Painting Form Huhsien County, 1974 Collecting the Revolution Emily R. Williams, 2022-03-08 In the late 1960s student protests broke out throughout much of the world and while Britain's anti Vietnam protestors and China's Red Guards were clearly radically different these movements at times shared inspirations aspirations and aesthetics Within Western popular media Mao's China was portrayed as a danger to world peace but at the same time for some on the counter cultural left the Cultural Revolution 1966 1976 contained ideas worthy of exploration Moreover because of Britain's continued colonial possession of Hong Kong Britain had a specific interest in ongoing events in China and information was highly sought after Thus the objects that China exported propaganda posters paintings Mao badges periodicals ceramics etc became a crucial avenue through which China was known at this time and interest in them crossed the political divide Collecting the Revolution uses the objects that the Chinese government sent abroad and that visitors brought back with them to open up the stories of diplomats journalists activists students and others and how they imagined engaged with and later remembered Mao's China through its objects It chronicles the story of how these objects were later incorporated into the collections of some of Britain's most prominent museums thus allowing later generations to continue to engage with one of the most controversial and important periods of China's recent history Painting In The People's Republic Of China Arnold

Chang, 2019-09-30 The relationship between politics and art in any society should not be seen simply as one of cause and effect Political and artistic issues are linked to one another through a complex network of interactions and associations In the People's Republic of China where all aspects of society are directly related to politics and where the creation of art is in itself considered a political act this relationship is more clearly defined than elsewhere though no less complicated In China the government plays a direct and active role in overseeing the nation's artistic production and in determining the criteria for critical judgment This study is divided into three sections Chapter 1 outlines the major statements of artistic policy and the theoretical structure upon which the policies are based Chapter 2 deals with the effect of the artistic policies upon artists and the reactions of painters to the political demands placed upon them The third chapter will focus on the experiences of three such artists Kuan Shan yueh Li K o jan and Ch ien Sung yen All three specialize in landscape a genre that has been especially problematic and all three incorporate both Western techniques and traditional Chinese methods of drawing Peasant Paintings from Hu County, Shensi Province, China Arts Council of Great Britain, Guy Brett, 1976 Art in Turmoil: The Chinese Cultural Revolution, 1966-76 Richard King, 2010-07-01 This book decodes the rhetoric of Chinas turbulent decade a time of both brutal iconoclasm and radical experimentation in the arts to offer new insights into works that have transcended their times Museum Representations of Maoist China Amy Jane Barnes, 2016-04-15 The collection interpretation and display of art from the People s Republic of China and particularly the art of the Cultural Revolution have been problematic for museums These objects challenge our perception of Chineseness and their style content and the means of their production question accepted notions of how we perceive art This book links art history museology and visual culture studies to examine how museums have attempted to reveal discuss and resolve some of these issues Amy Jane Barnes addresses a series of related issues associated with collection and display how museums deal with difficult and controversial subjects the role they play in mediating between the object and the audience the role of the Other in the creation of Self and national identities the nature role and function of art in society the museum as image maker the impact of communism and Maoism on the cultural history of the twentieth century and the appropriation of communist visual iconography This book will be of interest to researchers and students of museology visual and cultural studies as well as scholars of Chinese and revolutionary art Chinese Modern Xiaobing Tang, 2000-04-03 An analysis of the Chinese experience of modernity through the literary works films and other cultural artifacts that represent it Learning to See Alan Gowans, 1981 Learning to See starts on the assumption that popular commercial arts are a different kind of activity from avant garde arts today but that they represent the same kind of activity that we identify as arts historically It proceeds then to investigate how popular commercial arts carry out the social functions of historic arts And it claims that once we can thereby understand how historic arts worked in and for society art history becomes a significant new tool for objective historical research as never before China During the Cultural Revolution, 1966-1976 Tony H. Chang, 1999-01-30 One of the most tumultuous periods in modern Chinese history the Cultural Revolution affected virtually all Chinese people and all aspects of Chinese life including art music and drama education factory management economic planning and medical care Studies of the Cultural Revolution in both Chinese and Western languages have burgeoned over the past three decades This comprehensive easy to use bibliography provides a guide to published English language sources on the Cultural Revolution With over a thousand entries it includes books monographs dissertations and audio visual materials on a broad range of topics from the military education religion and economics to foreign relations population art literature and drama Including titles published through the end of 1997 and a few in 1998 the book provides a general overview of the literature on the Chinese Cultural Revolution and its impact on China Its scope and coverage make it a useful resource for any library whose readers have an interest in modern
