Practising Feminism Identity Difference And Power:

Practising Feminism Nickie Charles, Felicia Hughes-Freeland, 1996 In Practising Feminisms contributors drawn from a range of backgrounds in anthropology sociology and social psychology explore different ways of practising feminism and their effect on gendered identities The contributors examine feminism and gender differences between different countries various feminist practices the call for the recognition of heterosexuality as a politicised identity and the practical role of feminism in nationalist struggles and finally methodological implications of feminist practices They show women to be different and that different structural influences come into play to make them different But women are not so different that a feminist politics or understanding is invalid Practising Feminisms is an important contribution to the neglected middle ground between post modern deconstructions of difference and identity and continued feminist concern with grounded power relations and the validity of experience Deconstructing Feminist Psychology Erica Burman, 1998-01-12 How close is feminist psychology to contemporary feminism How can feminist psychological practice address issues of difference between women in meaningful ways What price has feminist psychology had to pay for attempting to engage with mainstream psychology to revise and improve it This book critiques feminist practice within psychology and reflects the diversity from across the globe of feminist struggles around psychology An international group of key feminist psychologists explore the relations between feminist politics and psychological practices in transitional and postcolonial contexts the distinct European traditions of critical psychology and women s studies and psychology s colonial centre in the United

Black British Feminism Heidi Safia Mirza, 1997 Black British Feminism A Reader is a unique collection of classic texts and new black feminist scholarship Exploring postmodern themes of gendered and racialized exclusion black identity and social and cultural difference this volume provides an overview of black feminism in Britain as it has developed during the last two decades Among the topics covered are white feminism political activism mixed race identity class differences cultural hybridity autobiography black beauty religious fundamentalism national belonging lesbian identity postcolonial space popular culture This timely and important book is essential reading for students and scholars of cultural studies women s studies sociology literature and postcolonial studies Autobiography and the Construction of Identity and Community in the Middle East NA NA, 2016-04-30 Ranging from the early modern period to the present day this edited collection uses biography as a window into the history of the Arab Islamic Middle East The contributors reinterpret the lives of the famous such as George Antonius and Doria Shafiq and rediscover the lives of individuals previously consigned to the margins of history including the notorious individuals of 17th century Syria and the 20th century Palestinian activist Kulthum Auda The book also draws on the biographical tradition of Arab historical writing including biographical dictionaries for an understanding of the region s social and cultural history Interdisciplinary in scope and theoretically informed this volume brings to light individual lives which are essential to an understanding of Middle Eastern history Birthing Autonomy

Nadine Edwards, 2013-04-03 Birthing Autonomy brings some balance to the difficult arguments that arise from debates about home births and focuses on women's views and their experiences of planning home births. It provides an in-depth exploration of how women make decisions about home births and what aspects matter most to them. Comparing how differently the pros and cons of home births are constructed and contemplated by mothers and by the medical profession, the book looks at how current obstetric thinking and practices can disempower and harm women emotionally and spiritually as well as physically. Written in an accessible style, this book is enlightening for student and practicing midwives and obstetricians as well as researchers and students of nursing, medical sociology, health studies, gender studies, feminist practitioners and theorists. It will also be invaluable to expectant mothers who want to be more informed about the choices they are facing and the wider context within which their birth options are considered.

Gender, Ethnicity and Political Ideologies Nickie Charles, Helen Hintjens, 2002-11-01. First Published in 2004. This volume is a collection of the papers from an annual conference in February 1993 of the women's sections of the British Sociological Association and the Political Studies Association at the London School of Economics. Its focus was Gender, Sexuality and Identity: Commonalities and Difference. With the exception of Valerie Bryson's chapter and the introductory chapter, all the chapters in this volume originated as papers presented to that conference. There have been a number of political issues that have characterised the post-Cold War era, such as nationalism, religious fundamentalism, inter-ethnic conflict and the process of democratization. In this ground-breaking study, the authors develop a feminist perspective on these issues and reveal the way that political ideologies use women as symbols of cultural identity. Included are chapters on inter-ethnic conflict in Yugoslavia, the emergence of a male democracy in Chile, women's rights in Israel, the far right and women in France, and the experience of immigrants in Britain. Gender, Ethnicity and Political Ideologies is a revealing study of women's involvement with restrictive political ideologies and demonstrates the importance of a feminist politics that enables women to understand and work with each other across the boundaries that divide them.

