Marx's Construction of Social Theory (RLE Marxism) J.M. Barbalet, 2015-04-17 This study first published in 1983 explores the connections between Marx's philosophy and his empirical analysis of society and state by showing the different meanings of many of Marx's concepts as their role in his theory changes and the theory itself develops Beginning with an examination of Marx's search for a sound epistemological basis on which to build a social theory Dr Barbalet then gives an analysis of the way in which Marx continually modifies the concepts he uses and continues with an examination of the different functions they are given in different theoretical settings Various nuances of Marx's thought often obscured by the simplistic early late dichotomy are revealed by Dr Barbalet's close attention to the progressive transformation of Marx's concepts and by his scrupulous analysis of them in not only their textual but also their theoretical context Finally the book examines the manner in which Marx's construction of social theory by its very nature means that some material is replaced by other theoretical fabric as the theoretical structure itself is in different ways dismantled and reorganised as Marx's thought evolves and develops      Culture: A Drama of Nature and Person Piotr Jaroszyński, 2023-12-11 This monograph represents a rare classical philosophical approach to culture It is grounded in philosophical realism and emphasizes personalism as a true achievement of philosophical anthropology Employing the apparatus of the history of philosophy science and religion the author demonstrates the immense scope of the drama unfolding within human culture In a classical approach evaluation is inevitable with regard to various theories of culture human culture as such and all its main actors Jaroszyński's work shows that realistic study of what it means to be a human person leads to the most comprehensive understanding of culture as it is and should be      Man's Nature and Nature's Man Lee Dice, 2016-10-30 In Man's Nature and Nature's Man Lee R Dice tells of the interrelationship of man in his communities of his plant and animal associates and of how they act one upon the other He describes the laws that govern their rise and decline and the regulatory mechanisms set up by nature and by man himself that promote human progress He deals with the dynamics of human populations and with the philosophical and moral bases of human communities Finally he casts his eye upon the prospects before us A series of well regulated world communities he writes is not likely to be constructed soon nor without tremendous effort and travail Nevertheless the evolutionary trend is in that direction Selfishness ignorance and bigotry may delay the discovery and application of these principles But no force will be able to prevent the evolution of world communities which will continually advance toward ever higher levels of culture If effective efforts are made to discover and apply the natural laws that affect human affairs the time required can be greatly shortened Our future is in our own hands      An Essay on the Nature and Immutability of Truth
