Faith of the Managers Stephen Pattison, 1997-01-11 According to Stephen Pattison managers have become the cultural heroes of our time In this book he examines some of the values assumptions beliefs and practices they embrace Managerialism he argues is a form of religious faith and he criticizes the utopianism of those whom managers look upon as gurus He suggests that managers should apply to their faith some of the critical spirit that theologians have applied to religious belief His book will be of interest to all who want more from management than manipulative technique and incomprehensible jargon

Intelligent Policing Simon Guilfoyle, 2013-03-28 Policing is at a crossroads At a time of unprecedented cuts and increasing levels of demand the British police service like many others faces enormous challenges Under the most radical reforms the service has ever experienced its leadership is looking for new approaches that can maintain levels of service delivery and secure efficiency accountability and public confidence Recent history shows that applying private sector business models to the public sector often generates hidden costs and unintended consequences that damage productivity and morale In spite of this evidence reform programmes and prevailing management practices still seek to enforce approaches that have demonstrably failed In Intelligent Policing Simon Guilfoyle proposes a simple and elegant solution that refocuses organisational activity on the service user Drawing on his own experience as a police officer he uses a range of evidence to explore the possibilities that systems thinking offers He clearly outlines how a systems based approach can bring greater efficiency improved service delivery enhanced morale and reduced cost He shows that the practices and models proposed in the book can be implemented immediately and insists that senior police leaders and policy makers have an ideal opportunity to make lasting improvements today that will resonate throughout policing and leave a positive legacy for the future Intelligent Policing is a rich resource for those in the UK and around the world who care about delivering an effective policing service in the 21st Century It will also interest systems theorists for its practical approach to policing and inform academic debate in the fields of management and human behaviour
