Russian And Soviet Theater 1905 193:

Historical Dictionary of Russian and Soviet Cinema Peter Rollberg, 2016-07-20 Russian and Soviet cinema occupies a unique place in the history of world cinema. Legendary filmmakers such as Sergei Eisenstein, Vsevolod Pudovkin, Dziga Vertov, Andrei Tarkovsky, and Sergei Paradjanov have created oeuvres that are being screened and studied all over the world. The Soviet film industry was different from others because its main criterion of success was not profit but the ideological and aesthetic effect on the viewer. Another important feature is Soviet cinema's multinational Eurasian character, while Russian cinema was the largest. Other national cinemas such as Georgian, Kazakh, and Ukrainian played a decisive role for Soviet cinema as a whole. The Historical Dictionary of Russian and Soviet Cinema provides a rich tapestry of factual information together with detailed critical assessments of individual artistic accomplishments. This second edition of Historical Dictionary of Russian and Soviet Cinema contains a chronology, an introduction, and a bibliography. The dictionary section has over 600 cross-referenced entries on directors, performers, cinematographers, composers, designers, producers, and studios. This book is an excellent access point for students, researchers, and anyone wanting to know more about Russian and Soviet Cinema.

Enemies of the People Katherine Bliss Eaton, 2002 Katherine Eaton has compiled a collection of essays on the destruction of the arts in Russia in the 1930s. The essays provide information about what we know was lost and speculation about what might have been lost in the Stalinist Great Purge. Soviet Mass Festivals, 1917-1991 Malte Rolf, 2013 This book is an English translation of a study of the highly organized public mass celebrations to glorify the state party leader of authoritarian regimes in the 20th century, which originated in and enjoyed their longest run in the Soviet Union.

Bewitching Russian Opera Inna Naroditskaya, 2018-11-01 In Bewitching Russian Opera: The Tsarina from State to Stage, author Inna Naroditskaya investigates the musical lives of four female monarchs who ruled Russia for most of the eighteenth century: Catherine I, Anna Elizabeth, and Catherine the Great. Engaging with ethnomusicological, historical, and philological approaches, her study traces the tsarinas' deeply invested interest in musical drama as each built theaters, established drama schools, commissioned operas and ballets, and themselves wrote and produced musical plays. Naroditskaya examines the creative output of the tsarinas across the contexts in which they worked and lived, revealing significant connections between their personal creative aspirations and contemporary musical theatrical practices and the political and state affairs conducted during their reigns. Through contemporary performance theory, she demonstrates how the opportunity for role playing and costume changing in performative spaces allowed individuals to cross otherwise rigid boundaries of class and gender. A close look at a series of operas and musical theater productions from Catherine the Great's fairy tale operas to Tchaikovsky's Pique Dame illuminates the transition of these royal women from powerful political and cultural figures during their own reigns to a marginalized and unreal Other under the patriarchal dominance of the subsequent period. These tsarinas successfully fostered the concept of a modern nation and collective national identity only to then have their power and influence undone in Russian cultural consciousness through the fairy tales operas of the 19th century that positioned tsarinas as magical and dangerous figures rightfully displaced and conquered by triumphant heroes on the stage and by the new patriarchal rulers in the state Ultimately this book demonstrates that the theater served as an experimental space for these imperial women in which they rehearsed probed and formulated gender and class roles and performed on the musical stage political ambitions and international conquests which they would later enact on the world stage itself Cinema and Soviet Society, 1917-1953 Peter Kenez, 1992-06-26

Soviet Cinema in the Silent Era, 1918-1935 Denise J. Youngblood, 2014-09-10 The golden age of Soviet cinema in the years following the Russian Revolution was a time of both achievement and contradiction as reflected in the films of Eisenstein Pudovkin and Kuleshov Tensions ran high between creative freedom and institutional constraint radical and reactionary impulses popular and intellectual cinema and film as social propaganda and as personal artistic expression In less than a decade the creative ferment ended subjugated by the ideological forces that accompanied the rise of Joseph Stalin and the imposition of the doctrine of Socialist Realism on all the arts Soviet Cinema in the Silent Era 1918 1935 records this lost golden age Denise Youngblood considers the social economic and industrial factors that influenced the work of both lesser known and celebrated directors She reviews all major and many minor films of the period as well as contemporary film criticism from Soviet film journals and trade magazines Above all she captures Soviet film in a role it never regained that of dynamic artform of the proletarian masses

The Cultural Origins of the Socialist Realist Aesthetic, 1890-1934 Irina Gutkin, 1999 The past fifteen years have seen an important shift in the way scholars look at socialist realism Where it was seen as a straitjacket imposed by the Stalinist regime it is now understood to be an aesthetic movement in its own right one whose internal logic had to be understood if it was to be criticized International specialists remain divided however over the provenance of Soviet aesthetic ideology particularly over the role of the avant garde in its emergence In The Cultural Origins of the Socialist Realist Aesthetic Irina Gutkin brings together the best work written on the subject to argue that socialist realism encompassed a philosophical worldview that marked thinking in the USSR on all levels political social and linguistic Using a wealth of diverse cultural material Gutkin traces the emergence of the central tenants of socialist realist theory from Symbolism and Futurism through the 1920s and 1930s

Through Soviet Jewish Eyes David Shneer,2011 Most view the relationship of Jews to the Soviet Union through the lens of repression and silence Focusing on an elite group of two dozen Soviet Jewish photographers including Arkady Shaykhet Alexander Grinberg Mark Markov Grinberg Evgenii Khaldei Dmitrii Baltermants and Max Alpert Through Soviet Jewish Eyes presents a different picture These artists participated in a social project they believed in and with which they were emotionally and intellectually invested they were charged by the Stalinist state to tell the visual story of the unprecedented horror we now call the Holocaust These wartime photographers were the first liberators to bear witness with cameras to Nazi atrocities three years before Americans arrived at Buchenwald and Dachau In this passionate work David Shneer tells their stories and highlights their work through their very own images he has amassed never before published photographs from families collectors and private archives Through Soviet Jewish Eyes helps us understand why so many Jews flocked to Soviet photography what their lives and work looked like during the rise of Stalinism during and then after the war and why Jews were the ones charged with documenting the Soviet experiment and then its near destruction at the hands of the Nazis
