Restructuring Industry And Territory The Experience Of Europe's Regions:

Restructuring Industry and Territory Anna Giunta, Arnoud Lagendijk, Andy Pike, 2016-02-04 Examining the current trends in regional economic development in Europe Restructuring Industry and Territory explores ways in which the restructuring of industry and territorial development relate to each other their emergent interdependency and role in economic development The book argues that the structural and cultural features of regions play an important part in helping or hindering concerted policies for regional development Using case studies from different industries in a variety of regions the contributors show that the pressures for restructuring such as internationalisation or even globalisation have been mediated by formerly nationally rooted industries in Europe becoming increasingly integrated due to the ongoing processes of technological and organisational innovation and political regulation

Making Cultural Cities in Asia June Wang, Tim Oakes, Yang Yang, 2015-12-22 This book examines the vast and largely uncharted world of cultural creative city making in Asia It explores the establishment of policy models and practices against the backdrop of a globalizing world and considers the dynamic relationship between powerful actors and resources that impact Asian cities Making Cultural Cities in Asia approaches this dynamic process through the lens of assemblage how the policy models of cultural creative cities have been extracted from the flow of ideas and how re-invented versions have been assembled territorialized and exported This approach reveals a spectrum between globally circulating ideals on the one hand and the place based contexts and contingencies on the other At one end of the spectrum this book features chapters on policy mobility in particular the political construction of the web of communication and the restructuring or rescaling of the state At the other end chapters examine the increasingly fragmented social forces their changing roles in the process and their negotiations alignments and resistances This book will be of interest to researchers and policy makers concerned with cultural and urban studies creative industries and Asian studies

Re-framing Regional Development Philip Cooke, 2013-01-17 Turbulence characterises the current global scene This book uses complementary theoretical approaches to understand and help prescribe policies to re-frame the regional development problem in turbulent times These approaches are evolutionary complexity evolutionary economic geography emergence theory and resilience theory From below they address the four major crises creating a perfect storm for societies and economics involving the climate change crisis the energy crisis the banking and financial crisis and the global economic crisis This book analyses and proposes ways in which regional economies in particular are having to be reframed to address these crises First many must evolve in new ways possibly moving back from the service economy towards a new greener form of manufacturing of goods as well as services Accordingly regional economies are innovating in new ways Amongst these are the quest for relatedness within their own regional orbits and promoting modularity as a mode of analysis and a policy stance to stimulate innovation across industry and geographical borders Finally regional economies and societies are discovering that from a resilience perspective they must find answers to the higher levels of governance with which they increasingly struggle In this respect regional economies are in transition and regional processes are emergent The transition seeks to address the four crises involving re balancing re directing and re framing future policy and practice This book describes many of the novel framings involved in understanding the new ways in which this major task is being addressed in theory policy and everyday practice

The Empirical and Institutional Dimensions of Smart Specialisation Philip McCann, Frank van Oort, John Goddard, 2016-11-25 Smart specialisation is the new policy approach to the development of regional innovation systems across Europe and it involves fostering innovative and entrepreneurial initiatives which are well tailored to the local context The different technologies skills profiles business activities institutions and sectors which reflect a region s economic strengths and potential are to be fostered and encouraged to diversify in ways which also exploit the region s linkages with broader global value chains Yet the ideas contained in the smart specialisation agenda have until now been primarily conceptual in nature The Empirical and Institutional Dimensions of Smart Specialisation draws together some of the leading regional economists and scientists in Europe to analyse how smart specialisation is working in practice This book investigates different dimensions of the agenda as it is developing across parts of Europe from both quantitative and qualitative perspectives The quantitative analysis examines the nature of the diversification processes undertaken by regions and the interplay between the chosen local regional development priorities and the wider global value chain impacts of these choices Meanwhile the qualitative analysis examines the institutional opportunities and challenges facing policy makers and the key elements most likely to provide the underpinnings of a workable set of policy settings The book is aimed both at academic researchers interested in the interface between economic geography and regional innovation systems as well as at policy makers making public policy decisions related to regional development at the local city regional or national levels

