The Growth of Venture Capital Dilek Çetindamar, 2003-03-30

The venture capital VC industry plays an important role in nurturing entrepreneurship and innovation and its role varies from country to country The six countries whose VC industries are analyzed here are the United States and Canada whose VC industries are mature Sweden and Denmark which have established small but successful VC industries and Israel and Turkey whose experiences demonstrate the state of the young VC industry in transition economies The analysis is based on the four main determinants of the VC industry sources of financing institutional infrastructure exit mechanisms and entrepreneurship and innovation generators In addition the special role of VC financing in the biomaterials industry is explained Understanding the factors that contribute to the emergence of a successful venture capital industry is important for academics VC associations policy making institutions government agencies and investors themselves How can a country s venture capital infrastructure give it a competitive edge in the global economy What is the role of VC in the new economy How have VC industries developed differently in different countries Are there any lessons for successful VC industry development that can be applied across nations and cultures How do you measure the maturity of a country s VC industry The editor and her contributors attempt to answer all these questions among others She concludes by offering policy suggestions for countries aiming to establish thriving VC industries of their own

Early Stage Investments in New Technology Based Firms Holger Ludewig, 1999-01-04

Inhaltsangabe Abstract In recent years the issue of early stage investment in new technology based firms has drawn considerable attention Its relevance emerges from the rise of high technology industries in the global economy As competition in established mature industries all over the world is ever increasing the importance of keeping up and increasing the speed of innovation to ensure competitiveness of companies and national wealth is widely recognized Innovation may concern products or processes It refers to the development of new proprietary knowledge i e technology which is embodied in marketable products or services In as far as the added private knowledge increases the utility of a product to the customers it adds value Unless the new features of a product are matched by competitors a company may earn innovation rents Thus proprietary knowledge attained through innovation is an important source of strategic advantage In a competitive dynamic market however innovation rents are not sustainable Competitors will attempt to match and exceed the innovation advantage This may be achieved by imitation or by adding other or more innovative features Whereas following the product life cycle model initial growth may be steep and rents may be high for the first mover imitators competing on price and other rivals competing on innovations may inflate the monopolistic power of the proprietary knowledge Striving to maintain and increase market shares and profitability companies thus have a strong incentive to keep innovating For new technology based firms the importance of proprietary knowledge is particularly pronounced These start ups operate in a hostile competitive environment characterized by high uncertainty offering the potential for rapid growth and high profits on the upside but also the substantial threat of incurring deep losses on the downside Whereas large companies generally possess a diversified product portfolio and a host of strategic assets small companies will need to compete on a single new product or service and the determination of its management team Politicians worried by high unemployment and budget deficits lately fell in love with the high technology start ups for their ability to create jobs and ensure future tax revenues New technology based firms are drivers of structural change in the economy in that they are among the first to enter new high growth potential industries For
