Managing Communications for Productivity Betty Morgan, 1981 Communication in Interpersonal Relationships

Donald P. Cushman, Dudley D. Cahn, 1985-06-30 This book discusses communication principles processes and skills from four different perspectives by explaining four related propositions First human communication is guided by socially established rules the knowledge of which allows interacting persons to exert influence over the outcome of their interactions Second self concepts are formed and sustained in our interactions with others Third the formation of sustained interpersonal relations depends upon the attraction resulting from reciprocal self concept support And fourth organizations and the cultural system provide the parameters within which self concepts and interpersonal relations are formed The implications of these propositions are examined in chapters two through ten The authors develop their system in terms of results What patterns of communication what patterns of signal exchange increase the probability of the development of affective relationship What patterns erode interpersonal systems or prevent them from forming The book also examines patterns of communication within task oriented organizations and in situations involving cultural differences Management Communication:
