China's Business Reforms Russell Smyth, On Kit Tam, Malcolm Warner, Cherrie Jiuhua Zhu, 2004-11-10 Since 1993 China has been the second largest recipient of foreign direct investment in the world and is now considered to be the world s third biggest economy The editors examine the key areas all of which are linked where China is grappling with institutional reforms as it opens up to the outside world Changing Workplace Relations in the Chinese Economy M. Warner, 2000-05-31 Changing Workplace Relations in the Chinese Economy attempts to deal with how China s economic reforms have undermined the iron rice bowl system which since the 1950s has provided both lifetime employment and cradle to the grave welfare for many workers particularly those in state owned enterprises It starts by examining the background of these reforms and how they have changed workplace relations in the Chinese economy it will also look at key themes relating to the role of trade unions and the management of human resources in both state owned and joint venture firms finally a number of illustrative case studies involving industrial relations and human resource management are set out A set of contributors drawn from a wide range of disciplines and nationalities who are expert in these fields have contributed chapters to the volume International Brand Management of Chinese Companies Sandra Bell, 2008-03-29 China is certainly doing its best to keep the world mesmerized by its e nomic achievements The Chinese economic growth story that begun 30 years ago has in terms of dynamics and duration long since surpassed all those economic miracles which have brought Germany Japan and the South East Asian Tigers into the top league of the industrialized world The rapid expansion of the Chinese economy has gone along with a fu fledged re integration of China into the global economic system In the course of the last 30 years China has become a major player in the global economy and today is on a trajectory towards even greater prominence In recent years the Chinese economy seems to have reached an imp tant threshold line of economic development and global integration In the first quarter century of reform and global opening Chinese enterprises have been largely confined to a passive role in the global division of labor. Foreign enterprises as the proprietors of greatly superior business models, production technologies, management models, as well as very competitively established brands, have been integrating Chinese players in their value chains and global operations. Lacking the necessary production technologies, products, as well as marketing knowledge to successfully address OECD consumers, Chinese enterprises have been hardly able to enter the global markets without such guidance. Now this constellation is changing.
