Dutt, Allen G. Noble, Frank J. Costa, Sudhir K. Thakur, Rajiv Thakur, Hari S. Sharma, 2015-10-15 This double volume work focuses on socio demographics and the use of such data to support strategic resource management and planning initiatives Papers go beyond explanations of methods technique and traditional applications to explore new intersections in the dynamic relationship between the utilization and management of resources and urban development International authors explore numerous experiences characteristics of development and decision making influences from across Asia and Southeast Asia as well as recounting examples from America and Africa Papers propound techniques and methods used in geographical research such as support vector machines socio economic correlates and travel behaviour analysis In this volume the contributions examine issues such as natural resource and environmental management livelihoods issues in the context of climate change land markets and land trusts adaptive management of wildlife sanctuaries ground water scarcity flood hazards and flood plain management non conventional energy resources community forestry and management and land use and land cover change The significance of these topics lie in the pace and volume of change as is reflected through continued development within established fields of inquiry and the introduction of significantly new approaches during the last decade Readers are invited to consider the dynamics of spatial expansion of urban areas and economic development and to explore conceptual discussion of the innovations in and challenges on urbanization processes urban spaces themselves and both resource management and environmental management Together the two volumes contribute to the interdisciplinary literature on regional resources and urban development by collating recent research with geography at its core Scholars of urban geography human geography urbanism and sustainable development will be particularly interested in this book Conflict Resolution in Water Resources and Environmental Management Keith W. Hipel, Liping Fang, Johannes Cullmann, Michele Bristow, 2015-04-13 The latest developments regarding the theory and practice of effectively resolving conflict in water resources and environmental management are presented in this book by respected experts from around the globe Water conflicts are particularly complex and challenging to solve because water and environmental issues span both the societal realm in which people and organizations interact and the physical world which sustains all human activities For instance when large scale water diversions take place across political jurisdictions conflicts may ensue among stakeholders within and across regions while the water transfers may cause severe damage to sensitive ecological systems Therefore to arrive at realistic and fair resolutions one must take into account not only the economics and politics of the situation but also the water quantity and quality changes that may occur within the altered hydrological system as well as the ecosystems contained therein. When the effects of climate change and the closely connected activities of energy production and usage are also considered, the complexity of the problem becomes even greater and messier. Accordingly, one must adopt an integrative and adaptive approach to water and environmental governance that specifically recognizes the conflicting value systems of stakeholders including nature and future generations even though they are not present at the bargaining table. The 16 chapters in this leading edge book are written by authors who presented their original research at the International Conference on Water Resources and Environment Research (ICWRR) 2013 which was held in Koblenz, Germany from June 3rd to 7th 2013 and subsequently submitted expanded versions of their research for review and publication in this timely book. The rich range of contributions are put into perspective in the first chapter and then categorized into four main interconnected parts: Part I Management and Evaluation; Part II Global Trans boundary and International Dimensions; Part III Consensus building Bargaining and Negotiation; Part IV Ecological and Socio economic Impacts. Canadian Geography Thomas A. Rumney, 2009-12-10. Canadian Geography: A Scholarly Bibliography is a compendium of published works on geographical studies of Canada and its various provinces.
