miles from him and yet they stood out clear and distinct in the wonderful air and seemed but a short journey away Below him were ledges of rock in marvellous colours yellow and gray crimson and green piled one upon another with the strange light of the noonday sun playing over them and turning their colours into a blaze of glory Beyond was a stretch of sand broken here and there by sage brush greasewood or cactus rearing its prickly spines grotesquely The Man of the Desert & A Voice in the Wilderness: A Sequel Grace Livingston Hill, 2019-07-09 The Man of the Desert When weary and tired Hazel Radcliffe falls off her horse in the unforgiving weather of Arizona she is nursed back to her health by John Brownleigh a missionary Soon enough both of them develop feelings for each other but never succeed in confessing it Will they get separated for ever or has fate other plans for these two A Voice in the Wilderness A sequel to the first book this one tells the story of Margaret Earle a young school teacher who accidentally gets down on a wrong platform and finds herself lost in the wilderness of Arizona Alone and helpless she pins her hope on a man to help her but it soon backfires and Margaret finds herself running away in sheer desperation But what will happen when her path will cross with Lance Gardley the handsome cowboy The Man of the Desert, the Original Novel (Large Print) Grace Livingston Hill, 2014-12-19 It was morning high and clear as Arizona counts weather and around the little railroad station were gathered a crowd of curious onlookers seven Indians three women from nearby shacks drawn thither by the sight of the great private car that the night express had left on a side track the usual number of loungers a swarm of children besides the station agent who had come out to watch proceedings The Man of the Desert Grace Livingston Hill, 2020-04-17 It was morning high and clear as Arizona counts weather and around the little railroad station were gathered a crowd of curious onlookers seven Indians three women from nearby shacks drawn thither by the sight of the great private car that the night express had left on a side track the usual number of loungers a swarm of children besides the station agent who had come out to watch proceedings All the morning the private car had been an object of deep interest to those who lived within sight and that was everybody on the plateau and many and various had been the errands and excuses to go to the station that perchance the occupants of that car might be seen or a glimpse of the interior of the moving palace but the silken curtains had remained drawn until after nine o'clock Within the last half hour however a change had taken place in the silent inscrutable car The Tribes of Burning Man: How an Experimental City in the Desert Is Shaping the New American Counterculture Steven T.
