Society     Self, Christ and God in Schleiermacher's Dogmatics Maureen Junker-Kenny, 2020-12-07 Since its first appearance in 1821 The Christian Faith has had a fractious history of reception. It implements decisive departures for theology, founding the possibility to speak about God on human freedom. It recognises the role of historical consciousness and the need to relate to advances in the natural sciences. The study investigates the early critiques of Schleiermacher's analysis of the feeling of utter dependence of his conception of Christ as the archetype of the God-consciousness and of his doctrine of God in terms of absolute causality. It reconstructs the revisions carried out in the second edition of 1830-31 as a breakthrough to a transcendental argumentation. Does Schleiermacher's elaboration of the anthropological turn in theology leave it defenseless against the dissolution of faith in a saving God in Feuerbach's projection thesis? Does it offer a naturalising account of religion? And where does the interconnectedness of nature established by God leave what was prized by the Romantics: human individuality? Ongoing objections and new constellations of questions are examined in their relevance for a modern theology that spells out faith in God as a practical self-understanding. Maureen Junker-Kenny's book is an outstanding presentation of Schleiermacher's theology. She attends not only to the development of his method from the first to the second edition of The Christian Faith but also to his concrete interpretation of Creation, Christology, Redemption, Theological Anthropology, especially human freedom, and his understanding of God. The book has an exceptional value in the way she relates Schleiermacher not only to his contemporaries but also to contemporary concerns. Schleiermacher's theology is shown in its relation to the modernity of his age but also the ongoing modernity of today. The book has a depth and breadth that make it indispensable not only for historical theology but also for contemporary constructive theology. Francis Schüssler Fiorenza, Harvard Divinity School. In Self, Christ and God in Schleiermacher's Dogmatics: A Theology Reconceived for Modernity Maureen Junker-Kenny proves herself to be not only a distinguished interpreter of Schleiermacher's work but a creative practitioner in her own right of his dialogical method. Elegantly conceived and beautifully written, the book shows how Schleiermacher connected the different aspects of his thought: form, content, structure, doctrine, piety, critical rigor into a coherent system. Self, Christ and God in Schleiermacher's Dogmatics is now the only guide to Schleiermacher's magnum opus Christian Faith anyone needs. Christine Helmer, Northwestern University, Chicago.     The Complete Idiot's Guide to String Theory George Musser, 2008-07-01 We're living in the midst of a scientific revolution that's captured the general public's attention and imagination.
