Research Communications in Psychology, Psychiatry, and Behavior, 1985 Theory and Practice in the Study of Adult Education Barry P. Bright, 2018-11-12 Originally published in 1989 this book presents a variety of perspectives on the definition of knowledge and of adult education by leading authors and practitioners in the study of adult education in the UK and USA This collection of different and often contradictory views makes a detailed analysis of the epistemology and practice of adult education Three major views are reflected within the book all of which focus upon the role of the conventional disciplines as a theoretical basis for adult education curricula and professional practice Wittgenstein, Education and the Problem of Rationality Michael A. Peters, 2021-01-21 This book develops an argument for a historicist and non foundationalist notion of rationality based on an interpretation of Wittgenstein of the Philosophical Investigations and On Certainty The book examines two notions of rationality a universal versus a constitutive conception and their significance for educational theory The former advanced by analytic philosophy of education as a form of conceptual analysis is based on a mistaken reading of Wittgenstein Analytic philosophy of education used a reading of Wittgenstein's philosophy of language to set up and justify an absolute universal and ahistorical notion of rationality. By contrast, the book examines the underlying influence of the later Wittgenstein on the historicist turn in philosophy of science as a basis for a non-foundationalist and constitutive notion of rationality which is both historical and cultural and remains consistent with wider developments in philosophy, hermeneutics and social theory. This book aims to understand the philosophical motivation behind this view to examine its intellectual underpinnings and to substitute this universal conception of rationality by reference to a Hegelian interpretation of the later Wittgenstein that emphasizes his status as an anti-foundational thinker. Radical Philosophy, 1994. Re/Structuring Science Education Wolff-Michael Roth, 2009-12-24. Since its beginnings, science education has been under the influence of psychological theories of knowing and learning, while in more recent years, social constructivist and sociological frameworks have also begun to emerge. With little work being done on showing how the perspectives of these separate approaches might be integrated, this work aims to plug the gap. The book helps lay the groundwork for reuniting sociological and psychological perspectives on the knowing, learning and teaching of science. Featuring a range of integrative efforts beginning with simple conversation, the chapters here include not only articles but also commentaries that engage with other papers as well as a useful running narrative that, from the introduction to the epilogue, contextualizes the book and its sections. Specific attention is given to cultural-historical activity theory which already offers an integration of psychological and cultural-historical sociological perspectives on collectively motivated human activities. A number of chapters as well as the contextualizing narrative explicitly use this theory as a framework for rethinking science education to achieve the reunification that is the goal of this work. All the contributors to this volume have produced texts that contribute to the effort of overcoming the extant divide between sociological and psychological approaches to science education research and practice From very different positions gender culture race they provide valuable insights to reuniting approaches in both theory and method in the field As an ensemble the contributions constitute a rich menu of ideas from which new forms of science education can emerge Choice ,1983 Social Theory and Education Raymond Allen Morrow,Carlos Alberto Torres,1995-03-09 This book summarizes the body of knowledge about sociology of education and cultural studies as it informs educational research and critical pedagogy It synthesizes the most relevant work in social and cultural reproduction published in the last three decades in English French German Spanish and Portuguese The authors document and critique the theoretical discussion in developments in both advanced societies and peripheral ones and link macro sociological issues with social psychological ones The book introduces theories of the state to underscore a political sociology of education and highlights an agenda for theory building research and practice in sociology of education
