Rural Livelihoods And Poverty Reduction Policies:

Rural Livelihoods and Poverty Reduction Policies Frank Ellis, H. Ade Freeman, 2004-08-02 This important new collection of contributions brings together current thinking on poverty reduction and rural livelihoods in developing countries. As well as leading economists in the field such as Frank Ellis and Chris Barrett, there are a number of contributors from developing countries themselves. The book examines both macroeconomic and microeconomic phenomena and contains a wide range of case studies. Skilfully exposing the gap that exists between the rhetoric of poverty reduction strategies in capital cities and the practice of public sector delivery in rural areas, this key text will be essential reading for advanced students and researchers in the fields of rural development, rural livelihoods, poverty reduction strategies and Sub-Saharan Africa development, as well as advisors and practitioners in international organizations.

Rural Livelihoods and Diversity in Developing Countries Frank Ellis, 2000-06-29 Rural families in developing countries make a living by engaging in diverse activities. These range from farming to rural trade to migration to distant cities and even abroad. This book explores the implications of rural livelihood diversity for key topics in development studies and for poverty reduction policies. The livelihoods approach is gaining momentum and this is the first book to set it out in detail.

Collective Action and Property Rights for Poverty Reduction Esther Mwangi, Helen Markelova, Ruth Meinzen-Dick, 2012-05-22 To improve their well-being, the poor in developing countries have used both collective action through formal and informal groups and property rights to natural resources. Collective Action and Property Rights for Poverty Reduction: Insights from Africa and Asia examines how these two types of institutions separately and together influence quality of life and how they can be strengthened to improve the livelihoods of the rural poor. The product of a global research study by the Systemwide Program on Collective Action and Property Rights (CAPRI) of the Consultative Group on International Agricultural Research, this book draws on case studies from East Africa and South and Southeast Asia to investigate how collective action and property rights have contributed to poverty reduction. The book extends the analysis of these institutions beyond their frequently studied role in natural resource management by also examining how they can reduce vulnerability to different types of shocks. Essays in the volume identify opportunities and risks present in the institutions of collective action and property rights. For example, property rights to natural resources can offer a variety of advantages, providing individuals and groups not only with benefits and incomes but also with assets that can counter the negative effects of shocks such as drought and can make collective action easier. The authors also demonstrate that collective action has the potential to reduce poverty if it includes more vulnerable groups such as women, ethnic minorities, and the very poor. Preventing exclusion of these often marginalized groups and guaranteeing genuinely inclusive collective action might require special rules and policies. Another danger to the poor is the capture of property rights by elites, which can be the result of privatization and decentralization policies. Case studies and analysis identify actions to prevent such elite capture.

The Comparative Political Economy of Development Barbara

Harriss-White, Judith Heyer, 2009-12-21 Illustrates the enduring relevance and vitality of the comparative political economy of development approach and presents the relation between theory and empirical material in an interactive way This title offers an explanation of what is happening in the continent of Africa and the sub continent of South Asia Rural Livelihood and Environmental Sustainability in China Jie Li, Shuzhuo Li, Gretchen C. Daily, Marcus Feldman, 2020-10-19 The book considers the challenge of poverty and deterioration of the ecological environment in China particularly in rural areas Examining key factors such as the overuse of natural resources and the loss of biodiversity in the face of an expanding population and rapidly developing economy It focuses on examining the frameworks of rural households in poor mountainous areas in rural China considering their livelihood choices and decision making processes It analyses the relationship between these households livelihoods and their environment notably farmers attitudes and perceptions towards ecological conservation policies and their use of forest resources Cutting across the fields of population studies sociology economy and environment this is an important read for scholars and students interested in how China is dealing with the challenges of natural resources exploitation sustainable development and social welfare The Elgar Companion to Development Studies David Clark, 2006 If handbooks can be inspiring this is it Like a true companion it takes in its stride conversations both big and small Its entries do not just present an international and multidisciplinary mix but true to life they work on several different scales And importantly the book makes its authority evident For it is like an extended website but with all the added advantages of an encyclopaedia that actually tells you about the authors and the sources on which they have drawn The resulting compilation is highly intelligent thoughtful and above all usable Dame Marilyn Strathern University of Cambridge UK The Elgar Companion to Development Studies is a major production in the development studies field authored by a star studded cast of contributors With 136 entries covering a vast range of topics it should quickly establish itself as a leading work of reference We should all feel indebted to David Clark who has successfully brought this substantial publishing project to completion John Toye University of Oxford UK This is a most comprehensive handbook on development studies It brings together a wide varied array of carefully crafted summaries of 136 key topics in development by an international cast of well respected academics and other experts in respective areas of study The handbook is heavily interdisciplinary organically combining economic political historical social cultural institutional ethical and human aspects of development While the wide range of entries might appear as a simple glossary listing or an encyclopedic collection each of the 136 entries offers more depth and discussion than the average handbook Viewed in this light this companion is highly likely to become known as a leading reference work on the topic Highly recommended Ismael Hossein Zadeh Choice The Elgar Companion to Development Studies is an innovative and unique reference book that includes original contributions covering development economics as well as development studies broadly defined This major new Companion brings together an international panel of experts from varying backgrounds who discuss theoretical ethical and practical issues relating to economic social cultural institutional political and human aspects of development in poor countries It also includes a selection of intellectual biographies of leading development thinkers While the Companion is organised along the lines of an encyclopaedia each of its 136 entries provide more depth and discussion than the average reference book Its entries are also extremely diverse they draw on different social science disciplines incorporate various mixes of theoretical and applied work embrace a variety of methodologies and represent different views of the world The Elgar Companion to Development Studies will therefore appeal to students scholars researchers policymakers and practitioners in the field of development as well as the interested layman