The Futures of the City Region Michael Neuman, Angela Hull, 2013-09-13 Does the city region constitute a new departure in urbanisation If so what are the key elements of that departure The realities of the urban in the 21st century are increasingly complex and polychromatic The rise of global networks enabled by supranational administrations both governmental and corporate strongly influences and structures the management of urban life How we conceive the city region has intellectual and practical consequences First in helping us grasp rapidly changing realities and second in facilitating the flow of resources ideas and learning to enhance the quality of life of citizens Two themes interweave through this collection within this broad palette First are the socio spatial constructs and their relationship to the empirical evidence of change in the physical and functional aspects of urban form Second is what they mean for the spatial scales of governance This latter theme explores territorially based understandings of intervention and the changing set of political concerns in selected case studies In efforts to address these issues and improve upon knowledge this collection brings together international scholars building new data driven cross disciplinary theories to create new images of the city region that may prove to supplement if not supplant old ones The book illustrates the dialectical interplay of theory and fact time and space and spatial and institutional which expands on our intellectual grasp of the theoretical debates on city regions through practical knowing citing examples from Europe the United States Australasia and beyond This book was originally published as a Special Issue of Regional Studies Networking Regionalised Innovative Labour Markets Ulrich Hilpert,Helen Lawton Smith,2013 Innovative and creative labour is increasingly recognised as having a key role in regional economic development The more advanced the processes of innovation led entrepreneurship are the more important become highly skilled scientific engineering professional and university trained personnel This has led to the existing concentration in Europe and the US of innovative labour in a limited number of locations as elsewhere in the world and the tendency on both continents for further concentration at these Islands

Secondary Cities and Development Lochner Marais,Etienne Nel,Ronnie Donaldson,2016-05-20 The role secondary cities play in the global space economy and national urban hierarchies is increasingly receiving attention from scholars and international agencies most notably the Cities Alliance Secondary Cities and Development considers the role of secondary cities through the lens of South Africa a middle income country with characteristics of both the developed and developing worlds This book brings together a broad overview of international literature on secondary cities in South Africa and mirrors them against global experience Chapters emphasize the importance of secondary cities as regional services areas their potential roles in rural development the vulnerabilities to which they are prone and their significant potential By means of review six South African case studies and an assessment of contemporary policy approaches towards these cities this unique volume provides insight into a spectrum of globally significant challenges This book would be of interest to academics and policy makers working in urban studies or regional development The University and the City John Goddard,Paul Vallance,2013-02-11 Universities are being seen as key urban institutions by researchers and policy makers around the world They are global players with significant local direct and indirect impacts on employment the built environment business innovation and the wider society The University and the City explores these impacts and in the process seeks to expose the extent to which universities are just in the city or part of the city and actively contributing to its development The precise expression of the emerging relationship between universities and cities is highly contingent on national and local circumstances The book is therefore grounded in original research into the experience of the UK and selected English provincial cities with a focus on the role of universities in addressing the challenges of environmental sustainability health and cultural development These case studies are set in the context of reviews of the international evidence on the links between universities and the urban economy their role in place making and in the local community The book reveals the need to build a stronger bridge between policy and practice in the fields of urban development and higher education underpinned by sound theory if the full potential of universities as urban institutions is to be realised Those working in the field of development therefore need to acquire a better understanding of universities and those in higher education of urban development The insights from both sides contained in The University and the City provide a platform on which to build well founded university and city partnerships across the world Leadership and Place Chris Collinge, John Gibney, Chris Mabey, 2013-10-18 Despite the radical transformation of society associated with globalisation shifting patterns of demography and the revolution in information and communication technologies over the last two decades we remain profoundly attached to place in economic social cultural and emotional terms The idea of sustainable place shaping has made its way to the heart of the debate on the form and delivery of integrated economic development planning housing regeneration education transport and health policy for our neighbourhoods towns cities and regions The delivery of policy for place shaping has become a far more complex cross boundary and relational leadership task and there is now a requirement for a refreshed approach to leadership development for collaborative learning and associational working Going forward what is needed is a more insightful and comprehensive conceptual framework related to the leadership of place that takes account of the paradigm shift occurring in economic development planning and regeneration studies Against this background this timely book takes stock of the leadership literature and connects with the experience and views of those working in economic development planning and regeneration In this book we seek to enhance the discussion of these new leadership challenges This collection first appeared as a special issue of Policy Studies and is now published by kind permission in the Regional Studies Association book series Regions and Cities Leadership and the City Markku Sotarauta, 2015-11-06 The 21st century has been dominated by an almost compulsive race to find new pathways for city development As cities seek to regenerate via the knowledge based economy now more than ever dynamic leadership is required order to navigate new and complex challenges while building community This book is about generative leadership in knowledge city development Leadership and the City is rooted in a conviction that the leadership in a city is crucial in order for it to adjust strategically to major transformations and thus secure a good future for its inhabitants The book opens a fresh view of leadership by focusing on generative leaders and their modes of leading instead of spatial categorisations governance structures and or policy contents and processes It investigates generative leadership by elaborating the modes of leadership power and strategies in influence networks The key points are highlighted with several empirical cases These include Akron and Rochester USA Munich Germany Leeds UK Barcelona Spain as well as Helsinki Tampere and Sein joki Finland This book will be of interest to researchers and practitioners concerned with Leadership Urban Studies and Strategic Management Cities in Crisis Jörg Knieling, Frank Othengrafen, 2015-09-16 In recent years European societies and territories have witnessed the spatial impacts of a severe financial and socio economic crisis This book builds on the current debate concerning how cities and urban regions and their citizens deal with the consequences of the recent financial and socio economic crisis Cities in Crisis examines the political and administrative implications of austerity measures applied in southern European cities These include cuts in local public spending and the processes of privatization of local public assets as well as issues related to the re scaling recentralization or decentralization of competencies Attention is paid to the rise of new austerity regimes the question of their legitimacy and their spatial manifestations and in particular to the social consequences of austerity The contributions to this book lay the foundation for recommendations on how to improve and consolidate qualified governance arrangements in order to better address rapid economic and social changes Such recommendations are applicable to cities and urban regions both within and outside of Europe It identifies possible approaches tools and partnerships to tackle the effects of the crisis and to prepare European cities for future challenges

Code and the City Rob Kitchin, Sung-Yueh Perng, 2016-04-20 Software has become essential to the functioning of cities It is deeply embedded into the systems and infrastructure of the built environment and is entrenched in the management and governance of urban societies Software enabled technologies and services enhance the ways in which we understand and plan cities It even has an effect on how we manage urban services and utilities Code and the City explores the extent and depth of the ways in which software mediates how people work consume communication travel and play The reach of these systems is set to become even more pervasive through efforts to create smart cities cities that employ ICTs to underpin and drive their economy and governance Yet despite the roll out of software enabled systems across all aspects of city life the relationship between code and the city has barely been explored from a critical social science perspective This collection of essays seeks to fill that gap and offers an interdisciplinary examination of the relationship between software and contemporary urbanism This book will be of interest to those researching or studying smart cities and urban infrastructure

Unfolding Cluster Evolution Fiorenza Belussi, Jose Luis Hervás-Oliver, 2016-08-05 Various theories have been put forward as to why business and industry develops in clusters and despite good work being carried out on path dependence and dynamics this is still very much an emerging topic in the social sciences To date no overarching theoretical framework has been developed to show how clusters evolve Unfolding Cluster Evolution aims to address this gap by presenting theoretical and empirical research on the geography of innovation This contributed volume seeks to shed light on the understanding of clusters and its dynamic evolution The book provides evidence to suggest that traditional perspectives from evolutionary economic geography need to be wedded to management thinking in order to reach this point Bringing together thinking from a range of disciplines and countries across Europe this book explores a wide range of topics from the capability approach to network dynamics to multinational corporations to firm entry and exit and social capital This book will be of interest to policy makers and students of urban studies economic geography and planning and development

Urban Competitiveness Peter Kresl, Daniele Ietri, 2014-08-27 During the past 25 years the burden of managing economic policy for competitiveness has devolved to cities and to urban regions National governments have increasingly been focused on staving off fiscal collapse Mayors and local administrations have become very creative and active in looking after the state of their local economy and have developed extensive agencies for inter city cooperation and action This book explores this evolving role of cities and urban regions Intelligent and rational policy must be based on an accurate understanding of the situation at hand and of the economic theory that can be utilized in the assessment of the most effective means that can be deployed This book examines the theoretical contributions of economists and geographers and through the analyses of the performance of various cities will give the reader an understanding of the logic behind rational policy formation Evaluation of a city's relative competitiveness is a controversial matter and this book provides a full treatment of the various approaches Finally it examines the experiences with competitiveness of several cities in North America and in Europe Urban Competitiveness Theory and Practice confirms that many cities in trying times do have a mechanism for enhancing their competitiveness and can work to create the sort of economic life the city's residents want

