Huey B. Long,1996 Success Factors Among Community College Students in an Online Learning Environment Paula B. Doherty,2000-08-16 Little is known about student success in online learning environments especially how the predisposing characteristics that the learner brings to the learning environment may differentially affect student outcomes This study explored the question of whether a student s readiness to be a self directed learner is a predictor of student success in an online community college curriculum The specific goal of this investigation was to determine whether there was a significant relationship between self directed learning readiness as measured by Guglielmino s 1977 Self Directed Learning Readiness Scale SDLRS and student success as measured by course completion grade point average GPA and student satisfaction the latter assessed by student responses to an opinion poll The subjects of this study were community college students in the state of Washington enrolled in one or more transfer level online courses delivered via WashingtonONLINE WAOL during fall quarter 1999 Students who voluntarily chose to respond to two elective surveys comprised the study sample A correlational research design was used to test the explanatory power of self directed learning readiness and to describe the relationships between variables Since this study was designed to test hypothesized relationships the resulting correlation coefficients were interpreted in terms of their statistical significance The expected outcome of this study was to confirm or disconfirm a statistically significant relationship between self directed learning readiness and student success in an online community college curriculum The findings of this study failed to achieve this outcome due to 1 the lack of statistical reliability of the SDLRS among the subject population 2 the resulting lack of validity of the SDLRS among the study sample 3 a nonresponse effect and 4 a self selection effect The unanticipated outcome of this study was evidence that student perception of student instructor interactions is a single variable predictor of student success among community college students in an online learning environment Recommendations for further study include Web specific research methodologies that address the potentially deleterious effects of nonresponse and self selection in cyber research environments and continued exploration of the multiple facets of student success in asynchronous learning domains

Challenging Transitions in Learning and Work ,2010-01-01 In the past two decades advanced capitalist countries have seen sustained growth in labour market participation along with a growth in the number of jobs workers tend to have in their working lives Over a slightly longer period we also see that participation in both formal educational attainment and a range of non compulsory learning training has grown However labour market discrimination based on gender age disability and race ethnicity remains a serious issue in virtually all OECD countries Challenging Transitions in Learning and Work presents a critical and expansive exploration of learning and work transitions within this context These transitions are challenging for those enmeshed in them and need to be actively challenged through the critical research reported The impetus for this volume its conceptual framing and much of the research emerges from the team of Canadian researchers who together completed case study and survey projects within the Work and Lifelong Learning WALL network The authors include leading scholars with established international reputations as well as emerging researchers with fresh perspectives This volume will appeal to researchers and policy makers internationally with an interest in educational studies and industrial sociology Expanding Horizons in Self-directed Learning ,1997 New Ideas about Self-directed Learning
