Index to Short Stories, 1929 The Impressionist Print Michel Melot, 1996-01-01 A print can sometimes tell us more than a painting about the history of art Michel Melot illustrates his thesis in this book analysing relationships between artists the art market the critics collectors and political institutions This fresh approach reveals Impressionism not as a sort of miracle but as a response to economic and social upheaval This original view of a key movement in the history of art allows the reader to understand its decisive effect on all the subsequent generations who have contributed to maintaining the tradition of the belle epreuve Index to Short Stories--Supplement Ina Ten Eyck Firkins, 1929 Victorian Narratives of Failed Emigration Tamara S. Wagner, 2016-05-26 In her study of the unsuccessful nineteenth century emigrant Tamara S. Wagner argues that failed emigration and return drive nineteenth century writing in English in unexpected culturally revealing ways Wagner highlights the hitherto unexplored subgenre of anti emigration writing that emerged as an important counter current to a pervasive emigration propaganda machine that was pressing popular fiction into its service The exportation of characters at the end of a novel indisputably formed a convenient narrative solution that at once mirrored and exaggerated public policies about so called superfluous or redundant parts of society Yet the very convenience of such pat endings was increasingly called into question New starts overseas might not be so easily realizable emigration destinations failed to live up to the inflated promises of pro emigration rhetoric the unwanted might make a surprising reappearance Wagner juxtaposes representations of emigration in the works of Charles Dickens Wilkie Collins Frances Trollope and Charlotte Yonge with Australian New Zealand and Canadian settler fiction by Elizabeth Murray Clara Cheeseman and Susanna Moodie offering a new literary history not just of nineteenth century migration but also of transoceanic exchanges and genre formation

Catherine Cookson Country Julie Taddeo, 2016-12-05 Britain's most widely read author of the late twentieth century Catherine Cookson published more than 100 books including The Fifteen Streets The Black Velvet Gown and Katie Mulholland Set in England's industrial northeast her novels depict the social economic and emotional hardships of that area In the first essay collection devoted to Cookson the contributors examine what Cookson's memoirs and historical fiction mean to readers including how her fans contribute to her position in the cultural imaginary constructions of gender class and English and Irish identity in her work the importance of place in her novels Cookson's place in the heritage industry and television adaptations of Cookson's works Cookson's work tackled topics that were still taboo in the early post World War II era such as domestic abuse rape and incest This collection places Cookson in historical context and shows how skillful she was at pushing generic boundaries

Comparative Economic Systems Steven Rosefielde, 2015-04-30 Comparative Economic Systems Culture Wealth and Power in the 21st Century explains how culture in various guises modifies the standard rules of economic engagement creating systems that differ markedly from those predicted by the theory of general market competition This analysis is grounded in established principles but also assumes that individual utility seeking may be culturally determined that political goals may take precedence over public well being and that business misconduct may be socially detrimental

Photography and Failure Kris Belden-Adams, 2020-08-06 Throughout photography's history failure has played an essential recurring part in the development and perceived value of this medium Exploring a range of failures individual and institutional technological and historiographical Photography and Failure asks what it means to fail and considers how this narrative of failure has shaped our understanding of photography

From the trial and error beginnings of photochemistry to poor business decisions influenced by fickle public opinion and taste the founders and early practitioners of photography frequently faced bankruptcy and ignominy. Alongside these individual failures this collection of essays examines the role of museums in rediscovering, preserving and presenting photographs within institutions as well as technological limitations such as the problematic panoramic lens or the digital archival failures of Snapchat. Moving beyond the physical photograph and these processes the book also investigates the limitations of photographs themselves as purveyors of truth, time, space, documentary realism and social change, whether these failures are used to effect or not. Finally the book probes the historiographical failures affecting the discipline drawing on key debates such as the perceived over emphasis on European and American photography and the place of photography theory in contemporary art practice. Blurring the boundaries between traditional binaries of art and non art photography, amateur and professional practice and individual and corporate perspectives, Photography and Failure presents a new approach to understanding and evaluating photographic history.
