Researching Health Needs A Community Based Approach:

Researching Health Needs Judy Payne,1999-12-21 Researching Health Needs is an easy to use introductory guide to the main social research techniques used to gather evidence about the health needs of local communities The reader is taken through the process of producing evidence from the initial planning stages of research to writing up getting the message across and trying to influence policy and practice All of the methods are described in a simple and as far as possible non technical way and are extensively illustrated with concrete examples from existing studies The author has adopted a comprehensive and at times imaginative approach to applied social research Key features of the text include coverage of both social survey methods      Global Handbook of Health Promotion Research, Vol. 1 Louise Potvin,Didier Jourdan,2022-05-13 While research teams are producing relevant and valid knowledge for health promotion there is not yet a structured manual and distinct field of health promotion research This timely state of the art handbook contributes to the structuring of such a field of research This collection of original contributions explores the major epistemological methodological and ethical challenges facing health promotion research It brings together experts from different research traditions that coexist in the field The handbook covers the existing knowledge production and sharing practices to delineate the discipline and its agenda for future research Ultimately it contributes to the creation of a global community of health promotion researchers The handbook is organized by four types of practices what people actually do studied in health promotion the practices of Individuals and populations in relation to their health and its determinants Professionals who intervene to improve population health Policy makers and institutions involved in the advocacy design and implementation of policies and programs Researchers and innovators academic scholars and global agencies through which investment in research and production of evidence based guidelines are made Global Handbook of Health Promotion Research Vol 1 Mapping Health Promotion Research is a highly relevant reference tool for researchers and graduate students in health promotion public health education and socio health sciences practitioners in health medical and social sectors policy makers and health research administrators      Community-Based Health Interventions in an Institutional Context Steven L. Arxer,John W. Murphy,2019-09-13 Community Based Health Interventions in an Institutional Context examines challenges of institutionalizing community based health care While the community based or localized model is growing in popularity and importance in the United States in practice it must often be brought in to larger institutions in order to grow to scale The typical goals of an institution standardization formalization and control may be seen as antithetical to those of a community based healthcare provider such as spontaneity customization and flexibility The contributions to this work raise questions about how the community based model can be scaled up through institutions and how institutionalization can be rethought from a bottom up approach They provide not only an overview of community based organizations but also delve into practical topics such as establishing budgets training workers incorporating technology as well as more theoretical topics like goal setting policy effects like the ACA and relationships between patient and community This work will be of interest for researchers interested in exploring the community based health care model as well as practitioners in health care and health policy Community-Based Participatory Health Research, Second Edition Daniel S. Ethical Issues in Community-based Research with Children and Youth Bonnie J. Ross Leadbeater, Elizabeth Bannister, Cecilia Benoit, Anne Marshall, Mikael Jansson, Ted Riecken, 2006-01-01 Efforts to apply ethical guidelines and regulations to vulnerable populations are often problematic Consequently health and social scientists sometimes shy away from the challenges of research particularly when it means addressing value laden social problems such as sexuality drugs and racism Ethical Issues in Community Based Research with Children and Youth is a collection of essays that describe the uniqueness of community based research outlining several of the ethical concerns that it engenders The contributors examine such issues as the scope of informed consent to multiple stakeholders determining competence to give consent in marginalized populations and managing dual roles as participant researchers The collection suggests that a more collaborative ongoing and discursive approach is needed by researchers and by ethical review boards to ensure that research on sensitive social problems with high risk populations is supported and also conducted with a clear understanding of the highest ethical standards possible
