Making Supply Chain Management Work James B. Ayers, 2001-12-13 Any supply chain improvement project even if well conceived has a good chance of failing unless the accompanying information technology enables the design. Being prepared understanding the risks and how to reduce them will give you the edge you need. Work Products, 1983 Making Multilevel Public Management Work Denita Cepiku, David K. Jesuit, Ian Roberge, 2013-06-13 Public management increasingly takes place in multilevel settings since most countries are decentralized to one degree or another and most problems transcend and cut across administrative and geographical borders. A collaboration of scholars in the Transnational Initiative on Governance Research and Education (TIGRE) Net Making Multilevel Public Management Work: Stories of Success and Failure from Europe and North America brings together two strands of literature: multilevel governance and public management, and draws conclusions on practices of public management in multilevel governance settings. The book focuses on how to make multilevel public management work. Using an inductive logic, the editors study a particular case or a few selected cases, highlight lessons learned and implications, and identify trends and concerns. The book underscores factors essential to making multilevel public management work, namely coordination and collaboration and new skills and leadership capacities. It discusses the pitfalls of creating networks instead of managing them and the importance of finding the right leadership skills, institutional design, and network management mechanisms to avoid deadlock and manage conflict effectively. Multilevel public management creates multiple opportunities and their accompanying challenges. By bringing together case studies in Europe and North America, this book identifies conditions for success and those under which such governance arrangements fail. Demonstrating the insights gained by the cross-fertilization of ideas, the book has also been strengthened by the participation of researchers from various disciplines, including public management, political science, and international relations, economics, as well as administrative law. The interdisciplinary nature of the scholarship provides a complete and compelling portrait of multilevel public management as practiced and studied on two continents The book opens the debate on what is needed to make it work Making Fisheries Management Work Stig S. Gezelius, Jesper Raakjær, 2008-07-15 The state of the Northeast Atlantic fisheries in recent years has highlighted implementation as the Achilles heel of modern fisheries management discards and unreported or misreported landings are in many cases recognised to effectively subvert sound conservation goals Social science literature on fisheries management has tended to regard the implementation of resource conservation policies mainly as a question of effective enforcement This literature regards surveillance and penalty as the key mechanism through which fishermen keep to catch restrictions and loyally report their catches This book emerged because several years of research on fishermen's compliance had made us uneasy about this rather narrow approach to the problem of implementation This uneasiness motivated us to widen the approach to the question of implementing conservation policies in the fisheries Taking Norway as an example its fishing fleet consists of some 7 000 vessels spread along a coastline of more than 20 000 km populated by less than 5 million people The idea of ensuring desirable behaviour through surveillance and enforcement alone is almost absurd in such a context as the task is impossible by any reasonable means The Norwegian implementation system has thus had to rely heavily on the incentives provided by the rules and legitimacy created through a century of state industry collaboration Different coastal states face very different conditions in terms of solving typical implementation problems such as discards and misreporting

Making Risk Management Work Ruth Murray-Webster, Penny Pullan, 2022-10-10 Making risk management work means engaging people to identify own and manage risk Many organisations have spent considerable time and money setting up risk frameworks processes and supporting tools but these have failed to deliver value Instead they should focus on the people Bringing together the expertise of Ruth Murray Webster in the human aspects of risk management and Penny Pullan's deep expertise in facilitation creative collaboration and virtual leadership this book provides tried and tested approaches to make each process step work well within the context of your own organisation and serves as a guide as to how to work effectively with groups By translating a highly technical and complex subject into an easy to follow guide this book goes beyond tick box approaches and provides top tips on how to engage others in developing risk management solutions and how to avoid many of the common pitfalls This new edition includes two brand new chapters one taking a deeper dive into the common decision biases among groups in organisations and one looking at remote and hybrid ways of communication and facilitation If you are involved in trying to make risk management work whatever the context this book will provide you with support and practical advice in an approachable way supported by real life examples and memorable illustrations Off Headset: Essays on Stage Management Work, Life, and Career Rafael Jaen, Christopher Sadler, 2022-01-26 Off Headset is a collection of chapters containing essays by a richly diverse group of stage management professionals and educators covering the challenges stage managers face on the job in their lives and in their careers The book starts with the intersectional history of stage managers and the actors union In Part 1 Work the contributors share a wide range of experiences from regional theatre and Broadway
