Gender, Ethnicity, and Violence in Kenya's Transitions to Democracy Lyn Ossome, 2018-04-02 Critiquing the valorization of democracy as a means of containing violence and stabilizing political contestation this book draws links between the democratization process and sexual gendered violence observed against women during electioneering periods in Kenya The book shows the contradictory relationship between democracy and gendered violence as being largely influenced in the first instance by the capitalist interests vested in the colonial state and its imperative to exploit laboring women secondly in the nature of the postcolonial state and politics largely captured by ethnic bourgeois class interests and third influenced by neoliberal political ideology that has remained largely disarticulated from women s structural positions in Kenyan society It argues that colonial capitalist interests established certain patterns of gender exploitation that extended into the postcolonial period such that the indigenous bourgeoisie took the form of an ethnicized elite Ethnicity shaped politics and neoliberal political ideology further blocked women's integration into politics in substantive ways It concludes that it is not so much the norms and values of liberal democracy that assist in understanding women's exclusion but rather the structural dynamics that have shaped women's experiences of democratic politics In this way gender violence in the context of democratization and electoral violence with its gendered manifestation can be fully understood as deeply embedded in the history of the structural dynamics of colonialism capitalism and patriarchy in Kenya

Men, Women, and the Power of Empathy A. R.

Maslow, 2006-11 Does this sound familiar A woman in relationship with a man finds herself complaining that he can't just listen and try to understand her feelings and experience During arguments he acts like he's being attacked and tries to prove he's right with the facts When she's upset he accuses her of over reacting when he's upset he insists that nothing is wrong Don't give up Men Women and the Power of Empathy breaks this painful stalemate It helps you and your partner gain understanding and practical strategies to fully tap the benefits of an empathic connection Working together you will learn to let go of being right avoid having to fix it express clean anger know more of what you feel and care for your relationship as a separate entity Yes men have difficulty grasping the entirety of empathy When you both understand and respect his hidden vulnerabilities what threatens and shames him behind his defensive mask you will find he can lower his guard and reveal the empathic person he is capable of being As he does you will experience more of the closeness you crave bringing a powerful lasting change to your relationship

Bonds of Community Nancy Grey Osterud, 2018-08-06

Women held a central place in long settled rural communities like the Nanticoke Valley in upstate New York during the late nineteenth century Their lives were limited by the bonds of kinship and labor but farm women found strength in these bonds as well Although they lacked control over land and were second class citizens these rural women did not occupy a separate sphere Individually and collectively they responded to inequality by actively enlarging the dimensions of sharing in their relationships with men Nancy Grey Osterud uses a rich store of diaries letters and other first person documents in addition to public and organizational records to reconstruct the everyday lives of ordinary women of the past Exploring large questions within the confines of a single community she analyzes the ways in which notions of gender structured women's interactions with their families and neighbors their place in the farm family economy and their participation in organized community activities Rare turn of the century photographs of the rural landscape formal and informal family portraits and scenes of daily life and labor add a special dimension to Bonds of Community It should find a ready audience among women's historians labor historians rural historians and historians of New York State