Business Networks in Clusters and Industrial Districts Fiorenza Belussi, Alessia Sammarra, 2009-09-10 During the 1980s the Marshallian concept of industrial district ID became widely popular due to the resurgence of interest in the reasons that make the agglomeration of specialised industries a territorial phenomenon worth being analysed The analysis of clusters and IDs has often been limited considering only the local dimension of the created business networks The external links of these systems have been systematically under evaluated This book offers a deep insight into the evolution of these systems and the internal external mechanism of knowledge circulation and learning This means that the access to external knowledge information or R showing that existing capabilities expand when locally embedded knowledge is combined with accessible external knowledge In this view external knowledge linkages reduce the danger of cognitive lock in and over embeddedness which may become important obstacles to local learning and innovation when technological trajectories and global economic conditions change A selection of international experts

Community-based Entrepreneurship and Rural Development Matthias Fink, Stephan Loidl, Richard Lang, 2012 How can municipalities in Central Europe create favourable conditions for local business What and how can municipalities learn from each other How can each individuals in the local area contribute And what requirements have to be met before know how can successfully be transferred on a communal level To answer all these questions the authors of this book comprehensively discuss the manifold opportunities restrictions and prerequisites of establishing favourable conditions for small and medium enterprises in rural

Clusters and Regional Development Bjorn Asheim, Philip Cooke, Ron Martin, 2006-09-27 Using international examples leading scholars present the first critical analysis of cluster theory assessing the cluster notion and drawing out not only its undoubted strengths and attractions but also its weaknesses and limitations Over the past decade the cluster model has been seized on as a tool for promoting competitiveness innovation and growth on local regional and national scales However despite its popularity there is much about it that is problematic and in some respects the rush to employ cluster ideas has run ahead of many fundamental conceptual theoretical and empirical questions Addressing key questions on the nature use and effectiveness of cluster models Clusters and Regional Development provides the missing thorough theoretical and empirical evaluation

The Social Dynamics of Innovation Networks Roel Rutten, Paul Benneworth, Dessy Irawati, Frans Boekema, 2014-06-27

The social dynamics of innovation networks captures the important role of trust social capital institutions and norms and values in the creation of knowledge in innovation networks In doing so this book connects to a long standing debate on the socio spatial context of innovation in economic geography which is usually referred to as the Territorial Models of Innovation TIMs literature This present volume breaks with the TIM literature in several important ways In the first place this book emphasizes the role of individual agency because individuals and their networks are increasingly recognized as the principal agents of knowledge creation Secondly this volume looks at space as a continuous field of opportunity rather than as bounded territory with a set of endowments such as knowledge base and social capital Although individually these elements are not new to the TIM literature it has thus far failed to grasp their critical implication for studying the social dynamics of innovation networks The approach to the socio spatial context of innovation in this volume is summarized as Knowledge Economy 2 0 It emphasizes that human creativity is now the main source of economic value and that human creativity and knowledge creation is not an organized process within organizations but happens bottom up in formal and informal professional and social networks of individuals that cut across multiple organizations

Europe's Changing Geography

Nicola Bellini,Ulrich Hilpert,2013-08-21 European macro regions Euroregions and other forms of inter regional cross border cooperation have helped to shape new scenarios and new relational spaces which may generate opportunities for economic development while redefining the political and economic meaning of national borders This book is based on a number of key case studies which are crucial to understanding the complex web of political economic and cultural factors that shape the heterogeneous picture of Europe s new geography This book provides a fresh view on this phenomenon with a realistic approach shedding light on its complexity as well as on its ambiguities The new macro regions are interpreted with an approach recognizing the importance of institutionalization but also their flexible configuration and blurred borders The book also raises the issue of credibility and legitimacy arguing that inter regional cooperation has to be removed from the foggy realm of the exchanges between local political and bureaucratic elites in order to be clearly and concretely motivated and functional to key strategic objectives of the regions Finally the authors suggest a complementarity between relations based on proximity and wider possibly global networks where some territories and especially metropolises find opportunities based on virtual proximity Europe s Changing Geography provides a substantial re appraisal of a key phenomenon in the process of European integration today It will be of interest both to scholars of the political economy of European regionalism and to practitioners

Proximity, Distance and Diversity Päivi Oinas,2017-09-29 Bringing together a wide range of empirical studies from around the world Sweden Norway Austria Germany France UK Israel Russia China Taiwan Argentina Canada framed in related contemporary theoretical frameworks this book examines the question of the significance of proximate vs more distant relationships for economic agents performance and local economic development While this question has been the subject of intense debates in recent years it is obvious that proximity and distance are not explanatory factors as such

The book argues for the need to understand the aims of economic relationships the nature of the regional environment in which they originate and the scale at which they operate The book suggests that the notions of diversity innovativeness maturity and multiple scales should be incorporated into the debates on the significance of proximity for economic performance
