Managerial and Technical Motivation Michael J. Stahl, 1986-04-22 One of the most widely accepted theories of motivation is a trichotomy of needs theory popularized by David C McClelland of Harvard University Many organizational behavior textbooks today discuss McClelland's need for achievement need for affiliation and need for power The three needs have been found to possess predictive power in a wide variety of settings particularly organizational ones Impressed by the ability of the three needs to explain behavior but aware of the measurement problems associated with the Thematic Apperception Test which is used to assess these needs the author searched for an alternative measurement approach This book reports on those design efforts validation of the instrument and use of the instrument in organizational settings Role Motivation Theories John B. Miner, 2008-02-20 Role Motivation Theories is concerned with four types of organisations and what makes them work The four are not exhaustive of all possible organisational types but they do represent the major forms found in the world today If we wish to understand organisational functioning in modern society then we need to have substantial insight into these four types of organisations Drawing upon many years of research John B Miner argues that the organisational effectiveness required to produce high levels of productivity results from achieving a state of integration between the type of organizational system and the kind of people who fill the key positions in the system Role Motivation Theories is the most comprehensive and up to date treatment of this work available Handbook of Human Factors and Ergonomics Gavriel Salvendy, 2012-03-13 The fourth edition of the Handbook of Human Factors and Ergonomics has been completely revised and updated This includes all existing third edition chapters plus new chapters written to cover new areas These include the following subjects Managing low back disorder risk in the workplace Online interactivity Neuroergonomics Office ergonomics Social networking HF E in motor vehicle transportation User requirements Human factors and ergonomics in aviation Human factors in ambient intelligent environments As with the earlier editions the main purpose of this handbook is to serve the needs of the human factors and ergonomics researchers practitioners and graduate students Each chapter has a strong theory and scientific base but is heavily focused on real world applications As such a significant number of case studies examples figures and tables are included to aid in the understanding and application of the material covered
