Management Training Strategies for Developing Countries John E. Kerrigan, Jeffrey Scott Luke, 1987      Development Management Under Globalization, 2006-01-01 With reference to India      Research Management for Development John L. Nickel, 1989 Research management On being an agricultural research director The challenge to better management Rising to the challenge a summary Managing the value system Managing people Managing the research Managing the funds Managing the external interfaces Managing the managers A research strategy for sustainable development with equity Research strategy implications      Teaching Public Policy Peter J. Bergerson, 1991-01-30 The curriculum of public policy education is currently undergoing an introspective examination as academics and practitioners develop programs to reflect the dramatic theoretical informational technological and managerial changes of the 1980s This book is a response to some of these creative and innovative instructional techniques The text covers policy theory research and a number of substantive topics including financial management budgeting ethics computers and experiential learning The essays are grouped in seven separate areas each emphasizing successful teaching strategies Organizational theory is the first area to be treated with discussions of public administration education and democratic values a reflection in action model and the role of ethics in public policy education Research skills are covered through surveys of quantitative analysis skills of MPA students and bridging the gap between methods courses and real research studies Surveys of information resource management and an active reactive model of policy evaluation comprise the section on program evaluation and management while financial core curriculum courses are considered in chapters on in class budget simulations and fiscal management in the public sector A computers and communications section focuses on computer literacy and the skills an MPA program should teach and two contributions analyze comparative public administration Finally a concluding section explores the contemporary issues of the use of practitioners in the classroom experiential learning and the political science perspective on public administration This volume will be a useful resource for courses in public administration public policy and political science as well as a welcome addition to public and academic libraries      Partnership for International Development Jennifer M. Brinkerhoff, 2002 Partnership says Brinkerhoff public administration George Washington U is the polite term for minimizing the responsibility of government in development projects She seeks to clarify the concepts and its practice to critique the understanding and practice of it in international development to date and to specify its defining dimensions Annotation copyrighted by Book News Inc Portland OR      Policy Studies Review, 1989 Some vols include special issues      Catalogue of Research Literature for Development: Food production and nutrition, development and economics, education and human resources, health, selected development areas United States. Agency for International Development. Bureau for Technical Assistance, 1976      China's International Investment Strategy Julien Chaisse, 2019-02-07 Since China adopted its open door policy in 1978 which altered its development strategy from self sufficiency to active participation in the world market its goal has remained unchanged to assist the readjustment of China's economy to coordinate its modernization programs and to improve its quality of life. With the 1997 launch of the Going Global policy, an outward focus regarding foreign investment was added to circumvent trade barriers and improve the competitiveness of Chinese firms. In order to accommodate inward and outward investment, China's participation in the international investment regime has underpinned its efforts to join multilateral investment-related legal instruments and conclude international investment agreements. This collection, compiled by award-winning scholar Professor Julien Chaisse, explores the three distinct tracks of China's investment policy and strategy: bilateral agreements including those with the US and the EU; regional agreements including the Free Trade Area of the Asia Pacific and global initiatives spearheaded by China's presidency of the G20 and its Belt and Road initiative. The book's overarching topic is whether these three tracks compete with each other or whether they complement one another, a question of profound importance for the country's political and economic future and world investment governance.

Congressional Presentation United States. Agency for International Development, Livestock Development In Sub-Saharan Africa James R Simpson, 2019-08-22. The nations of Sub-Saharan Africa experienced declining levels of food production per capita throughout the 1970s and early 1980s, particularly in the area of livestock production. Addressing that problem, the authors of this book assess in a systems context the environmental, biological, and social constraints on future African livestock development and consider prospects for improving productivity. They focus especially on changes needed in production and marketing systems, pointing to important policy considerations. The book is divided into four parts containing twenty-one chapters each, authored by one or more respective authorities in his or her field. Each section in its own way addresses the entire set of questions; topics include aspects of animal breeding and nutrition, anthropology, economics, ecology, farming systems, governmental policy, land tenure, marketing, modelling, and veterinary medicine.

Confronting AIDS in the Developing Countries United States. Agency for International Development, 1992.

Development Management Justice Nyigimah Bawole, Farhad Hossain, Asad K. Ghalib, Christopher J. Rees, Aminu Mamman, 2016-10-04. Despite significant financial investments, the rate of development and pace of poverty reduction in developing and transitional countries has not always matched expectations. Development management typically involves complex interactions between governmental and non-governmental organisations, donors, and members of the public and can be difficult to navigate. This volume brings together a group of international contributors to explore the theoretical and empirical underpinnings of development management and to consider the prospects and challenges associated with it in the context of both developing and transitional countries. Referring to dominant norms and values in public and developmental organisations, development management is tied up with the attitudes and perceptions of various stakeholders, including government officials, public sector managers, aid workers, donors, and members of the public. Attempting to make sense of complex interactions between these actors is highly problematic and calls for new approaches, models, and insights. Based on cutting edge research the chapters challenge much of the previous discourse on the subject and evaluate the challenges and opportunities that it presents Development Management offers academics researchers and practitioners of public administration business and management international development and political science a comprehensive and state of the art review of current research on development management in the context of developing and transitional countries
