information about the first people to establish themselves beyond the Solomon Islands to as far east as Samoa around 3000 years ago

The Cannibal Within Lewis F. Petrinovich, The Cannibal Within offers an evolutionary account of the propensity of human beings in extreme circumstances to eat other human beings despite the strong Western taboo against such practices What sets this volume apart from the large body of literature on cannibalism both popular and anthropological is the underlying premise cannibalism as an alternative to starvation is tacitly condoned by the same biological morality that would condemn cannibalism of other sorts in non threatening situations Deep as the taboos may be the survival instinct runs even deeper The title of the book reflects the author s belief that cannibalism is not a pathology that erupts in psychotic individuals but is a universal adaptive strategy that is evolutionarily sound The cannibal is within all of us and cannibals are within all cultures should the circumstances demand cannibalism s appearance and usage Petrinovich s work is rich in historical detail and rises to a level of theoretical sophistication in addressing a subject too often dealt with in sensationalist terms The major instances in which survival cannibalism has occurred convinced the author that there is a consistent pattern and a uniform regularity of order in which different kinds of individuals are consumed In considering who eats whom when and under what circumstances this regularity appears and it is consistent with what would be expected on the basis of evolutionary or Darwinian theory In short he concludes that starvation cannibalism is not a manifestation of the chaotic psychotic behavior of individuals who are driven to madness but reveals underlying characteristics of evolved human beings Lewis Petrinovich is professor emeritus in the Department of Psychology of the University of California Riverside and is currently a resident of Berkeley California

They Married Adventure Pascal James Imperato, 1999-03 Martin and Osa Johnson thrilled American audiences of the 1920s and 30s with their remarkable movies of far away places exotic peoples and the dramatic spectacle of African wildlife Their own lives were as exciting as the movies they made sailing through the South Sea Islands dodging big game at African waterholes flying small planes over the veldt taking millionaires on safari Osa Johnson s ghostwritten autobiography I Married Adventure became a national bestseller The 1939 film version was billed as the story of World Exploration s First Lady whose indomitable daring would be stayed by neither snarling lion nor crouching leopard tropic tempest nor savage tribesman Heroes to millions Osa and Martin seemed to embody glamor daring and the all American ideal of self reliance Probing beneath the glamor of the Johnsons public image Pascal and Eleanor Imperato explore the more human side of the couple s lives and ways the Johnsons shaped for better and for worse America s vision of Africa Drawing on many years of research access to a wealth of letters and archives interviews with many who worked closely with the Johnsons and their own deep knowledge of Africa the authors present a fascinating and intimate portrait of this intrepid couple

Archaeological Perspectives on Conflict and Warfare in Australia and the Pacific Geoffrey Clark, Mirani Litster, 2022-03-08 When James Boswell famously lamented the irrationality of war in 1777 he noted the universality of conflict across history and across space even reaching what he described as the gentle and benign southern ocean nations This volume discusses archaeological evidence of conflict from those southern oceans from Palau and Guam to Australia Vanuatu and Tonga the Marquesas Easter Island and New Zealand The evidence for conflict and warfare encompasses defensive earthworks on Palau fortifications on Tonga and intricate pa sites in New Zealand It reports evidence of reciprocal sacrifice to appease deities in several island nations and skirmishes and smaller scale conflicts including in Easter Island This volume traces aspects of colonial era conflict in Australia and frontier battles in Vanuatu and discusses depictions of World War II materiel in the rock art of Arnhem Land Among the causes and motives discussed in these papers are pressure on resources the ebb and flow of significant climate events and the significant association of conflict with culture contact The volume necessarily selective eclectic and wide ranging includes an incisive introduction that situates the evidence persuasively in the broader scholarship addressing the history of human warfare

