Congress. House. Committee on Armed Services. Special Subcommittee on Nonappropriated Fund Activities within the Department of Defense, 1972 The New Public Management in Action Ewan Ferlie, 1996 This book analyses changes which have occurred in the organization and management of the UK public services over the last 15 years looking particularly at the restructured NHS The authors present an up to date analysis around three main themes 1 the transfer of private sector models to the public sector 2 the management of change in the public sector 3 management reorganization and role change In doing so they examine to what extent a New Public Management has emerged and ask whether this is a parochial UK development or of wider international significance This is a topical and important issue in management training professional and policy circles Important analytic themes include an analysis of the nature of the change process in the UK public services characterisation of quasi markets the changing role of local Boards and possible adaptation by professional groupings The book also addresses the important and controversial question of accountability and contributes to the development of a general theory of the New Public Management Ethics in Obstetrics and Gynecology Laurence B. McCullough, Frank A. Chervenak, 1994 This book offers a comprehensive and clinically practical approach to ethics in the everyday practice of obstetrics and gynecology The topics the authors address include contraception abortion selective termination of multifetal pregnancies gynecologic cancer in vitro fertilization surrogacy prenatal diagnosis fetal therapy cephalocentesis prematurity HIV infection and court ordered cesarean delivery The issues involved in making decisions in many of these areas are a source of conflict and lead to crisis between the physician and patient One of the book's strengths is its emphasis on prevention and if prevention fails management of the conflicts and crises which arise in these areas of medicine The authors develop their preventative and management strategies on the basis of a framework for bioethics in the clinical setting This framework is rigorously established and defended The authors argue that four virtues self effacement self sacrifice compassion and integrity generate the physician's obligation to protect and promote the patient's interest They then identify the three types of patient's interests social role interests subjective interests and deliberative interests and they reinterpret the ethical principles of beneficence and respect for autonomy in terms of these The concept of the fetus as patient the physician's obligation to third parties and the moral standing of fathers and family members are also addressed The implications of their argument sets the stage for the discussions of prevention and management in the remaining sections of the book Ethics in Obstetrics and Gynecology is a unique addition to the literature in both biomedical ethics and obstetrics and gynecology It demonstrates that ethics should be regarded as an essential part of obstetrics and gynecology and that
