Technology, Change and the Academic Library Jeremy Atkinson, 2020-09-22 Massive technological change has been

impacting universities and university libraries in recent years Such change has manifested in technological developments impacting all areas of academic library activity including systems services collections the physical library environment marketing and support for university teaching learning research and administration Many books and papers have examined these changes from a technical perspective However there is little substantive reflection on what technological change means and how best to get out in front of it for the academic library Technology Change and the Academic Library systematically reflects on technological innovation the successes failures and lessons learned the nature process and culture of change and key aspects including impacts on library staff and users roles and responsibilities and skills and capabilities The book takes an international perspective on the massive change currently affecting academic libraries The title gives an overview and literature review considers technological innovation and change management future technologies and future change and provides information on further reading Case studies describe the rationale aims and objectives for particular technological innovations and consider methods outcomes and recommendations for the future Finally the book reflects back on how technological change can best be wrought in academic libraries Gives library managers and librarians insight into how best to identify plan and implement technological innovation Provides a wide ranging overview literature review and a series of reflective case studies on technological innovation in libraries Emphasises current trends lessons and critical issues for putting technological innovation into place Offers an international perspective on technological innovation in the academic library Uses a critical methodology to reflect on what works what does not and how managers can apply lessons from real cases worldwide

Librarians as Researchers Paul C. Campbell, Sarah Nagle, 2025-08-07 This book is designed to empower librarians to develop their research skills and embrace their identities as scholars Many librarians particularly those in academic libraries are expected to engage in research and scholarly output However unlike disciplinary faculty most librarians have not completed a PhD program and many have never designed or participated in original research upon embarking on their career This edited volume provides inspiration and support for academic librarians looking to develop or refresh their research skills and develop their scholarly identities The focus of this book is toward empowering librarians as researchers rather than librarians supporting student or faculty research This book provides a venue for librarians to share their knowledge on different aspects of research as well as build community for other librarians to actualize their own identities as researchers The existing literature and research in the realm of librarian identity development often touches on librarian identities in the face of emerging technologies and new library types or how librarians can support research at their institutions However there is a gap in the literature around librarians developing their own identities as researchers Librarians have a unique role in the scholarly community we often sacrifice our own research interests so that we can provide support and instruction to others whether it be faculty students or the public But the library world holds immense opportunity for developing and executing original research Additionally conducting research is beneficial to librarians individual practice as well as the library community as a whole This edited volume will provide guidance as well as actionable methods for librarians to develop foundational research philosophies create communities of practice and hone practical skills in a wide range of research areas