The Politics of Land in Vanuatu Howard Van Trease, 1987

The South Seas in the Modern World Felix M. Keesing, 2025-05-01 The South Seas in the Modern World 1942 surveys the economic social educational and strategic problems facing the islands of the Pacific dependencies on the eve of the Second World War The ways of living that met the needs of the islanders had been disrupted by the arrival of white traders and missionaries carrying with them new diseases causing economic distress and social chaos As Island societies began to stabilise global war waged by distant colonial powers caused repercussions across the region

Totemism and Exogamy James George Frazer, 2000-07-10 A treatise on early forms of superstition and society Includes reprints of Totemism 1887 The Origins of Totemism 1899 The Beginnings of Religion and Totemism 1905 and Totemica A Supplement to Totemism and Exogamy 1937 Religions of Melanesia Garry Trompf, 2006-09-30 Melanesia boasts over one quarter of the world's distinct religions and presents the most complex religious panorama on earth. The region is famous for its unusual new religious movements that have adapted traditional beliefs to modernity in surprising ways. As the first bibliographical survey to comprehensively cover the entire region, Religions of Melanesia is an invaluable research aid for anyone interested in this growing field. Trompf's work is a complete listing of scholarly publications and provides readable and concise descriptions that will clearly guide the researcher toward the most relevant sources. This survey covers 2188 entries organized topically and regionally. Trompf covers such subjects as traditional and modern belief systems and the emergent indigenous Christianity that has taken root. Regional coverage includes Irian Jaya, Papua New Guinea, Solomon Islands, Vanuatu, New Caledonia, and Fiji. Gender and Kinship Jane Fishburne Collier, Sylvia Junko Yanagisako, 1987 A Stanford University Press classic Historical Archaeology of Early Modern Colonialism in Asia-Pacific Maria Cruz Berrocal, Cheng-hwa Tsang, 2017-12-19 The essential source for scholarly reassessment of the Asia Pacific region's diverse and significant archaeology and history. James P. Delgado, coauthor of The Maritime Landscape of the Isthmus of Panama, underpins a nuanced picture of Asia Pacific that shows how the activities of the Chinese and Japanese in East Asia, the spread of Islam from South Asia, and the efforts of the Iberians and especially the Spanish from southern Europe ushered in a world of complex interaction and rapid and often profound change in local, regional, and wider cultural patterns. Ian Lilley, editor of Archaeology of Oceania: Australia and the Pacific Islands. The history of Asia Pacific since 1500 has traditionally been told with Europe as the main player ushering in a globalized capitalist world. But these volumes help decentralize that global history, revealing that preexisting trade networks and local authorities influenced the region before and long after Europeans arrived. In the volume The Southwest Pacific and Oceanian Regions, case studies from Alofi, Vanuatu, the Marianas, Hawaii, Guam, and Taiwan compare the development of colonialism across different islands. Contributors discuss human settlement before the arrival of Dutch, French, British, and Spanish explorers, tracing major exchange routes that were active as early as the tenth century. They highlight rarely examined sixteenth and seventeenth-century encounters between indigenous populations and Europeans and draw attention to how cross-cultural interaction impacted the local peoples of Oceania. The volume The Asia Pacific Region looks at colonialism in the Philippines, China, Japan, and Vietnam, emphasizing the robust trans-regional networks that existed before European contact. Southeast Asia had long been influenced by Buddhist, Hindu, and Muslim traders in ways that helped build the region's ethnic and political divisions. Essays show the complexity and significance of maritime trade during European colonization by investigating galleon wrecks in Manila, Japan's porcelain exports, and Spanish coins discovered off China's coast. Packed with archaeological and historical evidence from both land and underwater sites, impressive in geographical scope and featuring perspectives of scholars from many different countries and traditions, these volumes illuminate the often misunderstood nature of early colonialism in Asia Pacific

Naturalist Histories Jamon Alex Halvaksz, Joshua A.