Eating and Believing David Grumett, Rachel Muers, 2011-11-03. What are the links between people's beliefs and the foods they choose to eat? In the modern Western world, dietary choices are a topic of ethical and political debate, but how can centuries of Christian thought and practice also inform them? And how do reasons for abstaining from particular foods in the modern world compare with earlier ones? This book will shed new light on modern vegetarianism and related forms of dietary choice by situating them in the context of historic Christian practice. It will show how the theological significance of embodied practice may be retrieved and reconceived in the present day. Food and diet is a neglected area of Christian theology, and Christianity is conspicuous among the modern world's religions in having few dietary rules or customs. Yet historically, food and the practices surrounding it have significantly shaped Christian lives and identities. This collection, prepared collaboratively, includes contributions on the relationship between Christian beliefs and food practices in specific historical contexts. It considers the relationship between eating and believing from non-Christian perspectives that have in turn shaped Christian attitudes and practices It also examines ethical arguments about vegetarianism and their significance for emerging Christian theologies of food Defending Our Dreams Shamillah Wilson, Anasuya Sengupta, Kristy Evans, 2005-10 This book brings together analyses by feminists of diverse identities on themes including women's rights and economic change new technologies sexuality feminist organizations and movements It presents key issues arising out of the experiences of young women living in both North and South the challenges confronting young feminists and the agenda for a new era of feminist leadership and activism Political Opportunities Social Movements, and Democratization Patrick G. Coy, 2001-08-02 Presents a series of papers that discuss political opportunity and social movements This book includes case studies of specific social movements comparative case studies of social movements and comparative case studies of transnational issue networks Gender and Political Identities in Scotland, 1919-1939 Annmarie Hughes, 2010-05-15 This work offers a unique contribution to gender and Scottish history breaking new ground on several fronts there is no history of inter war women in Scotland very little labour or popular political history and virtually nothing published on women the home and family This book is a history of women in the period which integrates class and gender history as well as linking the public and private spheres Using a gendered approach to history it transforms and shifts our knowledge of the Scottish past unearthing the previously unexplored role which women played in inter war socialist politics the General Strike and popular political protest It re evaluates these areas and demonstrates the ways in which gender shaped the experience of class and class struggle Importantly the book also explores the links between the public and private spheres and addresses the concept of masculinity as well as femininity and pays particular reference to domestic violence The strength of the book is the ways in which it illuminates the complex interconnections of culture and economic and social structure Although the research is based on Scottish evidence it also uses material to address key debates in gender history and labour history which have wider relevance and will appeal to gender historians labour historians and social and cultural historians as well as social scientists Philosophy and the Sciences of Exercise, Health and Sport Mike McNamee, 2004-06 This investigation into the rationale and validity of prevailing research methodologies used in sport exercise and health science calls on researchers to reflect critically on the nature and aims of scientific enquiry in these disciplines Aspasia Francisca de Haan, Maria Bucur, Krassimira Daskalova, 2007-09 Aspasia is an international peer reviewed yearbook that brings out the best scholarship in the field of interdisciplinary women's and gender history focused on and produced in Central Eastern and Southeastern Europe In this region the field of women's and gender history has developed unevenly and has remained only marginally represented in the international canon Romancing the Margins? Gabriele Griffin, 2000 Romancing the Margins Lesbian Writing in the 1990s explores the range of critical responses to lesbian writing on issues of gender sexuality and lesbian identity in the final decade of the 20th century Discussing contemporary texts such as Sarah Schulman's novel Empathy Native American lesbian writing biographies and autobiographies and other texts by and about lesbians this volume stresses the diversity of gender and sexual identity in the 1990s and raises questions about the politics of those positions Power, Knowledge and Feminist Scholarship Maria do Mar Pereira, 2017-02-10 Feminist scholarship is sometimes dismissed as not quite proper knowledge it's too political or subjective many argue But what are the boundaries of proper knowledge Who defines them and how are they changing How do feminists negotiate them And how does this boundary work affect women's and gender studies and its scholars and students' lives These are the questions tackled by this ground breaking ethnography of academia inspired by feminist epistemology Foucault and science and technology studies Drawing on data collected over a decade in Portugal and the UK US and Scandinavia this title explores different spaces of academic work and sociability considering both official discourse and corridor talk It links epistemic negotiations to the shifting political economy of academic labour and situates the smallest but fiercest departmental negotiations within global relations of unequal academic exchange Through these links this timely volume also raises urgent questions about the current state and status of gender studies and the mood of contemporary academia Indeed its sobering yet uplifting discussion of that mood offers fresh insight into what it means to produce feminist work within neoliberal cultures of academic performativity demanding increasing productivity As the first book to analyse how academics talk publicly or in off the record humour about feminist scholarship Power Knowledge and Feminist Scholarship is essential reading for scholars and students in gender studies LGBTQ studies post colonial studies STS sociology and education Winner of the FWSA 2018 Book Prize competition The Open Access version of this book available at <https://doi.org/10.4324/9781315692623> has been made available under a Creative Commons

Corporate Strategy Angelique Du-Toit,2006-09-27 This book takes a fresh look at corporate strategy exploring it from a feminist perspective Challenging male dominated theory Corporate Strategy looks at unquestioned assumptions held about strategy in practice and academia including whether women approach strategy differently from men and if so how their approach differs. Reviewing the histories of strategy and feminism, the book explores the reasons why so few serious works on strategy have been written by women and investigates the continued lack of women at senior levels within many organizations. Anglique du Toit draws on postmodern arguments to illustrate the claims made for the necessity of diversity within organizations and challenges the fact that positions of power both in society and organizations remain the exclusive right of men. Corporate Strategy argues that if an organization is to survive and succeed in the global economy it has to pay more than lip service to issues surrounding diversity.

Mothering the Self Stephanie Lawler, 2002-01-04 The mother-daughter relationship has preoccupied feminist writers for decades but typically it has been the daughter's story at centre stage. Mothering the Self brings together these maternal and daughterly stories by drawing on in-depth interviews with women who speak both as mothers and as daughters. This study examines the ways in which these mothers and daughters participate in their understanding of class, gender and race locations both using and resisting them. The result is a fresh start from which to consider the far-reaching implications of this relationship not simply for mothers and daughters but in terms of how we understand the shaping of the self and its place within the social world.

Capricious Borders Olga Demetriou, 2013-04-01 Borders of states, borders of citizenship, borders of exclusion. As the lines drawn on international treaty maps become ditches in the ground and roaming barriers in the air, a complex state apparatus is set up to regulate the lives of those who cannot be expelled yet who have never been properly rooted. This study explores the mechanisms employed at the interstices of two opposing views on the presence of minority populations in western Thrace: the legalization of their status as tablis established and the failure to incorporate the minority in the Greek national imaginary. Revealing the logic of government bureaucracy shows how they replicate difference from the inter-state level to the communal and the personal.
