Global Long-term Economic Growth and the Economic Transformation of Poland and Eastern Europe Stanisław Gomułka, 2023 One of the characteristic facts concerning the catching up countries is the exceptionally large variation in their per capita annual rate of growth from about zero to about 10% The papers published in this monograph show that this rate is strongly dependent on the rate of investment the quality of the labour force and the quality of institutions The rate of investment is in turn dependent on the rate of domestic savings In Poland domestic savings are shown to have been and continue to be very low by international standards The trend rate of growth of about 3.7% has been about 2 pp higher than that of the most developed economies mainly thanks to the development of modern market institutions and a new private sector and partly thanks to foreign direct investments and a significant inflow of finance from the European Union EU The data also show that by far the least successful transformation in Eastern Europe has taken place in Ukraine

Author's Introduction Our discussion is limited to the Technology Frontier Area TFA of the world The central question is how the area's innovation rate changes over time in the course of centuries The analysis indicates that the pattern of change of the innovation rate over time may be eventually hat shaped This Hat Shape Relationship is an empirical law that is given a theoretical interpretation It is in part a prediction based on the author's model of innovation and growth Its acceleration and steady growth segments correspond well to the past reality Its slowdown part is the central
