Mitsui,2025-08-15 The purpose of this book is to reevaluate the dynamic management thought of M P Follett 1868 1933 and recreate it for the construction of a new society after the COVID 19 era Here the focus is especially on the main concept of her dynamic social process concept interweaving and showing its current applicability It should also be noted that the time Follett created this concept was when the 1918 pandemic Spanish flu struck Boston Based on her academic background in political science philosophy history psychology and related disciplines Follett had many years of practical experience as a social worker in Boston and advocated a social view based on the dynamic interaction of individuals It included rebuilding social relations social development as a continuous process and creating a community experience through the interweaving of individual experiences One of the important issues that COVID 19 poses is the breaking and restructuring of human relations in communities and societies The author believes that such an issue could be easily resolved by information and communications technology ICT networks While it is a powerful tool we are now aware that it also has the effect of isolating individuals and inciting conflicts The author applies Follett s ideas to approach such problems In this book her perspectives on the interweaving process of experience and its position are emphasized as important concepts for creating new communities for the post COVID 19 era Expressed symbolically they correspond to interweaving experiences in the internet society Development of Management Education in Nigeria Pita N. O. Ejiofor,1985 Presentation Outlines and Reading List Industrial College of the Armed Forces (U.S.),1964 History in Management and Organization Studies Behlül Üsdiken,Matthias Kipping,2020-10-25 There has in recent times been an increasing interest in history broadly defined among management scholars But what specifically a historical approach or perspective can contribute to research on organizational fields organizations strategy etc and how exactly such historical research should be carried out remain questions that have been answered only partially if at all Building on the authors prior and ongoing work History in Management and Organization Studies From Margins to Mainstream is unique in presenting a comprehensive and integrated view of how history has informed management research with a focus on organization theory and strategy More specifically the volume provides an overview of how the relationship between history and management scholarship has evolved from the 19th century until today focusing mainly on the post World War II period and systematically surveys the kind of research programs within organization theory and strategy that have used historical data and or history as a theoretical construct while also identifying the remaining blind spots As a whole it offers a kind of roadmap for management scholars and historians to situate their research and hopefully find new roads for others to travel The book is intended for anybody conducting or planning to conduct historical research within management and organization studies and aims in particular at becoming a standard feature of research methods courses in business schools and departments of management Managerialism for Economic Development P. Prasad,A.R. Negandhi,2012-12-06 That a developing economy needs management even more than resources is now becoming abundantly clear to all students of growth There was perhaps a facile assumption in the earlier years that the rate of growth in a developing country depended in almost direct proportion to two factors the resources available within the country the land water minerals savings and other relevant inputs and the initial importation of aid from without in terms of capital and skills not available within but the factor of good management was somehow ignored as also the attitudes of the people and their leadership to growth These two factors are now coming into their own as being crucial to development and there is a new appreciation of the need for a good supply of well trained managers and providing them with an environment that is permissive and encouraging These essays are a timely analysis of this new felt need and a valuable source of new leads and hypotheses for they examine the multi facets of the problem of India s growth but with keeping the professional manager squarely in the middle of the study And after all it is he upon whom the major responsibility for development and growth will depend given the chance The contributors to this symposium are seven young Indians all management educators of distinction at universities in the United States and one hopes that they will themselves pick up some of the leads and pursue them P L