Bell, 2024-03-31 From early explorers to contemporary scientists naturalists have examined island flora and fauna of Oceania discovering new species carefully documenting the lives of animals and creating work central to the image of Oceania These discoveries and exploratory moves have had profound local and global impacts Often however local knowledge and communities are silent in the ethologies and histories that naturalists produce This volume analyzes the ways that Indigenous and non Indigenous naturalists have made island natures visible to a wider audience their relationship with the communities where they work as well as the unique natures that they explore and help make In staking out an area of naturalist histories each contributor addresses the relationship between naturalists and Oceanic communities how these histories shaped past and present place and practices the influence on conservations and development projects and the relationship between scientific and indigenous knowledge The essays span across colonial and postcolonial frames tracing shifts in biological practice from the eighteenth and nineteenth century focus on taxonomy and discovery to the twentieth century disciplinary restructurings and new collecting strategies and contemporary concerns with biodiversity loss conservation and knowledge formation The production of scientific knowledge is typically seen in ethnographic accounts as oppositional contrasting Indigenous and western local and global objective and subjective Such dichotomous views reinforce differences and further exaggerate inequities in the production of knowledge More dangerously value distinctions become embedded in discussions of Indigenous identity rights and sovereignty Contributors acknowledge that these dichotomous narratives have dominated the approach of the scientific community while informing how social scientists have understood the contributions of Pacific communities The essays offer a nuanced gradient as historical narratives of scientific investigation in dialogue with local histories and reveal greater levels of participation in the creation of knowledge The volume highlights how power infuses the scientific endeavor and offers a distinct and diverse view of knowledge production in Oceania Combining senior and emerging international scholars the collection will be of interest to researchers in the social sciences history as well as biology and allied fields

Arts of Vanuatu Joël Bonnemaïson, 1996-01-01 This prodigiously diverse and living culture has

for its spiritual source a single traditional vision central to which is the fact that the world belongs not to the living but to the ancestors In Vanuatu art we have the construction of canoes and of standing slit drums the inventiveness apparent in the masks and mats the aesthetics of dress the raising of tusker pigs the sharing out of sea turtle meat the symbol of the hawk representing the outward sign of the possession of the world through the eyes of the departed This art sacred in inspiration takes root in the magic of each place and shore Arts of Vanuatu is the first major contemporary anthropology work covering such a range of topics It is also the first work covering the traditional art of the former South Pacific island colony of the New Hebrides

The Melanesian World Eric Hirsch, Will Rollason, 2019-03-28 This wide ranging volume captures the diverse range of societies and experiences that form what has come to be known as Melanesia It covers prehistoric historic and contemporary issues and includes work by art historians political scientists geographers and anthropologists The chapters range from studies of subsistence ritual and ceremonial exchange to accounts of state violence new media and climate change The Melanesian world assembled here raises questions that cut to the heart of debates in the human sciences today with profound implications for the ways in which scholars across disciplines can describe and understand human difference This impressive collection of essays represents a valuable resource for scholars and students alike The Resolution Journal of Johann Reinhold Forster, 1772-1775 Michael E. Hoare, 2016-12-05 This presents the previously unpublished journal of the principal naturalist on Cook's second voyage The main pagination of this volume and the three previous volumes in the set Second series 152-154 is continuous Overshadowed for nearly two hundred years in European scholarship by the achievements and reputation of his eldest son George Forster J. R. Forster principal naturalist on James Cook's second voyage was nevertheless recognised by many contemporaries as one of the universal geniuses of the late 18th century His journal of the voyage offers many new insights expressed at times in quite unrestrained language into the day to day relationships life and thinking and theory testing on the second and the most scientific and the most epic of Cook's voyages However the circumstances of Forster's career and personality were such that his work was dogged by debilitating disputes and vendettas Consequently important works such as this journal which would have established him as the leading comparative anthropologist linguist geographer and zoologist of the Pacific have thus far remained obscure and seldom used manuscripts Anthropologists ethnolinguists geographers botanists zoologists and medical and literary historians will find here much new observation and theory for the two Forsters fashioned forces to influence Alexander von Humboldt and foretell Charles Darwin This is a new print on demand hardback edition of the volume first published in 1981 A Melanesia Bibliography Terence A.