Communities and Livelihood Strategies in Developing Countries Keshav Lall Maharjan, 2014-05-29 Sustainability of rural communities is threatened by a plethora of factors including climate change and disasters which interact in an intricate manner in making rural people vulnerable and poor This book is the output of empirical research on communities and livelihood strategies in developing countries It reveals how rural communities are functioning and earning their livelihoods by making the best use of the resources local internal or external new and the combination of the two to counteract the various challenges they face with the ultimate goal of becoming resilient to local or global shocks and sustaining that resilience Local governance is identified as crucial in ensuring sustainable livelihoods as it ensures healthy collaboration between communities on the one hand and civil society and those communities on the other hand in promoting self sustaining development trajectories Similarly the role of social capital is not ignored as it brings in community drive and a sense of purpose direction and solidarity among community members which facilitates problem solving in periods of crises and disasters

celebrates that 75 years ago the foundation was laid for the Department of Anthropology and Development Studies at Radboud University Nijmegen the Netherlands The contributions to this volume exemplify the evolution of the academic disciplines of anthropology and development studies at Radboud University in the course of its history Radboud University itself celebrates its centenary in the year 2023 Originally this university was established for the emancipation of the Catholic population in the Netherlands Emancipation continues to be a distinctive feature of the university's policy also of the scholarship as it is conducted in the department of anthropology and development studies As emancipation and engagement are key concepts in the disciplines of anthropology and development studies at Radboud University former and current staff members focus their contributions to this anniversary volume on the various meanings of the concepts of emancipation and engagement in their academic practices They reflect on changes in the meaning of engaged scholarship in their own work especially in relation to emancipatory issues The outcome is a rich variety of contributions centering on the shifting tension between engagement and scholarship in the disciplines of anthropology and development studies Thus they not only exemplify the evolution of these academic disciplines at Radboud University but also offer a topical and innovative perspective on a highly dynamic field

Living in the Shadow of the Large Dams Dzodzi Tsikata, 2006-05-01 Studies of populations affected by Large Dams are usually about physically displaced and resettled communities This book on the Volta River Project breaks with the mould and tackles the long term environmental and socio economic impacts of the Akosombo and Kpong Dams and livelihood responses of two neglected groups downstream and lakeside communities In a detailed study which takes a gendered political economy of livelihoods approach the book considers the contribution of factors such as the environmental restructuring of the Lower Volta the exodus of its most economically active population to the Volta Lake the State's neglect of affected communities the changing socio economic context of Ghana and social relations of class gender and kinship to livelihood trajectories and outcomes

Microfinance Jude L. Fernando, 2004-08-02 Microfinance is defined as the financial services offered to the poor for the purpose of promoting small scale enterprises and as such it is one of the most important topics in development studies and a burgeoning area in economics This volume provides a much needed historical political and economic dimension to the current knowledge on microfinance Collectively the contributors chart the relationship between the prevailing popularity of microfinance and the consolidation of neoliberal economic ideology worldwide They demonstrate how microfinance as a market friendly approach to development coincides with the global trend towards diminishing the role of the state in economic development basic healthcare education and welfare The articles in the volume focus on the empirical analyses of the experience of microfinance in women's everyday lives but rejects the connection between microfinance and women's empowerment so often imputed in literature This book offers regional cultural and other explanations for variable assessments of microfinance and empowerment It fills a huge gap in published microfinance literature and will be of great interest to postgraduates and professionals in the fields of economics
